Russia Reported Arming Cyprus Greeks; Britain Rushes Troops

By ALEX EFTY

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Britain flew 500 fresh troops into strife-torn Cyprus Saturday as Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home spurned Soviet Premier Khrushchev's charges that the Western powers plotted a military invasion and occupation.

Douglas-Home called them "as offensive as they are unfounded."

The U.S. State Department announced in Washington that a four-man delegation headed by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball was flying to London to speed negotiations for a solution of the crisis.

LONDON (UPI) — Britain pushed its efforts Saturday night to place a NATO 10,000-man peace-keeping force on Cyprus. But the leader of the island's Turkish community demanded partition of the troubled republic and charged that Greek Cypriots were armed by Russia.

Official sources here said there was "a grave deterioration" in the crisis and expressed fears the blood feud between the Greek and Turkish communities would erupt into full-fledged civil war.

Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, vice president of Cyprus and leader of its Turkish minority, told UPI Saturday night in Nicosia that "all hope for peace among Greek and Turkish Cypriots has vanished—the only solution now is partition." He said the Greek majority had received weapons from both the Soviet Union and Egypt.

Bill to Boost Air Academy Strength Okayed by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill raising by 1,888 the authorized strength of the Air Force Academy and the U.S. Military Academy was approved by the Senate Friday.

The measure, previously approved by the House, goes back to that body for consideration of several technical amendments.

Besides raising the authorized enrollments of the two academies to match that of the U.S. Naval Academy, the bill requires graduates of the three institutions to serve at least five years after receiving their commissions as officers. This would also apply to graduates of the Coast Guard Academy.

At present, graduates are required to serve four years.

The Senate Armed Services Committee said the increased enrollments at Colorado Springs and West Point would be gradual, with the academies reaching full strength of 4,417 in 1971. Present authorized enrollment at each is 2,529.

After the first year's increase, which present structures are expected to accommodate, Congress will be asked to provide $40.7 million for construction at the Air Force Academy over eight years. At West Point, $110 million will be asked.

For operating costs, the Air Force Academy will require an increase from the present $28.5 million to $41.3 million. The Army's academy will have its operating budget raised from $28.9 million to $43.2 million.

With only a few senators present, Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., obtained passage of the bill on a voice vote.

Congressional sources are allowed to make 75 per cent of the appointments to academies under the new measure, compared to the present 61 per cent.

$92 Million Are Earmarked for New Warplanes

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—An extra $92 million earmarked for development of a new bomber and a manned interceptor plane was approved Saturday by the House Armed Services Committee. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara did not ask for the money.

The committee threw in the additional sum in authorizing $16.9 billion for military procurement, research and development.

It was the largest authorization ever sent to Congress by the Pentagon because for the first time all research and development funds were included in the same package. These amounted to $6.3 billion.

The committee cut $270.5 million from the Defense Department request, all in research and development areas. The procurement $10.6 billion—which buys the nation's guns, ships, submarines, planes and the like—was not touched.

This is a breakdown of the research and development cuts:

Army—$62 million.

Navy and Marine Corps—$121.5 million.

Defense agencies—$22 million

Air Force—a net cut of $65 million.

A subcommittee had recommended an Air Force slice of $157 million, but the full committee added in the extra $92

Ghana Deports Four Americans As Subversives

By KENNETH WHITING

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Six teachers at the University of Ghana are being deported on grounds of subversive activities, the government announced on Saturday. Four of them are Americans and two of the four are Negroes.

The announcement over Ghana radio said, "Investigation into recent events reveals they were indulging in activities prejudicial to the security of the state."

Earlier, more than 2,000 followers of President Kwame Nkrumah's Convention People's party swept over the university campus in suburban Legon shouting slogans and carrying such signs as, "Down With Bookism."

These events came four days after hundreds of pro-government demonstrators marched around the U.S. Embassy in Accra charging the embassy with spreading rumors and waving signs that read, "Down with Yankee imperialism." The government expressed "deep

By ANTHONY PAUL

But fear not, teen-age America, the physician said Harrison and his three mop-topped colleagues would be able to appear as scheduled Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan television show.

"It's just the transition from London weather to New York weather," explained Dr. Jules Gordon, resident physician at the Plaza Hotel, in ordering Harrison to bed for 24 hours.

The other Beatles — Paul (bouncy Beatle) McCartney, 21, John (sexy Beatle) Lennon, 23, and Ringo (just a Beatle-Beatle) Starr, 23 — were smuggled out a side door of the Plaza this afternoon, but Beatlemania prevailed.

About 200 teen-agers pushed against police barricades outside the usually staid midtown hotel, trying to catch a glimpse of the newly crowned kings of rock 'n roll.

The Beatles, temporarily reduced to a trio, slipped into adjacent Central Park for a picture-taking session with photographers. Then they climbed in a black Cadillac sedan which took them to the Columbia Broadcasting Co. (CBS) studios for a five-hour rehearsal.

Six mounted policemen galloped alongside the limousine. A section of Broadway near the CBS studio was cordoned off and about 500 screaming fans held up midtown traffic on the street.

Garbed in collarless black suede coat, cuffless black stovepipe trousers and "Beatle boots," the group went through two numbers — "Twist and Shout" and "Please Please Me."

Neill Aspinall, 21, road manager for the quartet, sat in for Harrison, plucking at a guitar with the three regular Beatles.

$100,000 Price Placed on 50 Acres at Gateway Rocks

A $100,000 price tag has been placed on 50-acres of land at the Gateway Rocks entrance to the Garden of the Gods and City Council will decide Tuesday if it wants to pay the price to preserve the natural beauty of the entrance.

The proposal to sell the property is one of 24 items to be considered at the council meeting Tuesday.

Egmont Vrooman is offering to sell the property to the city at $2,000 an acre. The land is adjacent to the south line of the Gateway Rocks Road and the east boundary of the Garden of the Gods property.

The Colorado Springs Charter Association has urged the city to take steps to acquire the property to prevent its being developed for commercial or residential purposes, thus destroying, they feel, the natural scenic beauty of the world-famous entrance.

The Charter association made the recommendation last year and reaffirmed its position at

Dutch Princess Renounces Right to Throne to Marry

By ARNOUD DE JONG
United Press International

THE HAGUE, (UPI) — Princess Irene of The Netherlands announced Saturday she has renounced her rights to the Dutch throne in order to marry the man she loves, Prince Carlos de Bourbon Parma of Spain.

Early Saturday morning, Prime Minister Victor Marijnen issued an official communique following a six hour meeting with Juliana at the Royal Palace. It said:

"The princess told the government that she would not seek approval for her marriage by asking for a law of approval to be cast in parliament."

The communique meant Irene had renounced her rights of succession to marry the swashbuckling Spanish nobleman with whom she returned from Spain Saturday.

"Princess Irene intends to live abroad after her marriage," the prime minister said.

For the first time, Irene per-

Judy Garland Taken to Hospital With Concussion

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities at Mount Sinai Hospital said singer Judy Garland was brought to the institution Saturday night suffering with a mild concussion brought about through a fall in her Manhattan apartment.

A hospital spokesman said the 41-year-old entertainer was brought to the hospital in an ambulance and that her condition was good.

The hospital said the singer slipped and fell in the dressing room of her residence.

Last month Miss Garland announced that she would drop her weekly television variety show after March 29.

Officials of the Columbia Broadcasting System said at the time that Miss Garland said in the letter that the show made it impossible for her to give as much time as she wished to the care of her two children.

Last Feb. 14, Miss Garland was hospitalized in Carson City, Nev., suffering with a slight paralysis of the left side.

At the time, a hospital spokesman said it did not "seem to be a stroke."

Cuba Has No Intention of Using Force, Castro Says

By DANIEL HARKER

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro says Cuba has no intention of using force to evict the United States from Guantanamo Bay.

"We are not planning a fight for the Guantanamo base," Castro told newsmen Friday night.

Castro said Cuba's only reason for halting the flow of fresh water to the big U.S. Navy installation was to seek the freedom of Cuban fishermen seized off the Florida coast.

The Cuban leader rejected an interpretation by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk that the water cutoff appeared to be the first step in "a concerted campaign" to evict the United States from Guantanamo.

"We are fighting for the liberation of the fishermen," Castro said. "The problem of the base is part of a series of circumstances that constitute a source of friction and tension between the United States and Cuba and that have to be dealt within the general aspect of these relations."

Castro also rejected a claim by some U.S. officials that he provoked the arrest of the fishermen at a time when the United States was bogged down in a dispute with Panama.

"This has nothing to do with Panama," Castro said. "It is an entirely different case."

Castro said the decision to send fishing boats into the Gulf of Mexico was made Nov. 17, thereby also rejecting speculation he may have decided to put pressure on the United States in consultation with Soviet Premier Khrushchev during a visit to Moscow last month.

Castro met newsmen on a dockside at Havana harbor where he introduced a 22-year-old American fisherman who said he had come to Cuba to seek political asylum.

The tall, blond fisherman identified himself as Dennis Kirby, a native of Vallejo, Calif. He said he arrived Friday night from Key West, Fla., in a 25-foot shrimp boat owned by his employer, the Morgan Sea Food Co. of Savannah, Ga.

Colorado Convict Dies Following Mystery Blast

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP)—Burns suffered in an unexplained explosion in a State Penitentiary cell resulted in the death Friday of Leonard Walker, 31.

Walker was burned over most of his body Thursday. When a guard threw a switch opening his cell door, the prisoner fell two tiers to the floor, his clothes and hair afire.

He died in the prison hospital.

Walker, a former resident of Seattle, entered the prison in September 1960 on a 6-to-12 year sentences for burglary in Boulder County.

City's Largest Subdivision Set for Major Expansion

Fred C. Sproul, Jr., announced yesterday that Bud Shepard, land developer and builder of Shepard Styled Homes, has assumed control of the operations of the widely expanded development program for Pikes Peak Park, the city's fast growing 4,000 acre subdivision in the southeast part of Colorado Springs.

Under the new arrangement Shepard will handle all planning, land sales and development in a move to open the $180,000,000 program to a large number of area builders who will bring housing, commercial and industrial programs into the area immediately.

Sproul Homes, Inc., originators of the large planned community development program, have already added 400 homes in the area during the past two years and have a number of homes presently under construction, thus establishing the basis for expansion to meet the growth requirements of the region during the next decade.

At least six additional builders are now readying 20 new model homes in preparation for a grand opening during April as a prelude to the construction of approximately 400 additional homes during 1964 in the area. First new models and construction is planned to be in the $15,000 to $18,000 price range with planning already under way to expand the large area into higher price sections, particularly along the northern boundary which adjoins Valley High Country Club.

In making the announcement, Shepard said that plans to evolve a well-planned community with diversified land uses will be carried out by him. Land planning will include appropriate areas for single-family and multi-family construction, along with adequate shopping, parks, schools and recreational areas. Plans are being pushed to detail a 500 acre industrial tract near the municipal airport and another 300 acre industrial development on the southern end of the area where rail facilities will be available. A program to meet the growing popularity of townhouse design will be included, as well as SUBDIVISION PLANNED—The area of both present and future development in Pikes Peak Park Subdivision is shown on the above outline map of the 4000 Acre Planned Community Development, located in southeast Colorado Springs. Development of the area has been taken over by Shepard Styled Homes and an expanded building program by a number of area builders is expected to add 400 homes during 1964, along with plans for commercial and industrial development at the same time.

SUPERSONIC LANDING — The Boeing 733, America's supersonic transport as proposed by The Boeing Company to the U.S. Federal Aviation Agency, is shown as it prepares to land at an airport in the 1970's. The sleek 1,800-mile-an-hour (2880 km/h) jet features a variable-sweep wing which is positioned in flight to provide low take-off and landing speed as well as efficient supersonic cruise characteristics. The wing is shown here in the forward position, allowing use of even smaller airports than are needed by today's subsonic jets. The plane will make possible transatlantic nonstop flight in less than two and one-half hours. Principal structure of the Boeing 733 will be titanium. The plane will carry from 150 to 227 passengers in its various versions and fly at Mach 2.7, two and seven-tenths the speed of sound.

Bill Would Negate Cut in Welfare Pay

DENVER (AP)— A bill which would negate a $3 a month cut made by the State Welfare Department in aid to dependent children payments was reported favorably Friday by the Health and Welfare Committee of the Colorado House of Representatives.

The measure, sponsored by Reg Howard, R-Boulder, would appropriate $150,000 for the 30,568 children on aid to dependent children payments.

Howard said that under the present $35 a month payments the mothers can't afford to feed the youngsters properly. The $3 cut was made last December by the welfare department.

Science for You

PROBLEM: The Spiraling Water.

DO THIS: Notice the direction of the spiraling of water as it goes down the drain. Contrary to the statement sometimes heard that it always whirls clockwise in the Southern Hemispnere and counterclockwise in the Northern Hemisphere, it can be seen to whirl either way.

The turning of the earth on its axis can start the spin in agreement with the superstition, provided there is no motion in the water to begin with. But a very slight motion in the water can determine which way it will whirl. The vortex seen is due to gyroscopic action in the water.

Florence Church Remodeling Gets Underway

A $6,500 remodeling project, first in 15 years, is currently under way at St. Benedict's Catholic church in Florence, it was announced this week by the Rev. Kevin Carr, O.S.B. parish priest.

Approved recently by the Bishop's Liturgial committee an Abbot Leonard Swinn, Holy Cross Babby, the project is aimed at improved lighting, interior decorating, and new changes in the church liturgy.

The entire remodeling program, according to Father Carr, is being updated with the idea of combining simplicity with good taste.

Contracts for the project were let recently to Florence Radio & Electric Service, lighting and fixtures; Van's Paint & Glass Shop, interior decorating and window installation; and Joe Fassler, general contractor of Canon City, paneling the sanctuary, building new sanctuary furniture, and new altar construction.

The work on the project is expected to be completed by mid-March. Father Carr plans to celebrate the annual Father-Son Mass in the newly-decorated church by Passion Sunday.

Included in the improvements will be new ruby windows, new furniture for the sanctuary, sanctuary paneling, complete interior paint (off-white ceiling with gold fleck); light rose upper walls with gold fleck; and sepia-colored lower walls with gold fleck.

In addition the sanctuary will be rearranged with Blessed Sacrament altar and the altar of the Mass facing the congregation. The side altars are being removed as well as the baldichans. The wall shrines of the Blessed Virgin and St. Joseph will remain, Father Carr explained.

"The general effect will be to conform with the new requirements of the liturgy as proposed by the Ecumenical Council," Father Carr explained.

It was noted that a number of gifts have been received by the church to tie in with the remodeling work. In addition to miscellaneous cash gifts from a number of donors, four large bronze adjustable flower vases have been donated. Two were donated by Mrs. Frank Witty in memory of her parents, and two were donated by the Giuliano family. Florence Mortuary has donated six large funeral candle sticks, and the Victor Fazzino family has donated a set of new altar cards.

One donor provided the church with a new baptismal font.

Father Carr also commented that when the weather permits the church grounds will be surfaced with black-topping including areas around the Villa Joseph and Villa Maria centers.

Assisting Father Carr in his plans and layouts for the church remodeling were the Very Rev. Michael Jankouski, O.S.B., who served as consultant for artistic effect; and the Rev. Anselmi Amadio, O.S.B., who is a member of the Bisho's Liturgical Committee.

Father Carr noted that when the work on the church is completed the entire project will be paid in full.

"We simply don't start a project in this parish unless we have suficient funds beforehand," he said.

Wilkinson Wants to Be Called Simply Bud

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Former Oklahoma football coach Charles Burnham Wilkinson has asked District Court to change his name to one already familiar to football fans—Bud Wilkinson.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

Perfection of Returns: Here are important points to remember when you fill out your federal income tax return. Be sure all lines applicable to you are filled out accurately and completely. Summary data from attached schedules should be carried forward to the face of the returns. Your identifying tax account number is required on returns this year. Failure to enter it may delay any refund due you.

For an individual this is his social security number or similar number assigned for tax account purposes. If you do not already have a social security number, apply now through an IRS office or Social Security Office. If you receive dividend or interest income, the paying organizations will need your identifying number for reports to IRS. When such a payer asks for your number, supply it promptly.

For business taxpayers, the account identifying number is the firm's employer identification number. Be sure this number and the firm name are given correctly.

WITHHOLDING AND SOCIAL SECURITY TAXES: Employers liable for income tax withheld and social security taxes in excess of $100 for the month of January must place such taxes in a depository. Deposits must be made in local authorized banks, or Federal Reserve Banks, and Form 450 must be used for this purpose. The deposit deadline for January taxes withheld, is February 17th. Circular E "Employer's Tax Guide", which furnishes more detailed information on this subject is available upon request.

CHECKS PAYABLE TO INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE: If you owe additional tax when filing your 1963 Federal income tax return, be sure to enclose your check or money order made payable to "Internal Revenue Service".

LENT
MEMORIAL DAY
THANKSGIVING

For hundreds of years the Christian Church has set aside the six weeks before Easter and has designated them "the Lenten season."

The purpose of this special season is to give Christians an opportunity to recall the consequences of sin and the assurance of redemption. It provides Christian churches with an opportunity to tell the unchurched residents of their communities of the central fact of the Christian faith—the death of the Son of God to atone for the sins of the world.

The message of Lent is to Christianity what a spring is to a watch, what a motor is to a car. Take the message of Christ's life and death out of the Christian religion and you have only a worthless shell.

The message of Lent is still the message of Paul: "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures."

During these weeks thousands of churches throughout the nation are bringing this fundamental Bible fact into sharp focus. If you have not yet found forgiveness for your sins through faith in Christ, we extend a hearty invitation to you to attend our Lenten services.

West German Refugee Minister Quits Post

BONN, Germany (AP)—President Heinrich Luebke accepted on Friday the resignation of Hans Krueger as West German refugee minister.

Krueger submitted his resignation after Communist East Germany brought forth charges that he had committed war crimes while serving as a Nazi official in occupied Poland during World War II.

Carson Officer Is Happy at Reassignment

Second Lt. Edward E. Lindsay realized a long-time ambition when he reported for duty Wednesday, Feb. 5, at Ft. Carson for assignment with the 5th Signal Battalion.

The one -time Ent Air Force Base airman had requested an assignment to Ft. Carson recalling his months in Colorado Springs in 1959 and 1960. He was a member of the 47th Communications Squadron and worked in television maintenance in his spare time.

The new lieutenant earned his commission through Reserve Officers Training Corps at Kansas State College in Pittsburg where he was graduated with a music education degree in January.

He attended the Army Signal School, Ft. Monmouth N. J., as an airman and looks forward to attending officer schools at Ft. Benning, Ga., including airborne training.

Lindsay served a year in Saudi Arabia with Armed Forces Radio - Television Service and has done TV work as a college student.

Both the Lieutenant and Mrs. Lindsay are natives of Coffeyville, Kans., Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lindsay, 1213 W. Second, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCarter, 304 Highland. Mrs. Lindsay and their two children will join the lieutenant when he finds housing. She is a registered nurse.

AFA Captain Commended for TV Course

An Air Force Academy "television personality" will receive the Air Force Commendation Medal for his unusual contribution to the educational program.

Capt. Wiliam L. Frier has been commended for his presentation of a course in Basic Spanish over the Academy's closed circuit TV system.

Capt. Frier skillfully applied his knowledge and linguistic ability in Spanish to adapt course content to a new system of instruction developed by the Directorate of Instructional Research.

Despite very short lead times, he developed a course carefully tailored to the needs of Air Force personnel serving in Spanish speaking countries.

The captain voluntarily devoted many off - duty hours to preparing lesson materials and television presentations and to administering the records of the more than 300 students.

The course was acclaimed by participating students and many visiting educators as a distinct contribution to the field of instructional television.

During the period of the commendation, Nov. 26, 1962, to Aug. 19, 1963, Capt. Frier was assigned to the Directorate of Instructional Research, dean of faculty.

$92 Million Are Earmarked for New Warplanes

million for the bomber and interceptor, so the net decrease was $65 million.

Defense agencies are those which serve all the armed forces and which are directly under the secretary of defense. Intelligence and communications fall into this category.

The new bomber has nothing to do with the controversial RS70 supersonic plane program which has now been cut to a virtual standstill.

McNamara requested $5 million for a study of a follow-on bomber. The committee left that in the bill and added another $52 million. It provided $40 million for the interceptor. If Congress does vote the extra funds, McNamara could choose not to spend it.

The authorization bill sets a ceiling on the spending for the fiscal year 1965 which starts July 1. Later Congress must appropriate the actual funds within that framework.

The exact total of the bill was $16,914,800,000, as compared to the request of $17,185,300,000.

Man Reports Being Chased Home by Another

James Patrick Greene of 2729 Lark Dr. was chased all the way home early Saturday morning by a strange man, police reported.

Green told the officers that he had been in the Gold Nugget Bar on East Colorado Avenue and left at closing time. After he got into his car he was trailed by another vehicle which followed him very closely. He tried to evade the car but finally parked near his home, jumped out and was chased on foot by the other driver.

Green got into his house and managed to slam the door but the man rammed his fist thru the glass shouting "Let me in," and then left.

Carson Man Complains His Coat Was Stolen

A Ft. Carson man who had a complaint signed against him for disturbing the peace and riotous conduct told police early Saturday morning that his light brown camel hair coat worth $105 had been stolen from the Cotton Club, 25 W. Colorado Ave.

Stanley L. Smith of Ft. Carson signed the complaint against Arvee Gene Glasco. He said Glasco had been trying to pick a fight all night while he was in the club and that ultimately a fight did develop.

When leaving the bar Glasco told the officers that his coat had disappeared.

Bounding and crossing the park will be a number of major arterial roads currently being planned by both the city and El Paso County officials. State Highway No. 29 over South Circle Boulevard has just been completed over the Harrison interchange, bordering the development on the west, and linking all major eastern and southern sections of the city. Academy Boulevard and South Hancock Street will both be extended thru the area in the very near future, while plans for other arterial roads going east toward the airport will be implemented soon thereafter.

Land for Pikes Peak Park was originally purchased from the Pring Ranch Co., then owned by Roy and Willet Pring. The 4000 acre site extends from Valley High Country Club to the airport on the east and was first opened for development by Sproul Homes, Inc. when they moved into the metropolitan area from their Security, Colo., development about three years ago. Sproul Homes, Inc. will continue to be active in the area.

Among the first builders and realty companies to join Shepard Styled Homes in the area are: American Builders, Inc., Berger and Berger, Gendron Homes, Guy Graham, Smartt Realty, United Realty, Winters Construction Co. and Willis Agency. Other builders will be joining in the area as plans and lots are available.

Goldwater Calls For New Blockade Of Castro Cuba

President Johnson will do it.

The administration consistently has taken the position that a full-scale blockade, entailing the halting and searching of all ships bound for the country blockaded, is an act of war. The Soviet Union has pledged to defend Cuba against attack.

The blockade imposed by President John F. Kennedy in October 1962 was a limited one.

"Cut off from outside support, and prevented from exporting its subversion, Cuba would be locked in the prison of its own tyranny—and the Cuban people would know that the destruction of that tyranny had gone back on the agenda of history," Goldwater said.

He insisted the United States should use force to end the latest Cuban crisis which erupted when Prime Minister Fidel Castro cut off the water supply for the U.S. naval base on Guantanamo Bay.

President Johnson Friday ordered the base made permanently independent of Cuban water supplies. He ordered also a step-up in economic pressures against Castro, largely through a reduction in the 3,000-man Cuban payroll employed at Guantanamo. There is no threat of a serious water shortage at the base, according to the Navy.

But Goldwater said in his prepared remarks:

"We could have and should have used our forces in Guantanamo to seize the pumping station involved and to restore the supply of water to our men and women there."

Ghana Deports Four Americans As Subversives

regrets" Friday night at that demonstration.

The Americans ordered out are:

—Dr. William B. Harvey, dean of the university law faculty since September 1962, on leave from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

—Dr. Wendell A. Jeanpierre, a Negro instructor in the French language, from New Orleans.

The others being deported are the Rev. J. V. Steward, an Anglican chaplain from England, and Gaston Greco, another French-language instructor believed to be a Jamaican.

The deportation orders were issued a week ago, but university authorities got them held up awhile. University Chancellor Conor Cruise O'Brien, an Irishman, also said he tried to get them withdrawn. He would not comment further.

In Washington, the State Department said, "The United States deplores the action of the Ghana government as striking a hard blow against academic freedom." It said that before returning to Washington on Friday for consultations, U.S. Ambassador William P. Mahoney Jr. had protested against the impending deportations.)

Schuster left Ghana on Friday night, headed for Rome. He told a reporter here he had a mimeographed order to leave on grounds of state security. He said it was not specific and he had no idea what it meant.

"I have had only three public contacts here—my two classes in the university's school of administration and one public lecture on business management," Schuster said.

He is on the faculty of Tennessee State Teachers College in Nashville and came to Africa on Nov. 26.

Harvey, 41, has had malaria and pleurisy. He expected to stay on the campus several more days to recover. His wife and a son are with him. He said there were four other Americans still on the law faculty. He was sorry, he said, for those ordered out, because unlike him, not many others had jobs to go back to.

"It will be hardest of all on any Ghanaians if they are removed," Harvey said, "because they probably can't leave the country at all."

The other deportees were expected to leave over the weekend.

Seidman, 43, said he intended to go on teaching somewhere else in Africa and resume his New England law practice later. He said Ghanaian students were as intelligent as any "and they write better English than most students in the United States."

The Nation's Weather

Temperatures near freezing occurred late Saturday in Georgia, Alabama and also in Florida as far south as the Everglades.

Colder air seeped into the south easterly corner of the country which along with clear skies and light winds made conditions favorable for frost formations.

Snow squalls showed signs of tapering to the lee of the great lakes. Snow flurry activity persisted east to the Appalachians and in Maine. Another snow band of the light side appeared from the Dakotas to southern Illinois.

Showers developed southward thru Missouri into northern Arkansas. High pressure in control over the deep south and far west promoted mostly fair weather.

sonally also issued a statement on her romance.

"I'm glad to announce to you my engagement," Irene said. "We intend to marry soon. I will not live in this country afterwards."

Irene's romance with the handsome nobleman had precipitated a government crisis in The Netherlands.

Recently it was announced that Irene had converted to Roman Catholicism. Sources said the princess' decision to change her religion preceded her romance with the prince, but the news created a sensation in Holland because no member of the Dutch royal family has been a Roman Catholic in more than 300 years.

Irene and her lover returned to the Hague Saturday from Spain, where the princess had been in hiding. Soon after Juliana, the prime minister and other government officials went into conference at the palace.

Irene's announcement to the Dutch people said:

"You should not think that this is a farewell. I have had too happy a youth in the house of my parents, and I have felt your love so often and so strong that I'm not only very grateful to you, but can assure you that I will be often in your midst, because Holland will always remain the same beloved object of my affection."

Shortly before the dual announcement was made, the princess and her tall, slender prince charming made a dramatic appearance in one of the palace windows.

A crowd of more than 5,000 persons who had braved a night of driving sleet and rain at the palace gates while the conference was going on broke into wild cheering. Then the young lovers disappeared from view.

Juliana braved a monstrous traffic jam Saturday to drive to the airport to meet Irene and her fiance. The couple was escorted to Holland by Prince Bernhard, the Queen's husband.

on his charges about Soviet and Egyptian weapons.

He displayed photographs of alleged atrocities by Greek Cypriots. He said they have made their intention clear—"to exterminate the Turks."

Kuchuk said there was "an imperative need for reinforcements for the peace-keeping force" now on Cyprus. It is composed mainly of British troops.

But he hinted that the 10,000-man force would be unacceptable unless it included troops from the United States.

Thirty-three more American families left the island Saturday and another 66 were scheduled to depart during the weekend. About 70 per cent of the American dependents on Cyprus have now left because of anti-American feeling and the bombing of the U.S. embassy on Tuesday.

A source close to the British on Cyprus said "the situation is worsening hourly, particularly in the rural areas." He said a "major clash" was imminent if peace-keeping reinforcements do not arrive soon.

Your Outdoors

By MARY SHIRER

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

WHAT DO WE SEE ALONG THE TRAIL?

When we walk along the streets of New York or any large city, we see nothing but people, buildings that tower into the sky and traffic that keeps you on the alert.

We soon become weary of all the jam and bustle and make every effort possible to avoid it. It is quite a contrast from the quiet path in the park or mountain trail. We get no rest or relaxation walking city streets, yet there may be people that enjoy that very thing. There is an unlimited variety of things to be seen along the mountain trail or while riding in your car yet there are people who never look right or left, their only thought is to climb that high peak.

When we first start out on the trail, we notice the view more than anything about us for as the elevation rises there is a different panorama before us constantly. Then we stop and look back and get the view from below. The next thing which attracts us is the vegetation such as flowers, trees, shrubs and grasses, these of course are summer attractions. The evergreens are wonderful to observe in the winter. Their beauty, shape and location are so attractive.

Nature has a way of placing trees which no human could ever do. A beautiful spruce grows in the midst of large and symmetrical boulders; here and there lovely clumps of aspens and some are mixed with the evergreens. The rocks and boulders along the trail add much to the trip. No two are the same shape and are placed in unusual surroundings. The deep blue sky is always before us especially as we climb in higher altitudes. Sometimes white fleecy clouds go sailing by which are fascinating. The mountain stream which is always fascinating but now frozen over.

We don't know why but the mountain cabin seems to fit in mountain scenery. The old tumble down cabin is always interesting because it leaves much to the imagination. We see the old fire place, part of an old kitchen stove and part of an old table and numerous pots and pans, grass and weeds have grown on the path by the old door. Animals are frequently seen along the trail, it might be the tiny chipmunks, squirrels or a herd of deer or it could be a black bear. The jays, juncos, chickadees, nuthatchs, Clarks nutcracker and many others are always on hand.

There is never a dull moment from the beginning of the trail to the end for there is one interesting thing after another to see. Right now, the snow covered trail adds so much to the beauty of your trip. Yes, we prefer to walk the trail and see the handiwork of nature and receive her warmth and health-giving properties.

OFF HIS FEED

LANCASTER, Calif. (UPI) — A cougar was being sought today in the commercial and residential section of this community.

The greatest concern, however, is not from authorites who gave up an active search Friday shortly after it disappeared, but from owner Harlan E. Crone who said the 3-month-old, 20-30 pound animal might not survive without its baby bottle feedings.

13-Year-Old Girl Tries To Explain Beatles

EDITOR'S NOTE — Many parents of teen-age girls are mystified as to why their daughters have gone ga-ga over "The Beatles," four boys with way-out haircuts and an even-farther-out way of making music. Here's what it's all about—more or less—in the words of a foremost, Gay Stilley, 13, daughter of AP staff writer Francis Stilley.

By GAY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—It's hard to explain what makes the Beatles so wonderful because I don't completely understand why I think they are.

Anti-Beatleites (there are a few) simply cannot understand why other people are crazy about the Beatles.

"Good heavens!" they exclaim. "They're not even good looking." As if that should explain everything.

A friend of mine got so disgusted when people kept telling her the Beatles weren't good looking that she screamed. "I don't care if they're four dogs! Their music is fantastic and that's all I care about."

And their music is fantastic.

To the average adult it would sound like nothing more than a conglomeration of noises, screams, howls and other unclassified sounds.

To the ecstatic teen-ager lying in front of her hi-fi, it's sheer heaven.

Its insistent beat (which is how the Beatles got their name) is great to dance all the latest dances to, including the new one called "The Beatle." Perhaps most important, the songs are about subjects teen-agers can identify with.

What teen-ager, feeling depressed, wouldn't be comforted by the glorious voices of The Beatles singing "Misery?"

The title of one record, "Boys," is enough to send millions of teen-age girls to the record stores. With a title like that, it has to be good!

Whether the Beatles are good looking or not, they're certainly different. They have wild senses of humor. When asked why he wore four rings on his fingers, Ringo replied, "Because I can't fit them all through my nose."

For heaven's sake, I don't know exactly why girls fall in love with The Beatles.

All I know is, when John growls during a song, "Okay, George—give it to 'em," a chill runs down the spine of every girl listening.

TURBINE-HEATED SCHOOL

MCALLEN, Tex. (UPI) — A high school in McAllen gets its comfort from the same things that make a jet go.

The school is the first in the country to use a gas turbine, similar to the aircraft jet engine, for its energy for air-conditioning, electricity, hot water and heating. In cold weather, the turbine exhaust heat from the electricity turbine is used for hot water and heating. In warm weather, the steam is used as an energy source for an absorption chiller for air-conditioning.

Revenue Service Reports Arrests For Embezzlement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service expects to make additional arrests in the next few weeks as it steps up its campaign to root out corruption in its ranks.

Thirteen persons have been arrested this year, including seven IRS employes, in bribery and embezzlement cases. Six were arrested last week in New York City.

More arrests in the New York case are predicted by U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau. Arrests also are expected in other areas.

Mortimer M. Caplin, IRS commissioner, declined to make any predictions about future arrests although he had said previously that the New York investigation is continuing.

Caplin said increased arrests stem from the IRS' three-year campaign against internal corruption.

Attempted bribes have been reported by 126 IRS employes over the past three years.

Of 101 arrests involving internal corruption during that period, 45 were in the New York region. Next highest was Cincinnati with 16. Boston had 9, Philadelphia 8 and Chicago 7.

The IRS conducts about 10,000 investigations and 350 audits a year as checks on its own employes.

AFA Captain Friend of Allan Drury

In 1949, Ted Graves was an employe of the U. S. Senate; Allan Drury, an Associated Press reporter covering Capitol Hill. The two formed a friendship which remains firm 15 years later.

Today, Ted Graves is an Air Force captain assigned to the Air Force Academy Department of Behavioral Sciences as a a course director and instructor.

Allan Drury is still writing — writing now as the author of three best sellers, "Advise and Consent," "Shade of Difference," and "A Senate Journal, 1943-1945."

The two friends will catch up on old times Feb. 16 and 17 when Drury visits the Academy.

In addition to chatting about Washington days with Capt. Graves, Drury will speak informally to the Officers Wives Club the morning of the 17th and then will visit cadet classes in the Departments of English, Political Science, and Behavioral Sciences.

The author will attend the classes only as an observer but will answer questions after each period.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON—At this stage of the critical developments over the strategic island of Cyprus, it is certain that if John F. Kennedy were alive he would have a vast store of personal knowledge concerning all aspects of the problem.

But Kennedy is dead, and how much homework on Cyprus—or any other world trouble spot—has President Johnson been doing? Even if he were inclined to accumulate knowledge - in - depth as his predecessor did, how would he find the time in his already well - filled daily schedule?

It is impossible to imagine the President following the Kennedy routine. For example, JFK was reported to have spent more than 200 hours on the comparatively minor Yemen crisis alone. He developed an expert's grasp of that problem, as he did all others abroad which vitally affected our interests and security.

Certainly Kennedy's intelectual pride and curiosity were distinctive. So was his bent for getting immersed in foreign affairs. Johnson, being true to himself, operates far differently. This has been the fundamental change in emphasis that has come with his occupancy of the White House.

It has its awkward moments, such as Johnson's clear lack of knowledge, at last Saturday's press conference, of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's neutralism idea for Viet Nam.

This is the heart of the sly criticism of Johnson now going on here, particularly as his inherited Kennedy White House aids move out one by one. The reports are that they are disillusioned by Johnson's Texas - style operations.

The President is said, for example, to be more interested right now in projecting a favorable image before the public than in activities which would improve his knowledge of world problems.

Sure he is. But should he be criticized for so doing? What could be more fundamental in a Presidential election year than for a President to concentrate on trying to sell himself to the nation?

FIRST THINGS FIRST IN PRESIDENTIAL YEAR

Therefore, Johnson's first big job is to promote himself. This he has done effectively so far. He is always doing something that stirs public reaction. He is busy on the telephone, either to Capitol Hill or to cousin Oriole in Texas. He squeezes the last bit of juice out of his economy drive by personally cutting off lights in the White House.

He is an all-out activist. It would be impossible to display that Presidntial trait if he were taking valuable hours out of each day boning up on Cyprus, Viet Nam or Panama. If he wins in November, it could be different. But first things first.

If JFK had come suddenly into the Presidency from the Vice Presidency, as Johnson did, he would be concentrating similarly on his political image. He would not have found time to learn all about Yemen in 200 hours or some fundamentals about Cyprus in 50.

So, while Johnson is kept up to date on the most significant foreign developments, it shoud not be expected that at this time he be his own Secretary of State in the sense that Kennedy was. His hand is on the rudder. The responsibility for the course is his. But he depends more on others for compass readings, whereas JFK had a knowledge of the shoals in any tricky navigation abroad.

SENSITIVE TO CRITICISM ON GLOBAL KNOWLEDGE

The President is, however, reported to be most sensitive concerning criticism that compared with Kennedy, he has only a superficial knowledge of global crisis spots. As far as can be figured out, this concern arises mainly because of the effect of such disseminated reports on the Johnson image which must be kept untarnished at all costs.

There was a big effort last Saturday to set the public right about how well versed the President was in foreign affairs. It came in Johnson's long opening statement at his press conference in which he ticked off what we were doing, or trying to do, in six global trouble spots from Southeast Asia to Panama.

He ended up on a "be calm" note saying it was not in the national interest "to create an air of emergency about these or other events."

And in case the people didn't think he was right in the heart of the decision making, he added that "our work proceeds both day and night, quietly, steadily. I believe confidently, and I think the American people have every reason to share in that confidence."

This left the impression that the President was real busy, what with his multitudinous other chores and activities, social and otherwise, working on global matters.

This impression is most important, if for no other reason than that an election is coming up. It is also important, in our opinion, for the White House to clear up certain reports which have nothing basically to do with the political campaign.

One is that Johnson wants only abbreviated typewritten fill-ins on what the situation is in a potenial crisis spot. Not detailed in depth reports giving the background of how the explosive situation developed in the first place. And not a lot of alternative policy proposals encumbered with explanations as to why this or that maneuver could work out this way or that.

It would also help to know on whom the President leans most for advice in the foreign field. He is supposed to be listening mainly to Abe Fortas, an an old FDR hand, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, McGeorge Bundy, his offical advisor, and Secretary Rusk. Whose views finally win out?

We'd also be slightly interested in whatever happened to that big "peace offensive" the President launched last December and which hasn't been heard from since.

'64 Corvair Monza Club Coupe

It's got a frisky new engine
(that puts superior traction under you)

Why? Rear-engine traction. The engine weight over Corvair's rear wheels gives them remarkable gripping power without any assist from special winter driving paraphernalia.

Reassuring to know this time of year—and also in the months to come when all that tidy white countryside turns into a melting pot that's likely to add to the misery.

Another thing about Corvair's engine: It's bigger this year. Nearly 19 per cent more power in the standard version. Which is something you'll appreciate most any time of year, fair weather or foul.

You'll also appreciate not having to fool around with antifreeze. And not having to flush the radiator or fuss with hose connections. The engine's air cooled.

Matter of fact, we have a feeling that if more people knew what a cinch Corvair makes winter driving, there wouldn't be quite so many looking for excuses to duck South this time every year.

But then you never know. Corvair's a real kick to drive in warm weather, too. Why not just try one at your dealer's and decide for yourself? Whatever the weather, it's bound to be a fine day for it.

Most Losses to Frostbite Can Be Prevented

By THE COLORADO MEDICAL SOCIETY

Every winter in Colorado an insidious and silent natural enemy, frostbite, claims victims among our people or visitors who come to ski, hunt, climb our mountains or otherwise enjoy the out-of-doors.

This winter, two young Frisco men each lost both their feet to frostbite in a particularly dramatic and tragic incident resulting from an accident on an adventuresome jeeping trip into the high back country.

Much of the human loss to frostbite is preventable, and it's not merely the severity of the winter weather that accounts for the losses of feet, fingers, toes, hands and, sometimes, lives. The degree of low temperature is only one of the factors which combine to produce frostbite.

A high degree of misinformation about the nature, prevention and treatment of frostbite has increased the hazard, even tho there has been much progress during the last ten years, and in the armed forces during World War II, toward better understanding of what causes frostbite and how it should be cared for.

It is now estimated that nine-tenths of frostbite can be prevented, excluding only those cases in which accidents and injury complicate the picture. The U.S. Army came to believe quite firmly that the condition is preventable; it make frostbite a court-martial disease. For a time it had been the No. 1 cause of casualties in the American and British armies, and waist gunners in the air Battle of Britain, their hands exposed on their guns, had been especially vulnerable.

True frostbite means frozen tissue. Physicians also recognize a milder degree of the conditions, called "frostnip," in which the tissues are not frozen solid.

What happens in frostbite is that crystals of ice form between the cells. As the crystals grow in size, they draw water from within the cells, thus damaging them. No ice forms within the cells themselves, it has been found. Tendors and bones, altho both contain a degree of moisture, are quite resistant to this freezing-damaging process, but nerve, muscle and blood vessel tissues are very susceptible.

Extent of the damage is determined not merely by the degree of temperature but also by the type of cold and its duration. The length of exposure to the freezing temperature is a major factor. Direct contact with cold metal can increase the damage. Wind is another major consideration.

The chilling effect of air at 20 degrees F. moving at 45 miles an hour, tests show, is the same as minus 40-degree air moving at only 2 miles per hour. Dampness of the limb, hand or foot also can encourage frostbite, but, contrary to much belief, humidity of the surrounding air is less important. At freezing temperatures or below most humidity has been crystallized out of the air.

Exhaustion, fatigue, injury, panic and shock can contribute to frostbite in circumstances which are otherwise not severe. Altitude also had an effect, particularly important in Colorado. The higher a person goes, the less oxygen is available to his body. The resulting hypoxia — shortage of oxygen in the tissues — increases the susceptibility to frostbite. In fact, trained mountain climbers, explorers and high altitude skiers learn to breath bottled oxygen as a means of preventing frostbite.

The decline in available oxygen is not the only altitude factor in frostbite. Winter winds are likely to be stronger at high altitudes, the temperatures lower and the "thin" air increases panting, thus dissipating body heat which should be conserved. Altitude can reduce the appetite, and a robust, nourishing diet protects against frostbite.

Altho is it commonly believed that conditions are "warmer" under the drifts, temperatures beneath snow, if there is no wind, actually may be much lower than the air temperatures. This is the reason why feet need more protection and care.

So a combination of numerous factors may be at work to produce conditions which permit the formation of ice crystals in the intercellular spaces of living tissue. In the basic physiology of the situation, the freezing situation develops because the warming circulation of blood to the affected area is impaired.

The small vessels in the outer reaches of the circulatory system close down, constrict, under cold conditions in order to conserve the central heat of the body. Experiments have shown that when the hand is immersed for an extended period of time in water only as cold as a range of 32 to 46 degrees, blood circulation in the hand virtually stops.

This gives us two more clues to the prevention of frostbite. One of the effects of smoking is vaso-construction, closing down of the small blood vessels. Smokers are not more susceptible to frostbite because they have smoked in the past, but smoking at the time of exposure will increase the danger of freezing conditions.

Alcohol, on the other hand, is a vaso-dilator. It opens up the small vessels. But this, too, is a danger under freezing conditions because it increases the exposure of greater quantities of blood to cooling in the extremities and at the surface of the body. Thus, a general reduction of body heat occurs — even tho, temporarily, the alcohol feels warm in the stomach.

Blood flow also is involved in the added danger of cold metal. If cold metal is grasped, the outer layers of tissue may freeze immediately on contact. This produces a sludging and slowing of circulation immediately under the frozen layer. Both layers of tissue then are deprived of oxygen and nourishment, and damage results.

1. If you go outdoors under freezing conditions, be prepared for and aware of the hazards of frostbite.

2. Do not smoke, and do not use alcohol to warm up when the frostbite hazard is high.

3. Remember that it is the intensity of the cold and the time-lapse until circulation is restored that cause the major damage, not just the length of exposure.

4. Individual tolerances to cold are debatable. Eskimos and Tibetans feel cold less but freeze just as fast as anyone else. Be on guard even when you think you're not feeling the cold.

5. A healthy, well-nourished person is less likely to suffer frostbite. Winter outdoorsmen should be in good physical condition.

6. Avoid fatigue.

7. Raise your gaurd if an injury should occur. When a person suffers a fracture in freezing conditions, don't splint the limb tightly. Use padding and support only.

8. Avoid contact of bare flesh with cold metal.

9. Wear proper clothing that doesn't fit too tightly and thus slow circulation. Boots should not fit too tightly. Sox and inner soles should be kept dry. Use mittens instead of gloves, and carry extra mittens and sox.

10. Protect against wind exposure.

11. If you seem to be facing a frostbite threat, avoid deep breathing and panting. You'll conserve body heat by shallow breathing.

12. Avoid over exertion and excessive perspiration. If you find yourself sweating, slow down your activities or take off an outer garment.

13. Be alert. Watch yourself and your companions for signs of frostbite. The most important visual sign is whitness of the part, especially nose or ears. The "buddy system" is an execllent idea for winter outdoor activites; two persons paired off, each promising to watch the other.

14. The two most important elements in frostbite prevention are the heat-producing qualities of the body and the conservation of the heat produced. Do nothing which will diminish the body's heat production. Do everything you can to conserve the heat. Multiple layers of clothing, for example. A windproof outer layer and an inner layer of "waffle" or net underclothes to trap and hold warmth. A body chilled over a long period loses part of its capacity to produce heat. This is why putting a frostbitten person into blankets is not enough.

AMA Discusses Heart Attack Prevention

What can I do to keep from having a heart attack?

This is a question that almost all of us ask sometimes.

Heart disease is a broad term that covers many different types of disorders. Heart and blood vessel ailments are the leading cause of death in the United States. Millions of people are walking around with some sort of heart or circulatory problem. No one can tell you positively that a given pattern of life will prevent a heart attack. There still are many unknowns. But there is enough evidence on the causes of heart attacks to suggest a few fundamentals.

Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, offers some suggestions.

Worry about "symptoms" that may or may not be heart disease is futile. Clear away the doubt by consulting your physician. A regular checkup will enable him to discover budding heart problems early.

Regular, moderate exercise to keep physically fit is advised by most health experts. However, the term "moderate" is important, and plenty of rest to ease the work-load on the heart is equally vital.

Keep your weight down. It isn't too difficult to devise a diet that will provide proper nourishment without adding surplus pounds. Ask your doctor what you should weigh and how to reduce if you're overweight.

Tensions and anxieties often aren't easy to reduce or eliminate from your life. But it's wise to try. Adequate vacations each year are important. A relaxing change of pace on week ends helps.

Research studies have analyzed the possible roles of tobacco dietary fats and other elements in heart disorders. Extensive studies are still under way. If there are doubts in your mind regarding your personal habits, consult your doctor for suggestions on new patterns.

There are some encouraging developments. Most people who have heart attacks recover and can go back to work. High blood pressure usually can be controlled.

Recurrent attacks of rheumatic fever, forerunner of rheumatic heart disease, can be prevented. Strokes aren't necessarily hopeless and invalidism can often be reduced or prevented. Heart defects often can be repaired and sections of diseased arteries often can be replaced thru surgery. Many patients with circulatory disorders affecting their legs and arms are helped by treatment.

President Lyndon Johnson and the Congress of the United States both have officially proclaimed February, 1964, as American Heart Month, with the President urging the people of the United States to "give heed to the nationwide problem of the heart and blood vessel diseases."

You cannot be certain of preventing heart disease. But you can control or lessen some of the factors that often are associated with a tendency toward heart troubles. Your best course is to talk it over with your doctor and follow his counsel.

ADC Appropriation Passed by House

DENVER (AP)—A bill appropriating $150,000 for aid to dependent children was approved Friday by the Colorado House of Representatives' Health and Welfare Committee.

The measure is sponsored by Rep. Reg Howard, R-Boulder, and would eliminate a $3 a month cut made last December by the State Welfare Department.

Howard said the 30,568 children under the program don't have an adequate diet because their mothers can't support them on the $35 the state is now paying.

Freedom for Beckwith Is Sought by Lawyers

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Defense lawyers prepared today for a legal fight to free Byron De La Beckwith on bond pending a new trial on a charge of murder.

Beckwith, 43, a segregationist, had confidently expected to stroll the streets of his hometown, Greenwood, this weekend. Instead he was still in a cell, astonished by a mistrial.

The all-white jury in the 12-day-old Circuit Court trial was dismissed Friday after reporting itself deadlocked. It had deliberated 11 hours.

Beckwith, who is white, was charged with gunning down Medgar Evers, 37, a Negro, state field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mrs. Evers declined comment on the outcome.

Jurors packed their belongings as quickly as possible and left the courthouse. Judge Leon F. Hendrick urged them not to talk to anybody about their deliberations.

The EXCHANGE was only two years old when the cog engine "John Hulburt" made its test run up Pikes Peak back in 1890!

The Pikes Peak Cog Railway, patterned after the famed Mt. Washington Railway in New Hampshire, was started one year after the founding of The Exchange National Bank. Two years later in 1890, the first engine "The John Hulburt" made its first unsuccessful attempt at the "Peak," pushing gaily painted cars loaded with local dignitaries. It was not however until June of '91 that the Hulburt actually made the journey to the top, carrying Denver's Highland Christian Church Choir.

Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

I had a double yolked egg for breakfast this morning which gave me the idea that I should go down to the chicken yard to thank the hen that had laid it for me if I could find the one that had been so kind.

First I spoke to a yellow legged Plymouth Rock, thinking she might be the one. She looked up at me and asked "Was it a large brown, smooth egg?" she asked.

When I assured it was her egg, she said, "Yes I did put that egg out yesterday. I remember it because we hens don't put out double yolk eggs very often. Neither do you men come every day to thank us for our eggs that you have so many mornings.

"You take them on the plate or egg dish and without a thought of us, begin at once to spoil their looks, you stir them up with a spoon or fork and never think of the trouble we hens take to give them to you in so nice a package, the yolk always nearly in the center, surrounded by the white; the shell always on the outside, but if an egg comes to you in any other condition then what a yell.

"We have been told that your wives have a little contraption called an egg beater that causes eggs to become so confused that they don't know or care whether they are fresh or not.

"And there is another thing too that displeases us hens. You gather the eggs every day. That is discouraging to us, since we are trying all the time to collect enough eggs in one nest so that we might start raising a family. Only the most stupid of us can be fooled by a white door knob or a china nest egg, but what can we do? We either steal our nests away from you so you can't find them or else we just go ahead and get broody anyhow and are often for that put into a pen till we get tired of confinement and give up the idea unless it pleases you to allow us to set. Then maybe we are given a setting of eggs, even tho they are from all the other hens in the chicken yard. That's why our chickens are all so different, some white some black and some speckled. No wonder we get mad occasionally and give some of our chickens a good sharp peck on the head or else step on them.

"And there is something else that is unfair. You men spade up the ground for your garden every spring and then throw stones at us if we take advantage of the soft earth in which to do our scratching. Don't you realize that we too have to earn our living and like you just love the soft spots.

"Not being allowed anything but the hard ground for our toe nails, autumn arrives finding us old mother hens thin and tough and just beginning to be proud of our summer's work and proud of our fine young chickens when along comes the housewife eyeing the largest of our brood with an eye to a fried chicken dinner. Do you wonder that we old hens do not go about laughing. We have so little to laugh about.

"We have sometimes heard you men calling your wives and sweethearts 'cute little chickens' which pleases us poultry, but when you are tired and cross and call them old hens, then we wonder if you really ever stop to think how much you owe your chicken yards.

"After three or four years of our passing out an egg every other day or so for your breakfast we get a little over fat and tough, then it is that we are sold to the market or taken to the chopping block to become a stewing hen. In other words the most of us end up in hot water. Nothing for us to giggle about.

"We hens don't mind that you men admire the plumage of the roosters more than you do our more somber feathers, but we know that the life of a pullet is in most cases longer than is the life of a young rooster, most of them losing their heads early in the summer. We can't crow but neither do we have such big ugly spurs, so that we have to walk as if we were stepping on eggs or high heels."

When mother sent you out to choose a young chicken for the frying pan she always said. "Be sure you pick a rooster. I want those pullets for eggs this fall." So she killed off the roosters in the summer.

"We hens know that you men think we are not as smart as you are but at least we don't have a cold war going on all the time. Neither do we build bomb shelters, even tho we do have our fights once in a while but among us hens it is usually when we are broody and fussing about our chickens. Then we do fight a little but of course the roosters have their cock fights. I recall when your mother tried to run a slim young cock in our yard, after she had allowed a pompous old white rooster to run the ranch, and how that big old tough fellow ran that young Rhode Island Red rooster all over the place, and would not allow him to eat when you threw out the grain for our supper. I remember he kept that slim young fellow in the woodpile all during our feeding time and I wondered how he got any grain for himself. Your mother finally had to kill one of them. I have forgotten which one went into the stewing pot. I think its only when roosters get human or men get cocky that there is trouble.

"For years and years your boys and girls have been debating over the questions to which came first the chicken or the egg. We hens cackle over that one because we read our Bible and know that in Genesis chapter one, verse 21 and again in the second chapter of Genesis verse 19. Read it for yourselves, we birds were created before anything was said about an egg.

Court to Decide On Summons for Robert Kennedy

By GAVIN SCOTT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Court Judge Frank Wilson may decide over the weekend if Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy should answer a defense summons in the trial of James R. Hoffa on charges of jury tampering.

Lawyers for the president of the Teamsters Union got subpoenas for Kennedy and two other top Justice Department officials just before court recessed for the weekend. The summonses climaxed a hectic day of name calling by the defense and a near fight between Hoffa and a U.S. marshal.

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington said the subpoenas were unnecessary.

'If the judge decides that the attorney general and assistant attorney general can contribute relevant testimony, of course they will be willing to go to Chattanooga without being subpoenaed," the spokesman said.

Subpoenas were issued for Kennedy, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Herbert Miller, who heads the department's criminal division.

The defense wants Kennedy and the others to appear Monday for a special hearing on its charges that Hoffa and his five codefendants are being spied on by government officials here.

Wilson said he would study the matter during the weekend. Meantime, he said, Kennedy and the others need not heed the subpoenas "until further ordered by the court."

Attempt Reported To Strangle Girl

MALDEN, Mass. (AP)—Police said an attempt apparently was made Friday night to strangle a 16-year-old high school sophomore. The girl, Georgia Ellis, collapsed in the doorway of a home where she had sought help.

Two nylon stockings were knotted around her neck. She later was reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital.

There have been 11 unsolved stranglings of women in eastern Massachusetts in the past 20 months. Knotted nylon stockings were used in many of the slayings.

NSF Awards CU $850,000 Science Grant

The National Science Foundation (NSF) has awarded the University of Colorado an $850,000 grant for the Biological Sciences Curriculum Study, it was announced today. The continuation grant brings the amount awarded to BSCS in the last 13 months to $2,988,710.

BSCS, established in 1959 by the American Institute of Biological Sciences, is a project designed to up-grade the teaching of biology in secondary schools in the United States and other countries. Chairman of the program is Dr. H. Bentley Glass of Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Arnold Grobman is executive director on the CU campus.

Grobman currently is giving a series of seminars in Delhi, India. He is discussing BSCS high school biology materials developed in Boulder for use in the United States and will consult on the possibility of adaptation for use in India.

BSCS has active adaptation programs in a number of countries in Central and South America. The adaptations are necessary because of the differences in flora and fauna between the United States and other nations.

Regular editions of BSCS materials currently are in wide use thruout the United States and are being used extensively by the Boulder, Denver and Jefferson County school systems.

During his current trip, Grobman will visit London, Paris, Istanbul, Delhi, Hyderabad, Karachi, Bangkok, Manila, Taipei and Tokyo. At each of the stops he will meet with interested educators and biologists to discuss the possibilities of the adaptation of BSCS materials.

Senior Students Hosted By Legal Secretaries

By JIM GLEN

Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Six members of the El Paso County Legal Secretaries Association recently played hostess to 16 girls, all senior students at local schools, who contemplate entering the legal profession as secretaries.

The secretaries' association is a non-profit, educational and national organization which helps the bar association recruit secretaries.

The six hostesses, young women who work in Colorado Springs as attorneys' secretaries, were Mrs. Edward S. Pakenham of the district attorney's office, Mrs. Richard Rohrbach, Mrs. Richard R. Best, Mrs. Barbara Tucker, Mrs. John Dunn and Mrs. Ronald G. Naples. They split the students into five groups and then briefed them on the work of a legal secretary.

Some of the girls spent the morning in the district attorney's office with Mrs. Pakenham who showed them the various phases in criminal work and the ensuing procedure from the time a complaint is filed until the final disposition, conviction, acquital or dismissal.

Most of the girls are currently taking business courses and several said legal work held a great deal of interest for them, tho a few confessed they were "just looking."

While Mrs. Pakenham was busy with her group, others were scattered round town in various attorneys' offices with Mrs. Rohrback, Mrs. Best, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Naples learning the intricacies of civil litigation, divorces, depositions and corporation and title work.

Within a remarkably short space of time the girls' six instructors tried to touch on most things a legal secretary comes up against.

After a break for lunch when the girls exchanged ideas and what they had learned that morning, the group went to the Court House to spend an hour and a half with District Judge Hunter D. Hardeman.

He took them into one of the court rooms to explain court procedure, a typical weekly schedule in District Court and how civil and criminal matters are handled. He also led them on a tour spending some time in the clerk's office showing how civil and criminal filings were processed.

Official District Court Reporter Lee Harms who does more than 200 words a minute shorthand and who is solely responsible for making a complete verbatim transcript of all that goes on in open court gave the students some idea of his work. He sketched his background and explained how girls could enter the field of court reporting.

Knife and Fork Club to Hear Chicago Man

One of America's most accomplished humorists, Martin Hughes of Chicago, Illinois, who has made an enviable reputation for himself with forums, ladies clubs, conventions and dinner clubs, in over twenty states, will be the guest of members of the Knife and Fork Club at its meeting Wednesday at 7 o'clock, at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Hughes who started a successful stage career as a character actor, has built a unique program which he calls "Madame Chairman." After the dinner hour, he excuses himself and retires to a dressing room where he dons the costume of the business or professional woman, returns to the dinner room and then begins a hour-length program that has his listeners chuckling and laughing from start to finish.

As "Madame Chairman" he gives his interpretations of a woman presiding at a meeting of her club on its first annual guest day. Using s script of subtle yet hilarious humor, and assuming perfectly the appearance, voice and mannerisms of a woman, he goes through the entire proceedings of a meeting-from call to order to adjournment.

"Madame Chairman" is strictly a Hughes production. Prior to it Hughes successfully entertained audiences with a program he called Countess Pulaski. Here he assumed the roll of a countess and spoke on the subject "My Life as A Spy". Audiences were completely fooled, and only when Hughes revealed his true identity did listeners learn they had been hearing a man instead of a lady.

Actually, Hughes turned to the stage against the wishes of his father who "had just invested a considerable sum of money on my college education." But entertainment was what Hughes wanted to do so he chucked the job he had as salesman-office manager for a commercial photographic firm and started from scratch. His first bit was a little skit in between acts of a play of the St. Louis Little Theatre. It wasn't much but it was sufficient to start Hughes on a successful career which has brought him many repeat engagements during the last twenty years.

Last K-O Polio Program Set for Next Sunday

The final dose in the Sabin oral vaccination program will be given on the last K-O Polio Sunday, Feb. 16.

Dr. William Stone, chairman of the K-O polio program, pointed out that residents who complete the series, will have long term, probably life-time immunity against polio. The length of immunity is not known exactly because the oral vaccine has only been in use for a few years. Immunized persons are also assured that they cannot transmit the disease to others.

Fifty one clinics will be in operation again in El Paso and Teller counties with another 25 open in Pueblo and Fremont Counties.

The clinics in the four county areas are again under the supervision of the El Paso, Pueblo and Fremont county medical societies.

In the Pikes Peak Region clinic hours are from 11:30 a.m., until 4:30 p.m. Nurses, pharmacists, dentists, osteopaths and members of Parent-Teachers Associations will be on duty in each clinic. Boy Scouts will direct residents at most of the clinics.

Everyone over three months of age is eligible to receive the vaccine. Children who have just reached the age of three months may begin the series with Type Three next Sunday. These babies and others who missed one or more doses will have the opportunity to receive the missng doses thru the City County Health Department or a private physician after the prescribed time has elapsed.

"Residents must remember that six weeks is needed between doses for the vaccine to adequately protect the recipient,' Dr. Stone said.

Once again, because of the volunteer help and donated supplies the Medical Societies are offering the vaccine at 25 cents a dose to those who can afford this contribution and at no charge to those who cannot.

Local Hospital Lists Technology Graduates

Three graduates of Memorial Hospital's 1963 class of medical technology students have passed the national certification examination conducted by the Board of Registry of Medical Technologists of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists, Dr. Robert F. Dillon, director of the school, announced today. The graduates are: Kenton D. Harris, Rt. 1, Box 266, Black Forest, Miss Erlinda S. Lam, Passy City, Philippines, and Parkash P. Rochlani, Bombay, India.

They may now place the letters M.T.(ASCP) after their names as evidence that they are accredited members of their profession and of the medical team. Medical technologists work for pathologists and other physicians in hospital and clinical laboratories, doctors' offices, public health and industries, performing the chemical, microscopic, bacteriologic and other laboratory procedures used to detect, diagnose and treat disease.

Memorial Hospital School of Medical Technology is affiliated with Colorado College. Students are admitted to the school with a minimum of three years of college, including 16 semester hours in both biology and in chemistry, a course in mathematics, and such electives as English and physics.

Two students who are currently enrolled at Memorial Hospital School of Medical Technology are James F. Bates of Colorado Springs, and Miss Kaye A. Woodward of Denver.

Upon successful completion of a year's training, these students will be eligible to take the National Registry examination in November, 1964.

The laboratory of Memorial Hospital employs six medical technologists registered under the A.S.C.P. The teaching supervisor at the school is Miss Nadia Babish, M.T.(ASCP), who has been working with Dr. Dillon for 5½ years.

Memorial Hospital School is one of about 800 in the U.S. approved by the A.S.C.P. and the American Medical Association. To receive such approval, schools must have a director who is a medical doctor and certified as a specialist in clinical pathology by the American Board of Pathology. Enrollment may not exceed two students to each member of the teaching staff, and the chief instructor must have had at least three years experience before appointment.

The course of training takes a minimum of twelve months. It includes biochemistry, hematology, bacteriology, parasitology, histologic technique, serology, urinalysis, blood banking, basal metabolism, and miscellaneous clinical microscopy. The subjects are covered by both lecture and practical training.

Graduates from approved schools of medical technology are in great demand by the best hospitals all over the country because of their comprehensive, medically-supervised training.

Memorial Hospital's School of Medical Technology provides a small stipend to defray living expenses. High-standard hospitals do this in recognition of their responsibility for preparing qualified young people with the best education possible to perform the modern laboratory techniques essential in helping the physician diagnose and follow the course of his patients' illnesses.

Woman Who Likes People Helps Clothe Destitute

By BYRON AKERS

"I like people."

The three words sum up the philosophy which guides the life of Mrs. J.D. Kemper, 1331 W. Colorado Ave.

One way her interest in people finds expression is helping those in desperate need to obtain clothing and other necessities.

Thru the Chadbourne Spanish Mission, Conejos and Costilla Streets, Mrs. Kemper has developed a one-woman clearing house for dispensing aid. For a number of years she has been associated with the program of Chadbourne Mission.

Last year Mrs. Kemper distributed 2,300 articles of clothing to the community's destitute. The year before the total was 2,700 garments. Her relief task has been going on for a decade.

The amount of clothing distributed each year doesn't include other help for the needy. She distributes baskets of fruit and food, treats for youngsters at Christmas time and other special occasions.

When dishes or utensils are needed, she sees that the need is fulfilled. The same is true when a family needs furniture — it may be a chair or a complete dining set.

No appeal for help is ignored, whether it comes from a Spanish-American, Negro or white family or individual. Mrs. Kemper's efforts to help others know no boundaries of race or creed.

Whenever a plea for assistance reaches her, Mrs. Kemper and her husband visit the family or person in distress to learn exactly the most pressing requirements and how best to meet them.

If clothing is the primary need, she has the needy come to her home. Then she takes them to a nearby two-car garage in the neighborhood which has been turned into the distributing center.

There the needy person or family can find the needed garments. Some racks carry dresses and coats for women. Others have men's clothing. Still others are for youngsters and youths. If a baby's layette is needed, Mrs. Kemper will find that, too.

She helps the applicants make appropriate selections. She is especially attentive to teenagers to see that garments not only fit but are as close as possible to current teen style tastes.

"Lack of good clothing is often th basic reason for school dropouts," Mrs. Kemper believes. "Teen girls are particularly sensitive about their appearance. If they cannot appear nearly as well as their more fortunate classmates they lose interest in school and tend to drop out."

About a dozen large and small churches, representing several Protestant denominations, are among the chief sources of clothing and other things Mrs. Kemper distributes.

"One of the most helpful contributions came last November from the First Christian Church which held a food and clothing shower," she said.

Numerous individuals contribute their own unwanted garments and other articles and induce their friends to do likewise. Her contacts with Colorado College produce many articles cast aside by co-eds who have not worn out a dress or sweater but no longer want it in their wardrobes.

Mrs. Kemper said she maintains close relations with the Salvation Army, which she describes as a wonderful organization, for the purpose of an interchange of information on those in need and also to avoid duplication of assistance.

Articles for which her applicants have no need are turned over to the Salvation Army or Good Will Industries.

Altho she acts as a clearing house for relief and serves as a one-woman voluntary aid agency, Mrs. Kemper sees the need for a community information center on relief needs.

"Such a center would list those in need so that all might receive the help they deserve. It would minimize duplication which results in some getting more than required and others being overlooked.

"Some years back we had such an information center under the Community Chest. I wish it could be revived. It would avoid, as an extreme example, such an incident which occurred last Christmas when a family, deserving of a Christmas basket, was bewildered when one turkey after another came from individuals and organizations. Each acted independently on the knowledge the family was in need of food at Christmas, but it all added up to 17 turkeys."

In the opinion of Miss M. Ramona Cox, who has given her services to the Chadbourne Mission since 1933, Mrs. Kemper's efforts to help those in desperate straits as "truly wonderful."

Her views are echoed by many individuals and church organizations. They rely on Mrs. Kemper as their distributor in aiding the destitute.

As for Mrs. Kemper's viewpoint:

"I thank God that I have the time and strength to help others. I'm thankful also for the generosity of many individuals and churches. They make it possible for me to be of some assistance to those in need."

AFA Professor Earns PHD at Iowa State

Capt. Barr completed his degree requirements under "Operation Bootstrap," a program which permits Air Force personnel to qualify for their degrees on TDY (temporary duty) at the college or university of their choice.

In March, Capt. Barr will join the Aerospace Research Lab at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, as an instructor for an applied math class.

Commissioner Head Announces For Re-Election

Charlie McDaniel, chairman of the board of county commissioners of Fremont county, this week announced his intentions to seek re-election as commissioner for district one, on the Republican ticket.

The announcement was made to William Stinemeyer, chairman of the Fremont county Republican central committee, and will wait approval of the Republican county assembly to be held this summer.

Opposing McDaniel on the Democratic ticket will be William T. (Bill) Berry, prominent Canon City businessman for the past 20 years.

Also seeking commissioner's post in District 3 are Demos Denzel S. Goodwin, 40-year old resident of Howard and George Rupp, 44-year-old Kerr creek rancher who will vie to oppose long-time incumbent, Finis Parks.

McDaniel has been active in Republican politics many years, serving as precinct committeeman from 1952-1954 and as county chairman from 1954-1960. He was county agricultural agent for Fremont and Custer counties for 11 years and has been produce manager for Thomas and Kirkton since 1951. He is a graduate of Colorado State University.

In making his bid for re-election, McDaniel declared he has worked constantly for the best interests and improvement of all Fremont county,according to the wishes of the people consistent with funds and facilities available.

He noted that county road crews have been working together on important projects in the county for greater efficiency and that over 30 miles of roads were surface treated with oil the past year, while there is constant cooperation with the various city administrations.

He further declared that county money was appropriated for the establishment of a Fremont county mental health clinic, one of the first mental health clinics in the state.

"The county tax levy has been maintained without an increase," McDaniel said. "Fremont county is big business. In order to do a better, more efficient job for the resident of the county, regular weekly meetings of the board of commissioners are now held every Monday.

Additional special meetings are constantly being called to take care of the business of the county. These meetings are always open to everyone who has problems or care to attend.

This is an important change over the custom of only meeting two days the first of the month, which has been the practice prior to this year.

However, the stress of county business and problems has necessitated this change."

McDaniel is a member of the Fremont County Game and Fish Protective association, the Rodeo association, the Quarterback club, Curbstonecoaches club, chamber of commerce, Agricultural committee, Director of the West Central Guidance center and of the Elks Lodge.

"The people of Fremont county have been good to me and my family," he said, "and I have enjoyed the privilege of working for them as one of their commissioners. I will continue to work for the best interests of all the people and to make economical, efficient and wise use of the tax dollar."

VETERAN VET

PROTEM, Mo. (AP) — Frank G. Hodges, 79-year-old veterinarian, is still dispensing advice and aid to area farmers from his "office" in a tiny, century-old log cabin.

The pioneer settler didn't intend to become a professional animal doctor when he took a correspondence course 47 years ago. He only wanted to be able to take care of his own cows. But his services were so often required in the sparsely-settled country that he gradually became vet for the region.

News Media To Visit Springs Monday

Twenty-two representatives of the newspaper, radio and television profession will pay Colorado Springs a one-day visit next week.

The group will arrrive here late Monday afternoon and visit the North American Air Defense Command and the U.S. Air Force Academy on Tuesday.

Eight of the area visitors will be from Columbus, Ohio, and the remainder from New York City.

During their NORAD visit the group will meet the Commander-in-Chief General John K. Gerhart. Members of the NORAD staff will explain the operation of the joint Canadian-United States aerospace organization.

Immediately following the series of meetings they will watch the operation of the NORAD Combat Operations Center from where the constant surveillance of the airways and seaways protects the North American continent from surprise attack.

Tuesday afternoon the group will visit the U.S. Air Force Academy. This group is one of a series arranged by the NORAD Office of Information and the NORAD Region Information Offices in order to keep the nation's news media abreast of the everchanging air defense picture.

The newsman will depart Colorado Springs on Wednesday morning.

Singapore Heir Taken by Kidnappers

SINGAPORE (AP)—The kidnapers of the heir to an Asian movie fortune were reported Saturday to have demanded $166,667 as ransom.

Sources close to police said the first ransom contact was believed to have been made Friday night, following the arrival here of the victim's father, cinema tycoon Run Run Shaw. No details were given.

There was no immediate confirmation from police or the family of 31-year-old Shaw Vee Ming, managing director of the vast Shaw organization.

Young Shaw was kidnaped Wednesday by four gunmen, who waylaid his chauffeur-driven sedan 100 yards from his home. The chauffeur was also seized.

Police remained silent on their hunt for the kidnapers.

Earlier unofficial reports said several known underworld figures were being held for questioning.

Legislators Work Slowly On Major State Program

By GORDON G. GAUSS
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — Colorado's legislature is working slowly on all major programs before it as the second calendar month of the 1964 session began today. The anniversary found the lawmakers in week-end recess.

The court revision program—considered vital to administration of justice starting next January — is caught in the year's bitterest political wrangle. The Senate and House of Representatives will appoint a conference committee to iron out a dispute over the division of territory into judicial districts. At issue is the placing of Elbert County — population 3,600 — either in the 4th district, which heads up at Colorado Springs, or the 18th district, which is centered in Arapahoe County.

Also still to pass finally is the bill revising county courts. It is expected to win quick final House approval Monday unless it is caught up in the district court fight. Senate approval of amendments is likely by midweek.

The Senate State Affairs Committee is showing signs of rewriting parts of the bill revising the method of assessing property for taxation. The Houe already has passed the bill. Sen. Frank L. Gill, R-Hillrose, chairman of the committee which has the measure, indicates it may be reported out for debate next week.

The House Rules Committee is holding the bill to tie the state's income tax system more closely to that of the federal government. There has been no statement from the committee, but apparently the bill will be kept off the floor until Republicans agree on some plan to provide the "cushion" asked by Gov. John A. Love in his budget message.

The Joint Budget Committee has virtually finished work on the so-called "long appropriations bill" which provides for all spending by state agencies during the year starting next July 1. The chairman, Rep. Oakley Wade, R-Las Animas, says the committee's recommendations are very close to the $139.6 millkon asked by Gov. Love. The bill will be ready whenever the legislative leadership calls for it. Uusually its appearance signals the beginning of the end of a legislative session. The bill may show up about Feb. 17. This could mean the end of the session within a week or 10 days from that time.

The Joint Budget Committee also is working on a plan to provide medical assistance for elderly persons with limited incomes who are not on old age pension rolls. The principal stumbling block appears to be drafting a provision which will prevent the program's costs from skyrocketing like those of the pensioners' medicare system. There has been no action on any bill appropriating funds to keep the pensioners' medicare program solvent until July 1.

One bill which Gov. Love considers vital to the state's financial health still is being held in the House Appropriations Committee, also headed by Wade. It is a measure repealing the 1963 act which requires transfer of 5 per cent of all state general fund receipts to the fund for new buildings. The bill has reposed in the committee since opening of the session, but is considered almost certain to pass.

Also, no bill has yet been offered to extend the state property tax as Love asked. Two governmental reorganization bills which the governor wants have been reported favorably by the House State Affairs Committee and Rules Committee and will be on the calendar for debate Monday. One of the bills would combine financial agencies into a Department of Finance. The other would combine several agencies into a Department of Administrative Services. The governor apparently has given up for this session on four other reorganization bills he wants.

Still in the Senate Education Committee is the bill asked by Love to create an 11-member college coordinating council. The committee appears closely divided. It is scheduled to act on the bill within the next few days.

Action appears imminent on a bill placing a limit on charges which can be made against families of patients at mental institutions to pay for their care. The House Committee on State Institutions has conducted a hearing on the measure. It is almost certain to pass in some form.

When the legislature quit for the week Friday, 119 bills had been introduced and 41 had been approved by both houses.

'Falconews' Has Been Named Tops In Its Class

The Air Force Academy's Falconews has been named the best newspaper in its class by judges of the 8th annual Air Force Worldwide newspaper judging contest.

The Falconews, edited by SSgt. Jerry Fears and SSgt. Bill Holland, Office of Information, took top spot in class III — commercial enterprise newspapers serving bases of 5,000 to 10,000 military and civilian population. Commercial enterprise publications are supported by advertising and are produced at no cost to the Air Force.

Sgts. Holland and Fears will receive awards from Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis E. LeMay sometime this spring.

A second member of the information office, SSgt. Phil Atwood, NCOIC of the Visitors Ce ter, also won a first place rating for his efforts in editing the Mesa Missileer Vandenberg AFB, Calif., prior to his assignment to the Academy.

A panel of five civilian newspapermen judging the contest called the 1963 entries "perhaps the best edited, most professionally turned out papers in the competition's eight year history."

Students Told to Send Legislators Message

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — Speakers urged Western State students at an assembly Friday to write Colorado legislators this message:

Education in Colorado is still the responsibility of the state.

Dr. Harlan Bryant, college president, told the assembly the tuition increases proposed by Gov. John A. Love pose the greatest crisis he has experienced in 22 years in education.

He said the governor once told state college presidents it is necessary to close the gap between public and private educational institutions.

Snyder labeled an editorial wirtten by Huston as "provocative, probing and highly effective."

"The Colorado Engineer" has a circulation of 2,200 and is printed quarterly. It includes articles of technical and semi-technical nature as well as editorials, book reviews, profiles of Colorado industries and alumni news.

STUBBORN ULCERS OF THE LEG

There are 80 or more reasons why ulcer develops on the leg. Many sufferers ask the physician for "a good salve," but this is not the answer to the problem so long as the cause remains. In addition, many of these open sores become infected and medication is needed to eliminate the micro-organisms.

A circulatory disorder is responsible for the majority of leg ulcers. In the elderly, this disturbance usually is traceable to hardening of the arteries. Varicose veins are more likely to affect the circulation in younger individuals. Both conditions may coexist but a vein is more likely to be the culprit if it is enlarged and runs directly into the ulcer. Also the skin may be discolored.

Bed rest is helpful when poor circulation is at fault, as it reduces swelling of the boggy tissues. The continuous application of an antiseptic dressing controls the infection. Various antibiotics are used for this purpose but some of the older remedies, such as potassium permanganate, chloramine-T, and Burow's solution, often are effective. Enxymes are used occasionally.

One of the latest treatments reported is a tri-iodide complex, which liberates free iodine vapors on contact. These vapors seep into the affected tissues with ease and are active against a variety of micro-organisms.

The pressure dressing remains popular. First, an antibacterial agent is applied; then a sponge is placed against the ulcer, and the area is bound with an elastic bandage. The pressure exerted by the sponge has a milking action, which reduces swelling while it promotes healing. The gelatine boot and elastoplast bandage are alternate methods.

Surgery also is utilized to correct varicosities. Covering the open wound with a skin graft may save weeks of disability. Cutting certain nerves in the back (sympathectomy) may double or triple the circulation when hardening of the arteries is at fault. Certain drugs do the same, but to a lesser extent.

Breathless

R.C.J. writes: Could severe shortness of breath, even when relaxed, be associated with an underactive thyroid?

Reply

This is doubtful, even tho hypothyroidism leads to marked fatigue. Nervousness, hyperventilation, and an overactive thyroid gland are better possibilities. Heart and lung diseases usually create other symptoms in addition to shortness of breath.

Arm Doesn't Matter

Reply

No. Right or left—it makes no difference. The left arm usually is selected in right-handed persons just in case soreness develops around the site of the injections.

We Don't Know

R. T. writes: Is the actual cause of alcoholism known?

Reply

No. Many theories have been offered but the reason why some turn to alcohol to escape reality is not known. Send stamped, self - addressed envelope for leaflet on alcoholism.

Separate States Is New Idea for Isle of Cyprus

By HAL MCCLURE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Can Cyprus, already divided by bloody communal warfare, be transformed peacefully into separate Greek and Turkish states?

Will the embattled eastern Mediterranean isle turn into another Ireland, Palestine or Kashmir?

The majority Greek Cypriots answer that partition is unworkable and senseless on undeveloped Cyprus.

The idea of partition was advanced by Britain as long ago as 1950 when the island's Greeks during the war for independence from British colonial rule, were campaigning also for enosis—unification with Greece.

After independence was won, the island's constitution ruled out both enosis and partition and in 1960 launched Cyprus on the precarious path that led to resumption of violence last Christmas time.

How they would divide Cyprus is not specified by the Turks. At first they plumped to have the Turk community occupy the north portion lying only 40 miles south of mainland Turkey.

While not abandoning this idea, Turks here and in governing circles in Ankara, the capital of Turkey, now talk of federation, perhaps modeled on the cantons of Switzerland.

First steps towards partition have been taken as emergency measures. The Turk Cypriot vice president of the Cyprus republic, Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, explains them: "Since the recent Greek onslaught against the Turks there has been spontaneous movement of Turks living in predominantly Greek villages to safer areas where Turks are in the majority."

The Greeks here claim the Turkish movement is a calculated step toward partition. Kutchuk denied this, saying: "I doubt whether any of the Turks who have fled from the Greeks will be prepared to return to their homes which have been pillaged and destroyed."

Turkey's Prime Minister Ismet Inonu recently commented that the Cypriot constitution originally envisioned the island republic as a federal state. He cited the document—which Greek Cypriots assert is unworkable — authorizing establishment of separate Greek and Turkish municipal councils in the island's five major towns. Both sides squabbled over this issue and separate municipalities never were realized.

Fighting was touched off in December after the republic's Greek Cypriot president, Archbishop Makarios, announced plans to revise the constitution.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) —Mrs. Ethelrose Porter got "jet" delivery on her Sunday paper. When she went outside to pick up her Tampa paper, she discovered another Sunday paper folded neatly beneath her mailbox. It was the London Daily Observer for the same date. A friend had purchsed it just before departing from the London Airport to New York. Due to the time differential and the speed of jet flight between London, New York and Tampa, he was able to deliver it before the Tampa paper was delivered.

NEW YORK (AP) —The village smithy may not stand under the spreading chestnut tree anymore, but he's still around, at least in New York City.

The city government hires 108 blacksmiths for making and repairing metal parts and equipment in the Fire, Sanitation, Public Works and Highway Departments. The city also employs six horseshoers who work exclusively for the Police Department keeping the 261 horses shod.

Record January Sales Boost Penney Volume

Record January sales helped J. C. Penney Company wind up its 1963 fiscal year with all-time high volume for the 12 months.

The department store chain reported that sales for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1964, reached $1,834,112,313, up 7.8 per cent over last year's $1,701,332,645. The increase amounted to $132,779,668. This was the ninth straight year of record sales.

Meanwhile, January sales of $128,800,447 compared with $110,626,063 for the same 1963 month represented an increase of 16.4 per cent, or $18,174,384.

Major factors contributing to a record January for Penney's were generally favorable weather and a strong promotional program highlighted by the success of traditional January merchandising features such as white goods events and women's coat clearances.

Penney's ended the fiscal year with 1,678 department stores in operation. This figure takes into account the opening of a large new store in McKeesport, Pa., and the closing of a smaller store in Tampa, Fla., during January. There were 1,684 stores on Jan. 31, including the one in Colorado Springs at 19 N. Tejon St.

Automobile Boom Keeps Rolling in High Gear

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— The automobile boom keeps rolling along in high gear.

The industry contradicted predictions that sales would flatten out in January.

The performance heightened expectations that 1964 will be a good business year as a whole.

Automakers sold 565,508 passenger cars in January, up 4 per cent over the 543,600 delivered in January 1963.

This gave them a fast start toward what many expect to be the third 7-million-plus car year in a row.

General Motors Corp., the No. 1 producer, had its best January in history with sales of 310,240 cars, compared with 302,440 a year earlier.

Ford Motor Co. also hit a January peak, its dealers selling 150,204 cars against 138,152 in January 1963.

Chrysler, with a 13.4 per cent increase over a year ago, enjoyed its best January since 1957.

American Motors reported the best January sales in three years. Dealers sold 32,163 new cars, compared with 31,970 a year earlier.

The stepped-up pace of production continued during the week with an estimated output of 167,800 cars. This was up 4 per cent from the 161,407 assembled the previous week and 9 per cent from the 153,981 a year ago.

The steel industry moved ahead hand in hand with the automobile industry, its biggest customer. Steel production during the week posted its fifth consecutive weekly rise. Mills poured 2,217,000 tons of ingots, an increase of one-fifth of 1 per cent over the previous week.

Steel demand continued to surge ahead of expectations by mills. Producers said bookings are climbing or at least holding strong.

President Johnson came to the aid of the consumers when he asked Congress for new laws to protect them against phony packaging and disguised interest charges. He endorsed nine specific pieces of legislation.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson said:

"For far too long the consumer has had too little voice and too little weight in government."

With a surge in December, consumers increased their installment debt in 1963 to $53,745,000,000. The expansion in 1963 exceeded the previous record set in 1959.

Consumer installment debt in December rose $480 million, up from the $383 million increase in November. In all of 1963 the total climbed $5,711,000,000, against a $4,506,000,000 increase in 1962.

New orders received by factories rose slightly in December from November. This key indicator of future business advanced 1 per cent to $35,272,000,000, from $34,953,000,000.

The Census Bureau reported that construction spending in January rose to an annual rate of $65,820,000,000, from $65,463,000,000 in December.

HEADS ROLL

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Gloria and Leon Lamoureaux run their business like others run automobile plants. The big difference is that the assembly lines turns out heads rather than cars, for they operate a Mannequin Factory.

The mannequin head with human hair is used primarily by beauty operators and students. human hair is planted by needle into a skull mold. Shellac, poured inside the hollow shell, seals the hair into place. A second coat of shellac makes it solid and prevent wobbling. The mannequin then gets a shampoo, the hair is knotted on top, and the face is sprayed and features painted.

Sugar Beet Men Elect Canadian

B. E. Easton, agricultural superintendent of the Canada and Dominion Sugar Co., Chatham, Ont., was elected president of the American Society of Sugar Beet Technologists at the organization's 13th biennial meeting now in progress in San Francisco.

The society is the world's largest organization serving as a medium for the exchange of technological and scientific information developed by persons engaged in the agricultural and processing phases of beet sugar production. More than 170 technical papers were being presented at this year's four-day meeting at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

Easton, who will head the society for the next two years, has held the position of vice president since the group's last general meeting held at Denver, in 1962.

More than 600 delegates from 10 nations attended this year's gathering. Countries represented included Canada, the United States, Italy, Iran, Germany, England, India and Belgium.

Lloyd T. Jensen, vice president operations, Great Western Sugar Co., Denver, was elected vice president of the society and James H. Fischer, Fort Collins, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Immediate past president is Guy O. Rorabaugh, vice president, Holly Sugar Corp., Colorado Springs.

Directors elected by society members are: E. M. Daniels, southern agricultural manager, Holly Sugar Corp., Brawley, Calif.; Ronald C. Johnson, assistant director of research, Utah-Idaho Sugar Co., Salt Lake City, Utah; J. L. Porterfield, vice president and general superintendent, American Crystal Sugar Co., Denver; M. C. Henderson, vice president, Michigan Sugar Co., Saginaw, Mich.; J. W. Hall, agricultural superintendent, Manitoba Sugar Co., Winnipeg, Manitoba; R. A. McGinnis, general chemist, Spreckels Sugar Co., San Francisco; and J. C. Tanner, district manager, American Crystal Sugar Co., East Grand Forks, Minn.

Fourth Quarter Gains Raise Maytag Income

An excellent fourth quarter helped raise earnings of the Maytag company 10 per cent during 1963 to a new record high of $14,007,100, according to financial results announced Saturday.

This equaled $2.11 a share, compared with $1.92 on 1962 earnings of $12,731,516, with fewer shares outstanding. There were 6,653,004 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of 1963, compared with 6,628,724 in 1962.

Net sales during 1963 rose 5.5 per cent to $117,249,231, second only to Maytag's 1959 sales record. This compares with $111,150,357 in sales during 1962.

During the fourth quarter, which was the second-best quarter in company history, earnings totaled $3,803,406, an increase of 16.7 per cent over $3,258,009 during the final quarter of 1962. Earnings for the 1962 period were reduced by the taking of additional depreciation allowable under new regulations.

Quarterly sales of $29,917,087 were up 7.1 per cent from sales of $27,923,884 in the fourth quarter of 1962.

Part of the fourth-quarter improvement stemmed from increased sales of clothes dryers, according to E. G. Higdon, president. "A new model dryer introduced last fall stimulated total Maytag dryer sales," he said.

Dividends paid during 1963 totaled $1.65 a share, compared with $1.50 the previous year. This marked the sixth consecutive year in which the amount paid in dividends has increased. Regular quarterly dividends of 35 cents a share were paid in 1963, plus a year end extra dividend of 25 cents.

Local Society Plans Course In Appraising

Southern Colorado Chapter No. 49 of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers will sponsor an intensive 12-week course, "Principles and Techniques of Residential Appraising," on successive Thursday evenings here starting this week.

Classes will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the First National Bank, according to registrar and course coordinator Walter S. Masel, Jr., of 2434 N. Cascade Ave.

The course covers residential appraising techniques, data collection and analysis. Registrants receive textbook and supplementary material and are required to pass a final course examination.

Donald E. Willman, a senior residential appraiser member of the society, independent real estate and mortgage counselor, is course instructor.

Portraits currently used on United States currency were adopted in 1928, according to H. J. Holtzclaw, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Litton Buys Assets of Paper Firm

Litton Industries has agreed to acquire the assets and business of Fitchburg Paper Co., it was announced today by George R. Wallace 3rd, president of Fitchburg, and Roy L. Ash, president of Litton.

Fitchburg Paper Company, with headquarters in Fitchburg, Mass., will contribute approximately $20 million to Litton's sales in this current fiscal year.

Its broad line of products includes reproduction papers for office, commercial and general use; plastic saturating base papers for decorative plastic laminates; standard and special offset papers and converting papers, such as multipart business forms and medical electronic recording papers.

Ash said Fitchburg Paper will continue under its present management, headed by Wallace as president, and will be part of the Business Machines Group of Litton Industries. George R. Wallace Jr., will retire as chairman of the board after 54 years of service with the company.

According to Glen McDaniel, senior vice president of Litton, the acquisition of Fitchburg is subject to the terms of an agreement which requires approval by holders of two-thirds of the Fitchburg common stock outstanding, and by the commissioner of corporations of California. Fitchburg shareholders will vote on the proposed acquisition at a special meeting.

McDaniel also said terms of the agreement for the acquisition of Fitchburg provide that Fitchburg stockholders will receive Litton common stock or preferred stock, or a combination of the two, depending on the choice of each stockholder. The agreement calls for issuance of $15.65 worth of Litton common stock for each share of Fitchburg common stock, or $15 worth of Litton convertible preferred stock for each share of Fitchburg common stock. The Litton cumulative convertible preferred stock will pay an annual cash dividend of $3 per share and be convertible into Litton common stock on a share-for-share basis.

Fitchburg Paper, which will observe its 100th anniversary this year, has manufacturing plants in Fitchburg and Westminster, Mass.; Cleveland, Ohio, and Brasschaat, Belgium, with more than 500,000 square feet of floor space. The company has over 650 employes.

"Our ability to produce new and unusual types of paper will extend the activities of Litton in the business products area," George Wallace 3rd explained. "Our association with Litton will provide many opportunities for us to grow and prosper in the future."

The 'Best' of Johnson's Moves

Periodically thru the years, we have had letters for our Open Parliament section from reader Adolfs Blakis of Madison, Wisconsin. His latest is on this page.

Mr. Blakis, if we may judge his point of view by previous letters, thinks of himself as a conservative. We don't know quite where to assign his present utterance.

Clearly, Mr. Blakis believes that the government should continue to employ all of the millions of people it presently has on the payroll. He does not seem to grasp that a curtailment of government spending in this regard will, without a doubt, increase the amount of money remaining in the hands of taxpayers.

If taxpayers are permitted to handle their own money, they will certainly dispose of it as they see fit. This means that much of it will be spent on consumer goods, some will be saved and some invested. That which is saved and invested will flow back into business and industrial channels, creating more jobs and moving the economy more into the normal marts of trade and more out of the compulsive avenues of the state.

One of our criticisms of the present administration's move to cut the budget has been that it did not seem to be taking comparable moves to cut government spending. But, in his letter, Mr. Blakis is bringing out the most attractive feature of the Johnson program, to wit: a move to cut government spending.

Granted, the Johnson move merely scratches the surface. The total saving in the military area, for example, will be less than $2 billion from a budget that will still include more than $50 billion in military expenditures. But if President Johnson has ever been deserving of praise, it is in this move which is surely headed in the right direction.

The entire merit of the conservative position is to be found in its opposition to government growth, government spending, government dependence. But as has happened so frequently heretofore, whenever moves were made to encourage economy in the government, frightened cries would come from various parts of the country which, in effect, pleaded: "Don't economize on MY pet project."

We had best prepare for reality. If government expenditures are to be reduced in fact, and not just in theory, EVERYONE's "pet project" is going to get a bit of booting. Government economy doesn't begin with the "other fellow," it begins in fact when each of us decides to manage our own "pet project" without government money.

Government expenditures, by definition, can never be productive expenditures. At best, government can only spend money to employ various types of "protection." But even here government "protection" rests upon the taxpayers in such a fashion that they can never be protected in their incomes and properties from their "protectors."

At worst, government can and does spend money for everything under the sun and moon. If conservatives are going to accomplish anything, they are going to have to reduce this spending wherever it occurs, not just in certain places. Conservatives will not be of much assistance if they insist on continued government spending and demand only that THEIR pet projects be supported and the pet projects of the current brand of liberals be boycotted.

We do not believe that much will really be accomplished in this nation towards the establishment of a truly productive and dynamic economy until enough of us learn to call on the market place for what we need and refrain from calling on the government in each and every particular.

The market place produces. Government does not. It cannot. When government becomes a veritable "partner" in enterprise, socialism is upon us. When government presumes to compete with free market businesses and actually runs and owns businesses in any field, this is the fulfillment of the socialist dream.

Reducing government payrolls isn't socialism, as reader Blakis supposes. Increasing government payrolls is.

Constant Flux

It is wholly impossible to chart the future with accuracy if all we can go on are yesterday's statistics. No two events are ever alike. And in the dimension of time, each moment brings an entirely different set of factors which have never existed before and can never exist again.

Socialistic Labor Council

It was not surprising to read in a news article published a few days ago, that an increase in the state income tax was urged by the Colorado Labor Council (AFL-CIO).

The article stated that the council called on the Colorado lawmakers to restore the tax to its position before last year.

"When you consider this, we suggest that rates for all net income reported on individual or joint returns above $20,000 be taxed at a 10 per cent instead of a nine per cent rate," the council said.

It added that: "Without these adjustments, we see no real, legitimate, good government opportunity for your legislative leadership to talk even about a partial settlement of the rapidly expanding requirements of public education in the best interests of our future generations."

The socialistic - communistic nature of labor unions has long been known by informed persons. It has been no secret that one of the most successful of all communist fronts is the labor union. The communists have worked harder and longer to infiltrate these groups than any others.

The reason is simple. Workers must be stirred up to rebel against capitalists for the successful promulgation of socialistic ideologies.

In the words of Lenin, "It is necessary to agree to any and every sacrifice and even if need be, to resort to all sorts of stratagems, maneuvers and illegal methods, to evasion and subterfuges in order to penetrate the trade unions, to remain in them and to carry on communist work in them at all costs."

The trade unions are fertile fields from which to apply the socialistic principle of government aggression by taxation as opposed to the principles of freedom and the concept of the total ownership of private property.

Taxation is simply the application of the socialistic economic theory of sharing the wealth. Socialism, compulsive and harmful, is aided and abetted by any form of government.

When government taxes some for the benefit of all; when it taxes all for the benefit of some; when it attempts to provide something that the people "need," socialism is inherent.

All governments tend to move toward socialism, and the larger and more vigorous they become, the more surely are they practicing socialism.

Governments are allowed by the taxpayers the power to tax. The power to tax is the power to destroy. It becomes the power to destroy incomes. The power to tax property is the power to destroy property, and since income and property are the economic extensions of individuals, the power to tax becomes the power to destroy persons to whatever extent economic considerations are important to life and happiness.

The power to tax in the United States has become the power of a handful of persons to plunder the property of other persons. It is natural, therefore, for the small taxing group to become the target of socialistic groups such as the labor councils, which use all forms of power and influence to further the socialistic premise.

The "capitalist system" which Lenin wished to destroy, is based on the right of an individual to the product of his own labor and on the right to the ownership of property the individual has purchased.

Any effort by government thru taxation can be interpreted only as an attempt to destroy our capitalist system and thereby freedom of all individuals.

History confirms the effectiveness of these means of destroying the foundations of human liberty. And it further records the failures of socialistic nations of the past, in sharp contrast with the human happiness and progress that abound wherever a high degree of human liberty prevails.

Obviously, it is an unfortunate and tragic fact that we are far enough along the road to socialism to allow socialistic lobby groups such as a labor union council, to wield power over the affairs of free men.

The Unemployed Must Seek Jobs

By OSCAR COOLEY

Associate Professor of Economics
Ohio Northern University

Is unemployment voluntary? Do conditions force people to be unemployed, or do many remain jobless from choice?

West Virginia is full of unemployed coal miners, but the Valley Camp Coal Company, Cleveland, has recently had difficulty finding enough men to man its mines near Wheeling. In every city some employers are having trouble finding enough workers, while at the Employment Security office long queues of people line up to collect unemployment compensation.

True, the skills in short supply often are not the skills possessed by the unemployed. How many of the unemployed are bestirring themselves to learn the skills that are demanded?

To find out more about the unemployed and their attitudes, the U.S. Department of Labor interviewed some 3,000, chosen as a sample of the 9,600,000 who were out of work for at least five weeks at some time in 1961.

The results, described in the "Monthly Labor Review" for December 1963, do not indicate that the typical unemployed person is putting forth strenuous efforts to get a job.

For example, only 26 per cent stated that they were willing to take jobs in another part of the country. Mainly because of family and home ties, three out of four insisted on remaining where they were, even though it meant they would continue to be unemployed.

Four out of five said they would accept a job in their home area IF the pay was substantially the same, at least, as they had earned in their last job. That is an "iffy" answer, indeed. It is like a merchant saying, in regard to some long unsold merchandise on his shelves, that he will sell it IF he can get his original asking price.

The wages expected by these 9,600,000 unemployed, according to the survey, were not picayune. The median demanded was slightly over $60 a week. At the same time, the median unemployment compensation benefit being paid throughout the United States was about $36 a week. This indicates that unless the unemployed person could get a work wage about twice his "idleness wage," he would prefer to remain idle. Is unemployment voluntary or involuntary?

Asked by what methods they sought work, the interviewed jobless people most often replied that they checked with the public employment office (they had to in order to collect unemployment compensation) and that they applied to local employers. Few of them had answered "help wanted" ads or applied by letter. Such obvious methods as checking with friends or registering with a private employment agency were "not often used."

Employment agencies, which are found in every city, have as their express purpose the bringing of vacant jobs and jobless persons together. This is their profession. They know the employing firms well — know what kinds of work they have to be done and what skills they require. They make a business of knowing all about the labor market, not just locally but nationwide. They belong to chains and federations that enable them to place people, not merely in local jobs, which at times may be scarce, but in jobs located in distant cities — IF the people are willing to move. Further, the fees charged by employment agencies are very moderate, and in some cases are nil, being paid by the employer.

In view of these facts it is strange, indeed, that according to the Labor Department the services of private employment agencies are "not often used" by the unemployed. Could it be because the jobless persons are, in effect, told at the Employment Security office that they need only check with the PUBLIC employment service? Just as a dog is not inclined to bite the hand that feeds him, so an unemployed person is not likely to spurn the suggestions of the man who hands him his unemployment check.

Commenting on the survey, Labor Department analyst Robert L. Stein said: "In general they (the unemployed) cannot be regarded as personally responsible for their own difficulties, unwilling to accept suitable jobs, more or less voluntarily unemployed and only casually interested in an occasional job." As we read it, the survey shows the opposite to be true.

Unemployment is a serious problem. It will never be solved without the energetic efforts of the unemployed themselves.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 434: "Isn't a person who deems that he is capable to govern people conceited?

"Isn't conceit akin to contempt, arrogance and cruelty?"

ANSWER: Our inquirer is asking us to look into the minds of the individuals. This we do not pretend to be able to do. However, we can make a judgment based on our observations of the acts of individuals who assume to be able to govern others.

It would seem to us that any man who undertakes to rule the lives of other individuals is taking unto himself an aura of infallibility. And since we know of no individual who is infallible, we believe anyone who pretends to be infallible is conceited. And the man who says he is infallible and therefore that he is entitled to rule others certainly is arrogant and shows contempt for his fellow man. His acts of invading the rights of others to use their lives as they believe best certainly can be considered cruel.

We are more inclined to believe that most individuals involved in government are mistaken in believing they have rights superior to rights of other individuals. "Most of the harm in the world is done by good people," according to Isabel Paterson.

Good people usually act for what they believe is the "collective good," and do not realize that collective good is only the sum total of the good of the individuals in the collective. People like Hitler, Stalin and other socialists could not reach power without the aid of good people who believe they are acting for the "collective good."

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

JOBS

To the Editor:

President Johnson announced the goal of 75 million jobs.

"Full employment, nothing less," should be the nation's goal for 1964, Labor Secretary W. Wirtz declared in New Year's statement.

Then started the action to fulfill the goal.

Secretary of Defense R. McNamara intends to close more than 30 military installations cutting out 75,000 civilian jobs. Postmaster John Gronouski has announced the regional quotas for a cut of 5,000 post office employes. Etc., Etc. So, it looks like we will reach full employment by cutting off the jobs, and saving the money for the word the economists call the government. But what is such an action when the government is gaining the money on the cost of the citizens-workers? Is it not state socialism?

THIEF ON THE LOOSE

To the Editor:

If you expect something for nothing, that's your business.

But if you get something for nothing by taking it away from someone else, that's thievery.

When government takes something from someone and gives it to you for nothing, it is thievery, but who is to apprehend and prosecute?

STATE DEPARTMENT

To the Editor:

Just read the article in your paper titled "Johnson Warned on Concessions in Panama Issue."

This article, which started on page one, column four, was very interesting, especially the comments made by Senators Dirksen, Hickenlooper, Russell and Representative Seldon, two Democrats and two Republicans.

All four of these honorable gentlemen were sternly opposed to making any further concession to the Panamanian government.

When the last paragraph of the article was reached, it was sickening. "Secretaries Ball and Mann told the congressional leaders that failure to come to terms with Panama would throw the controversy into the OAS where the U.S. would be at a disadvantage politically."

Of course, accordingly, the two secretaries did not elaborate as to how the U.S. would be at a disadvantage politically. It certainly would not mean in the U.S., for Americans are sick and tired of having us pushed around by "pipsqueak" politicians of "pipsqueak" countries who have been supported by us for the last several years.

The two secretaries must be referring to us being placed at a disadvantage politically from the Communist viewpoint. If this is what they meant, and evidently they did, the time is past due to rid our State Department of the Communist-leaning pair, along with other Communist sympathizers reportedly, at present, in our State Department.

Our policy, it seems, that since World War II we have been bending over backward to appease our enemies in Moscow, when there has been no visible effort on their part to appease any nation, especially the United States. The Communist policy is "What's mine is mine, what's yours is negotiable."

The time has arrived that this country backs no further, in spite of the advice of our Communist leaning State Department officials.

The time has also arrived to get out of the United Nations and tell the Communist element in the House That Hiss Built to close shop and organize in some other country, without the financial support of the American taxpayers. If this glorious day ever arrives, we will find that the respect we did have throughout the Free World, which has been lost, will be restored with jubilation and the Communist victories will crumble to the extent that their leaders will vanish from this earth, as Hitler and Mussolini did, probably in the same manner, by the hands of their own people.

The American Way

Mr. Johnson, Meet Mr. Jefferson

By HARRY T. EVERINGHAM

Every time the Democratic Party has a Jefferson Day Dinner, I have a strong urge, as a Jeffersonian Democrat, to introduce our present leaders to the man who founded the Democratic Party and, in fact, helped fashion our American system as he wrote the Declaration of Independence and was responsible for our Bill of Rights. I think it is vitally important that all America should re-discover and become dedicated again to the ideals and principles of Thomas Jefferson.

Yes, I wish the present planners of our lives and spenders of our money would heed the warnings of this great architect of American government about the dangers of public debt and huge government spending.

ECONOMY

Thomas Jefferson said: "I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared. To preserve our independence, we must not let our leaders load us with perpetual debt. We must take our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude.

"If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and in our comforts, in our labor and in our amusements. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, they will be happy."

On another occasion, he said: "We consider ourselves unauthorized to saddle posterity with our debts."

About states' rights, checks and balances: "I am for preserving to the states the powers not yielded by them to the Union, and to the legislature of the Union its constitutional share in the division of powers; and I am not for transferring all the powers of the states to the general government and all those of that government to the executive branch."

"When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another, and will become as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated."

Of foreign affairs, Jefferson said: "Let our affairs be disentangled from those of all other nations, except as to commerce, which the merchants will manage the better, the more they are left free to manage for themselves. . ."

"I have ever deemed it fundamental for the United States never to take active part in the quarrels of Europe. Their political interests are entirely distinct from ours . . .They are nations of eternal war."

Of government corruption, he said: "In every government on earth is some trace of human weakness, some germ of corruption and degeneracy . . . . . Every government degenerates when trusted to the rulers of the people alone. The people themselves are its only safe depositories."

About government planners, he said: "Government should restrain men from injuring one another, but leave them otherwise to follow their own pursuits of industry and employment."

"Sometimes it is said that man cannot be trusted with the government of himself. Can he, then, be trusted with the government of others? Or have we found angels in the forms of kings to govern him?"

"I think we have more machinery of government than is necessary, too many parasites living on the labor of the industrious."

I'm sure if Thomas Jefferson could speak to us today, he would say, "Let those who use my name follow my principles!"

These Days

'Suicide of the West'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A number of years ago my friend James Burnham wrote a heartening book called "The Coming Defeat of Communism." Now I see that he is represented on the publishers' spring list with a forthcoming title, "Suicide of the West."

I haven't had the opportunity to read Mr. Burnham's latest reflections, but I can see a reason for his apparent change of heart. For 1964 could be the year of the western world's great moral and strategic collapse.

The tendency in this country, is to blame the disarray in the western camp on De Gaulle. Or upon the British. We get angry when De Gaulle decides in his own lordly way to recognize Red China in hopes that France will get something substantial out of it, either in trade or in influence. And we express our displeasure when the British sell 400 Leyland Motor Corp. buses to Fidel Castro's Cuba for $11 million on easy credit terms.

The French and British decisions, however, are effects rather than causes, and there will be many more such symptomatic happenings in 1964 simply because every nation, the U.S. included, has gone over to the "every country for itself" policy. The Japanese, flouting the objections of Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa government, have delivered a Red Chinese defector Chou Hung-ching, back to Peking, which has been taken as an indication that Japan is about to woo Red China in hopes of increasing its trade with the Asiatic mainland. In deporting Chou Hung-ching the Japanese were not breaking any front. They were merely doing what the British government had done in Hongkong when it refused sanctuary to refugees from behind the bamboo curtain.

BROAD HINT

Unlike Britain and Canada, which have never missed an opportunity to make an economic deal with Red China, the U.S. has refrained from giving Mao Tse-tung's government any economic help. But our State Department, through its assistant Secretary for Far Eastern Affairs, Mr. Roger Hilsman, has hinted broadly that it would welcome both a renewal of relations with mainland China and a "Two-Chinas" policy vis-a-vis Formosa. The price of renewal was tacitly set as calling for less sword brandishing on Mao Tse-tung's part. Well, Mao hasn't been threatening De Gaulle's France — so how can we logically berate De Gaulle for doing what we are obviously prepared to do once Mao has decided to be friendly toward us?

We have decided to sell wheat to Soviet Russia, which supports Castro's Cuba. The British have decided to sell buses to Castro's Cuba, which supports Soviet Russia. We stopped the British and the French from defending their contractual rights in the Suez Canal issue. Now the British and the French snicker at us because Panama is calling into question our contractual rights in the Panama Canal Zone. So who has been leading whom? De Gaulle has undercut us in Southeast Asia by suggesting that all of Vietnam might be "neutralized." But the De Gaulle prescription for Vietnam is more or less patterned on our own previous prescription for Laos, which is the country through which Red Chinese aid reaches Red guerillas in South Vietnam's Mekong delta.

UNILATERAL BLAME

The reason for our current troubles is that the whole West, taking it as an entity, has "sold the pass." The West has never had any unified policy toward communism. Now the "sauve qui peut" chickens are coming home to roost. And the U.S. is just as much to blame as England or France or anyone else for the big collapse. Even Franco's Spain has apparently decided there is no point to adhering to anti-Communist doctrine, if the reports that it intends building fishing vessels for Castro's Cuba are borne out by events.

If the "suicide" that Mr. Burnham mentions fails to materialize, it will only be because our Communist enemies beat us to the suicide exit. Fortunately for us, it will take more than 400 British buses and a few Spanish-built fishing vessels to raise the standard of living in Cuba. And De Gaulle can hardly feed a starving China.

They used to say that the "Lord takes care of drunks, fools and the United States of America." Our chief hope for 1964 is that the same Lord will, in his providence, take care of drunks, fools and the whole Western World.

More Re the Ivory Tower

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Probably no one believes we really live in an ivory tower, but the more I think about it, the better I like the idea. Unfortunately, we are fresh out of ivory except for the majority of the piano keys on an old Nathusshek upright which my grandmother purchased in Chicago before the Chicago fire. Maybe the people who refer to ivory-tower philosophers accusingly, mean to suggest a viewpoint or a frame of mind aloof from reality, calm, undisturbed by matters mundane, and I like that idea, too. It fits in beautifully with our ghost town ivory tower, from which we must move occasionally to dispose of our own garbage, tin cans, papers and other trash. Then there's the fact that we concern ourselves with the protection of our own lives and property from fire and theft, when we aren't checking our water supply, automatic water pump, circulating hot water system, picking up the mail, from the post office, unfortunately, and wondering when we'll have a chance to go hunting and fishing.

If the ivory tower conversationalists visualize living in a ghost town as a form of eremitism, they should readjust their sights unless they imagine a hermit living with a wonderful wife who is an excellent cook and baker of fine breads and in reasonably close proximity with a daughter, son-in-law and three great grandchildren or three grandchildren who are great.

Of course, a ghost town ivory tower is a wonderful vantage point from which to observe the paralytic intellectual sloth which is an outstanding degeneracy of our times but even this situation is quite frequently eased by news of odd actions of public office holders. For instance, we heard of legislation pending in several beach cities in Southern California designed to ban elephants from the beaches just because the elephants refuse to keep their trunks up.

The last correspondent who went with the ivory tower philosopher idea reminded me of the young man who accused us of living a life of ease on our "big Arizona ranch" and didn't reply when I told him we'd let him pitch a tent on our 2½ acre holdings providing he took care of his own needs, like water and food and light and heat or whatever.

I will admit, however, that our kind of ivory tower living does provide me with an opportunity to engage in a little contemplative reasoning and that I find it easier to be so occupied here than when we lived in Southern California, altho I guess a fellow could find a few relatively quiet spots if he worked at it, even there.

Oddly enough, it seems easier to actually keep in touch with what's going on in the supposedly civilized areas of the country, from a reasonable distance from the acts of those who refuse to think. Just last night I listened to a public office holder talking about his grave concern with what he called quackery. I chuckled and half expected the interviewer to chuckle also but he played it straight and the worried politician went on and on. Is there any greater quackery in the world than the quackery of a politician either in office or seeking office? Even if he or she doesn't pretend to medical skill, the politician does pretend to knowledge which will enable government to cure all. Yes, you pay attention to such things when you live in an ivory tower in a ghost town, it becomes a habit.

This encourages another habit. When you become accustomed to thinking, you stop wishing for an all-seeing, all-loving, all-knowing human being who will take care of things for you. You begin to realize that politicians at the county seat, or at the seat of state government or in Washington, D.C., can provide you with only a fantastic burden. From the vantage point of this ivory tower you can learn that governments must exist only for the benefit of those in government, since government has nothing but what it takes from you and there are no sirens crying in the distance to take your mind away from the problem, and the illusion of freedom becomes so strong you can feel it when you hold your own hand into the wind.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "It's something to do after 85," explains Mrs. Blanche Morgan, now 93, who finally found time to go back to oil painting again after six decades of being busy in her home.

She painted her first picture when she was 15, but put aside her brushes after she married a cattleman. Now a widow, she renewed her interest in art. She specializes in landscapes, with many of her oils showing the mountains.

Widefield High Windup

By CINDY HUTTER

Queen candidates for the Sweetheart Dance to be held on Saturday from 8-11 p.m. are Lynn McCord, Sue Parneil, Linda Porter and Pat Johnson.

Masters of ceremony for the evening will be senior Curt Howell and Mrs. Irresistible, junior, Mickey Parnell.

The theme of the dance is "Cupid's Caper." Decorations will consist of red and white steamers, a white "stuffed" heart and red hearts with attending couples' names on them. Red lights will cast a rosy glow over the decorated gymnasium to top off the Valentine effect. Cookies and punch will be served. Tickets for the Sweetheart Dance will go on sale Monday. The tickets are to be sold in front of the main office every morning and afternoon and also by individual members of Girl's Club. Ticket prices are $1 for Girl's Club members and $1.50 for all others. Tickets will also be on sale at the gymnasium door on Saturday.

The WHS annual staff has requested that all people desiring a class will to be placed in the 1963-64 annual have it ready by Saturday. Wills may be dropped into the excuse box in front of the main office. All of those who turn in wills will be included in a class prophesy.

The pom-pon girls presented a flashlight routine at the Widefield vs. Brighton game on Feb. 1. Red and green lenses were inserted onto the flashlights. All new members were instructed to wear gold keys fastened around their necks with yellow ribbons for the remainder of the week to signify their membership. CASKET CO. SUES

DENVER (UPI) — A Denver casket company Wednesday sued two city area mortuaries for $800,000 for allegedly condemning the company's product. United Memorial Service Corp., a casket dealer and funeral broker, filed the suit against Capitol Mortuaries, Inc., and Bullock Mortuary, Inc., of Englewood. Three employes of Capitol and Z. Ralph Bullock, owner of the Englewood firm, also were named. United attorney Alex Keller said the defendants had fallen into a practice of "condemming United Memorial" to individuals "price shopping" at the mortuaries.

Wasson High School News

By CAROL JENSEN

Wason's junior class play has been chosen by Homer Paris, the dramatics director. The play, "The Male Animal" by James Thurber and Elliott Nugent, is a satirical comedy. It will be given the nights of February 20 and 21 in the auditorium. The cast for the play was chosen during the semester examination week of Jan. 27. Because of the few numbers of juniors in the turn out for the play, some other classmen have received parts.

The cast includes Alex Asbridge, Jim Bailey, Linda Bratcher, Ken Burrett, Jim Conley, John Corlew, Mark Fleming, Kathy King, Patty Mangone, Becky Maxedon, Tommy McCaman, Kurt Preuss, and Vicky Smith. Vickie Richards will assist Mr. Paris in direction while Lauren Grace will serve as production manager.

The money from the junior class play will go toward financing the Wasson Junior-Senior Prom in May. The prom is traditionally sponsored by money from the junior class, and this money is used for decorations, the band, and the invitations addressed to all the senior students.

Wasson's library will be open at nights starting February 11. These new hours are from 7 to 9 at night on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and will remain so the rest of the year. This new program is designed to help the students in research work where use of the library facilities is needed. It is not designed as a social hour for students, for this will disturb those students interested in studying. The library has received 45 new reading materials, such as science-fiction, fiction, non-fiction and reference books.

The library showcase now has on display a collection of rocks and minerals, many of which are found in Colorado. Along with the specimens are several books that are now in the library. These books deal with geology and minerology.

The third meeting of the Wasson Parents' Discussion Group will meet February 11 in the auditorium. Starting at 7:15, the meeting will be concerned with the "Problems of Boys and Girls." A panel of students will will first discuss the problem among themselves and then turn the topic over to the audience for further discussion. Both parents and students are urged to attend this meeting, for it is designed to help the relationships between the parent and the student. During the announcement period last Wednesday, students were asked to fill out papers with their names, telephone numbers, and any interests their families have in common.

This information will be used for the Tuesday night discussion group.

School was dismissed last Thursday at 11:30 for all Wasson students. The schedule contained first, second, third, seventh, eighth, and ninth periods, each one lasting a half hour and the day starting at 8:00. The reason for this change in the daily routine was Business Education Day.

During this special day, the teachers are invited to lunch by the town businessmen and then spend the remainder of the day touring various local establishments. Last year the businessmen came to the schools for lunch and a visit in the classrooms.

Wasson sophomores voted in their English classes last Friday for their choice of class ring styles. These various styles were displayed in the main foyer and students were advised to check the types and decide on a style of their liking before the voting on Friday.

Wasson's guidance department, headed by Gelorge Dagleish, is planning a special trip for all interested seniors to Colorado State University in Fort Collins, on Feb. 25. Students planning to go should have already signed the list in Mr. Dalgleish's office by this time. The fee of $4.00 for bus fare must be paid by February 14, and a notice from the student's parents must be given to either Mrs. Kilgore, by the girls or to Mr. Funk or Mr. Christensen by the boys before these students will be permitted to go. The students will then receive a slip to take to their teachers, who will okay their leaving their class for the day. The latest refund deadline will be Feb. 19.

This trip is designed to acquaint those students interested in attending CSU with the school, some of the professors, and some of the types of courses.

Assemblies this past week included a Bethany College Band assembly on Tuesday, the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra program on Wednesday, and a pep assembly on Friday. This pep assembly was planned to get the students in the spirit for the Wasson-Palmer game on Friday night.

Sweetheart queen candidates—Misses Pat Bailey, LeeAnn Bashore, Nancy Jewell, Judy Kennedy, and Janie Pryor — will be introduced to the student body during the last portion of the Teacher Appreciation assembly on Friday, the 14. This assembly will be for the teachers and explain the idea of Teacher Appreciation Day at Wasson; a day when students take over the classroom teaching for their instructors. Students interested in doing this job have been able to obtain application blanks from their teachers.

The annual Sweetheart Dance will be held Feb. 15 and will be highlighted by the crowning of the queen and her attendants. Decoration plans are not definite as of yet, but it is known that couples attending the dance will be able to take home paper hearts with their first names printed on them.

Drivers Get Patrol Commendations

Three Colorado Springs motorists last week were issued commendations by the State Highway Patrol for safe driving and will compete for the February Highway Safety Award, to be presented by the Denver Post and Denver U. S. National Bank. They were: Alys B. Sullivan; 650 Shrider Rd.; Pat Kennedy Jr., 1638 S. Cascade Ave., and James T. Berkey, 2,3221 W. Colorado Ave.

State Highway Patrolman J. Fred Henderson issued a safe driving commendation to Jobe Ramey Jr., of Elizabeth, Colo., and State Highway Patrolman Nathan O. Boals of Colorado Springs issued one to Matthew Council, of 3225 Jasmine, Denver.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elderly women are especially liable to injuries from falling reports Dr.s. Alfred H. Lawton and Gordon J. Azar, of the U.S. Public Health Service.

The walking and stepping habits of the older women make them far more prone than men to such accidents, the doctors said. Only in this major accident category do women outrank men at any age.

The investigators said elderly women tend to be bowlegged and to waddle.

"This may alter the angulation of the neck of the femur and make it more susceptible to fracture," they said.

Colorado Teamsters Put Under Trusteeship

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado-Wyoming Joint Teamsters Council 54 has been taken into trusteeship by the Teamsters' Union.

The arrangement means the international organization will operate the council, John S. Hasley of Denver, area director of the labor reports bureau, said.

James R. Hoffa, international president, was one of those who filed a report with the U.S. Bureau of Labor Management Reports announcing the trusteeship.

The reports said the action was taken because of factionalism within the council and because the council was not operating on a sound financial basis.

Charles F. Lindsay, council president, said members of the council and representatives of the international union met and agreed to the trusteeship.

The council regulates about a dozen union locals in Colorado and Wyoming.

House Approves Procurement Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee today approved legislation authorizing $16,914,800,000 for military procurement—the largest for this purpose in the nation's history.

Included is $92 million not asked by the Pentagon for development of a new low level penetration bomber, which would eventually replace the nation's aging B52 and B58 bombers, and for an improved manned interceptor.

The Defense Department asked for $17,185,300,000 on Jan. 14, but the committee cut it $270.5 million.

Its approval was in record time. All the cuts were in research and development funds.

The bill included $6,301,500,000 for research and development. In previous years the Research and Development funds were not included in the procurement bill.

The R & D cuts broke down this way:

Army—$62 million

Navy and Marine Corps — $121.5 million

A cut of $157 million in Air Force research funds had been proposed, but $92 million was added by the committee for the bomber and interceptor programs, leaving a net cut of $65 million.

The vote was 35 ayes and one present in the 50-member committee.

Stock Market Moves To Historic Heights

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street's concern about the spotty price pattern in a typical February proved groundless in the first week as the market, after some hesitation, moved to historic highs in the popular averages.

For the first three tradings days stocks put on a contradictory performance. The list made its first advance of the week Thursday and achieved new highs Friday.

The gain in the averages was chiefly accounted for by advances of pivotal blue chips such as Du Pont, but other statistics confirmed the over-all advance.

Of 1,499 issues traded, 749 advanced and 539 declined.

Senate passage of the $11.6 billion tax-cut measure did not come until after the week's trading had ended on the New York Stock Exchange. But Wall Streeters heeded the progress of the bill throughout the week and some confidence in stocks was attributed to expectation of favorable action.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 3.9 to 293.5, an historic high, as was the Dow Jones closing figure. The AP gain for the week was the largest since the week ended Jan. 11 when it rose 2.2.

The Friday market put the week safely into plus territory as airlines, rails, aerospace issues and blue chip chemicals gained.

Corporate bond prices maintained their upward swing for the fifth consecutive week and the government market was higher for the third time in four weeks.

Underground Vet Group Now Main Party

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Vietnamese nationalist party that has operated since the mid-1930s as a persecuted underground organization emerged Saturday as the strongest political group in South Viet Nam.

Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh reserves the greatest over-all power to himself, as premier in the newly announced Cabinet. But below that post, power is divided between a coalition of generals and top members of the Dai Viet party, with various technicians mixed in to keep the wheels oiled.

But Nguyen Ton Hoan, deputy premier for pacification; Phan Huy Quat, foreign minister; Ha Thuc Ky, interior minister, and Pham Thai, information minister, all were top leaders of the Dai Viet.

Quat, a Dai Viet founder, was a defense minister in the French colonial government while working in the Dai Viet underground. He was jailed by Ngo Dinh Diem last summer.

Hoan was a key organizer of the Dai Viet, joining the party's underground in 1939. An enemy of Ngo Dinh Diem, Hoan went into exile in France in 1954, returning here only this week.

The Dai Viet party from its beginning was anti-French colonialist and anti-Communist.

The Dai Viet was declared illegal by the French in 1951, and has been fighting for survival ever since.

SHOT WITHOUT A GUN

HIGGINS, Tex. (AP) — When a bank president gets shot it is usually when a robber pulls a gun. But Gerald Laughlin, president of a local bank, was shot with a piece of wire thrown from a brush cutter. Laughlin was riding a tractor pulling the brush cutter when it picked up a piece of wire and an inch long piece was thrown with such force it lodged in Laughlin's hip joint. He was able to stop the tractor and climb off before blacking out from pain, but he spent the next six-weeks recovering from the shot.

Romance Foils Star Observatory Work

SANDWICH, England (AP) — Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank radio astronomy center, says observations of a star 10 light years away is being affected by a courting couple.

Sir Bernard said electrical interference, probably caused by the motorcycle of a young man taking his girl friend home, cut into the beam of the giant radio telescope and obliterates the signal.

Sir Bernard made the comment Friday opposing an appeal against refusal to allow residential development near the telescope.

He said of the interference:

"It happens every night at about the same time, and I can think of no other case in which he would allow his engine to die out then to rev it up again.

"We were able to pinpoint the source of interference very precisely. If I could only find out whose motorcycle that was I would get it supressed."

Home Rule Plan Aired at State Meet in Denver

DENVER (AP) — A slightly revised 7-year-old plan under which communities with population of 30,000 or more could become home rule city-county governments was aired Saturday befor a governor's committee.

The plan was introduced by Alex Holland, a Denver attorney. Holland was a city councilman when he first introduced the plan in 1957. The revised edition was explained to the Metropolitan Affairs Committee of Gov. John A. Love's 100-member Local Affairs Study Commission.

The plan suggests an amendment to the Colorado constitution under which communities of at least 1,000 persons could become home rule cities. Areas with populations of at least 30,000 could become city-county governments.

The only city-county government in the state is at Denver. Under Holland's proposal such cities as Aurora, Boulder, Colorado Springs, Englewood, Lakewood and Pueblo would become eligible. All have populations of more than 30,000.

Holland's proposal also suggests that city-county units and home rule cities could annex adjacent areas by means of an ordinance. They would, however, be prevented from annexing home rule cities having a population of more than 5,000, or city-county units.

Under present law, adjacent areas may be annexed only when their residents request it.

The amendment makes no changes in school districts and provides that each city-county unit should constitute a single judicial district.

Said Holland of the proposal: "In union there is strength, and this amendment will provide the tools to meet metropolitan problems."

Oxford Student Learns How to Raise Funds

By TOM A. CULLEN

OXFORD, England (NEA) — To persuade dignified Oxford University to link its name with the mop-haired Beatles, Britain's top pop singers, is no mean accomplishment.

To get Harold Macmillan, the former British prime minister, in one the act is no cinch, either.

Yet a 23-year-old Oxford student named Jeffrey Archer has brought the three together. As a result a drive here to relieve hunger overseas is $1,500,000 richer.

This record sum was raised in just under three weeks for the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief, commonly known as Oxfam. It was done by combining the prestige of the ancient university, the teen-age appeal of the guitar-twanging Beatles and some fund raising techniques imported from America.

Archer, who studied at the University of California for three years, claimed that he learned about fund-raising from Richard Nixon.

"I heard Nixon address a big political rally at the Los Angeles Coliseum," Archer recalled. "He asked everybody in the stadium to raise a $10 bill high above their heads. The response was amazing."

The stocky student remembered Nixon's lesson when Oxfam launched its drive last October to raise $3 million by the end of the year. By mid-November the campaign was bogged down in apathy. It looked as though it would be $1.5 million short of its goal. It was then that Archer went into action.

"The trouble," Archer told the Oxfam committee, "is that you keep hitting up the same donors over and over. Why don't you organize Oxford students to tap the pubs, where the real money is to be found?"

Why not, indeed? Archer had landed a job.

mission from the university's drive. "It took them 60 seconds vice chancellor to organize Oxford's 32 colleges for the pub-collecting campaign. When 3,000 Oxford students went home for the Christmas holidays, they had 12,000 collecting cans in their luggage.

Archer next approached the Beatles to endorse the Oxfam drive. "I took them 60 seconds to make up their minds," he said. The Beatles consented to appear at a rally and agreed to send autographed photos to all who contributed to famine relief through The London Daily Mail.

The response exceeded even Archer's dreams—Over a quarter of a million letters between mid-December and the beginning of January. They contained anonymous checks for as much as $5,600 and contributions for as little as 25 cents, but they averaged over $3 a letter.

There are still thousands of letters unopened, although sorters have been working round the clock. The collection cans are still pouring in as an aftermath of the pub-crawling students. The $3,000,000 Oxfam drive is now well over the top.

Oxfam started in 1942 when a small committee in Oxford came together to raise $10,000 for children in Nazi - occupied Greece. Wars in Korea and Indo-China, the Hungarian Revolution made plain the need for a permanent organization.

Today Oxfam is set up to sponsor long - term, self - help projects in all parts of the world, as well as to help in emergencies such as national disasters.

At the moment Oxfam is organizing a victory banquet for Feb. 21 to celebrate the success of its fund drive. Macmillan and the Beatles have promised to attend.

"If you give young people a cause that's in danger of failing, you're sure to succeed," said Archer, explaining the campaign's success. "This generation is aware—it's damn well got to be—of the world situation. Young people do these dreary, boring jobs because they care. They care like hell.

"Another who cared was your President Kennedy. He may have been a man of your generation, but he was also a man of our age."

Druggist Reports Store Window Broken

H. C. Redinger, doing business as Redinger Drug, 847 E. Platte Ave., told police Saturday that an 8 foot by 5½ foot plate glass window at his place of business was broken sometime Friday night.

He said that the window apparently was broken by a BB pellet sometime before he opened the store for business at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Air Pollution Below Maximum Standard Here

Air pollution in Colorado Springs is somewhat below the maximum standard, according to a report submitted Friday by the state health director.

Dr. Roy L. Cleere points out, however, that this does not mean that Colorado Springs has no air pollution.

"It certainly hasn't reached a serious proportion," the state health director said, "but it certainly should not increase above present levels."

In his report, submitted in accordance with a 1963 law, Dr. Cleere named four Colorado metropolitan areas where he said air pollution exceeds maximum safe levels.

Colorado Springs and Durango were listed as being below the maximum standards.

The report noted that in Denver the amount of pollution in the air exceeds by 80 per cent the air standards beyond which continued exposure could represent a health menace.

Pueblo's air is 60 per cent beyond these standards; Grand Junction is 55 per cent and Boulder 20 per cent.

The report, released by the Colorado Health Department, says also that air pollution causes $125 million worth of property damage in the state each year.

Cleere said the six metropolitan areas listed above contain about 65 per cent of Colorado's population. "The findings," he said, "so far strengthen the department's contention that air pollution has reached the point of being a health menace in Colorado."

He linked the increase in air pollution to the increasing urbanization of the state during the past 10 years — the rise of industry and the big boost in the number of automobiles.

AFA Photo Man Goes Skiing The Easy Way

M. Sgt. Bill Kennedy, Air Force Academy Photographic Division, goes skiing the easy way.

From an old bicycle frame and a pair of discarded skis, the nimble-fingered NCO has constructed a three-legged snow vehicle which, upon appraisal hints both at its ancestry and the fun ahead for those who climb on board.

Sgt. Kennedy received inspiration for his creation from a magazine ad. The price of the factory model — $98 — set him to looking for materials.

Now the hit of the neighborhood, Sgt. Kennedy's sitzmobile provides fun for kids of all ages. Only Mrs. Kennedy has resisted its appeal.

Steered by the front ski, the Kennedy creation is much easier to handle than the conventional "slats" and in case much easier to handle than the conventional "slats" and in case of a small emergency, there's less distance to fall, since the operator is already in a sitting position.

Carson Vets Aid In Expediting Rabies Shots

The animals don't appreciate it but the Ft. Carson Veterinary Section is cooperating with El Paso County in expediting rabies vaccination of all pets living on the mountain post.

First Lt. D. G. Mitchell, assistant station veterinarian, estimates that there are 600 dogs, cats, one donkey and one bobcat in the pet class at Carson registered with the veterinarian.

Post residents are required to register their animals when they move into quarters.

El Paso County requires that all dogs more than three months old be vaccinated by March 1.

CU Student Enrollment at Record High

Preliminary spring semester enrollment on the Boulder campus of the University of Colorado reached a record spring high of 11,288 students, David B. Muirhead, director of admissions and records, announced Tuesday (Feb.4).

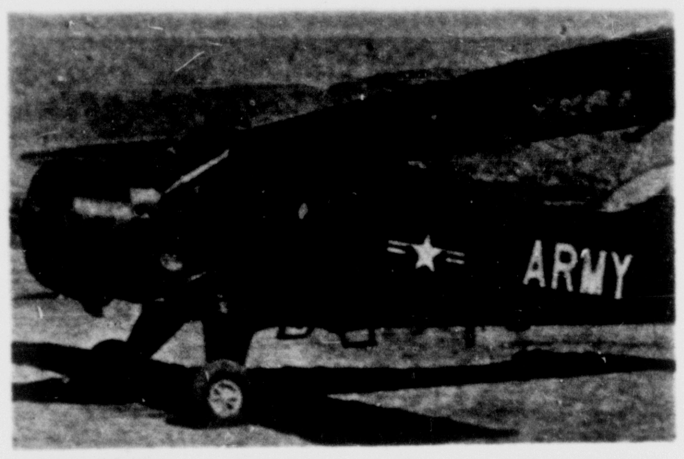
A total of 6,963 men and 4,325 women had enrolled by the end of the regular registration period Saturday. Late registration this week is expected to increase the final total to more than 11,750, compared with 11,439 last spring.

Muirhead noted that for the third year in a row the percentage of continuing students has increased.

He also noted a larger number of new students this spring than a year ago.

Enrollment at the Denver Extension Center through Saturday was 5,827, compared with 4,935 last spring. Of these, 4,841 are for credit courses and 986 for noncredit. Late reigstration is expected to add several hundred to the final total.

Enrollment at the Colorado Springs Extension Center through Saturday was 1,082 of which 827 were for credit courses.



VERSATILE — The Armys' "Beaver" light plane is one of the most versatile in the air today. A day's activities could include air evacuation of litter patients, cargo transport, photography, and supply to units on the ground. The "Beaver" joins many other items of military might in a mass display at Fort Carson on Organization Day, Feb. 14. The public is invited to view the equipment from 9 A.M. to 3 P.M., with a parade at 10 A.M. (U.S. Army Photo)

FRUSTRATING

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Mrs. S. H. Ruppentha, expecting a large number of guests for a cocktail party, had the house all cleaned up. She had paid particular attention to the front entrance, stacking all the "junk" and extras on the back porch.

The day of the party arrived and so did workmen who started to pour concrete for the street in front of her house. The guests had to come by way of the alley and entered through the Ruppenthal back door.

Carson Will Be Site of Power Display

Ft. Carson becomes the scene of a large scale demonstration and display of a mechanized division's fighting power Friday as the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) celebrates the anniversary of its organization as a mechanized combat unit.

"Organization Day" will be the culmination of weeks of planning and effort by virtually every soldier on post. Officials at the mountain post will attempt to present as complete a picture as possible of what it takes to be a modern combat force.

Each major command at Ft. Carson will demonstrate its speciality. Thousands of tons of equipment will converge on the post's Pershing Field south of Specker Avenue where most of the displays will be shown.

Highlight of the day's activities will be a parade in which the division units will pass in review, marching to music provided by the division band. The parade is scheduled at 10 a.m. with the displays open to the public from 9 AM to 3 PM.

WHERE DOES IT HURT?

LA VILLITA, Tex. (AP) — Miss Marjorie Beaird speaks of herself as the chief surgeon, head nurse and orderly in a hospital for dolls, where she repairs and dresses both antique and modern models. She once repaired an 1890 bisque doll that had a walking and talking mechanism indentical to that found in modern dolls. She believes the most unusual doll that has come to the hospital is one that had a heartbeat.

Salvation Army Receives Variety of Donations

An amazing range of articles, from aircraft stabilizers to rare hymnals to railroad spikes are donated to The Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center and form an important part of the Center's rehabilitation program, according to Major Charles W. Griffin, Manager of the Colorado Springs Center.

"There is hardly anything a person could donate to the program which will not be used, and we certainly do get a strange assortment sometimes," Griffin stated. "The odd-ball things we get rarely surprise us now, though sometimes we are very surprised that they sell." A good example, he said, was the aircraft stabilizer that was recently sent to The Salvation Army. "I actually don't know who donated it, and at the time it came in I certainly didn't know what we'd do with it," Griffin stated. "It was over 6 feet long and weighed a couple hundred pounds.

"As far as I was concerned it was nothing more than a mass of iron tubing, weights, electric circuits, dials and electric motors. Believe it or not, someone bought it before it was here too long! I don't know what he could have used it for, but the important thing to us is the cash brought in for our work among compulsive drinkers."

Many items are donated that seem to have no possible use, but are valuable to collectors such as old railroad spikes which are in demand by railroading buffs.

After being mended or repaired, most articles are put on sale at the Salvation Army Thrift Stores, such as the one at 17 West Colorado Avenue in Colorado Springs, Colorado, but one item which won't be sold is a toy snub-nosed pistol. Major Griffin says that it looks so real it could be used in a hold-up.

On the opposite end of the spectrum of donated articles was a rare hymnal printed in 1834. It is a tiny book — not more than 3 inches long and 2 inches wide and one inch thick. Hundreds of hymns are included in the book, which is a Methodist Episcopal hymnal, published before musical notes were ordinarily incorporated in hymn books.

Items of considerable value are often donated, according to Griffin. A Bisque doll for sale in the Thrift Store was recognized by a collector and sold for $100.00.

Many antiques show up among discards, as well as books wanted by collectors. Though not an authority on antiques, Mrs. Griffin, who helps her husband at the Center, has spent considerable time studying with antique dealers and can appraise the value of many items.

An upright clock over 100 years old is one of the interesting antiques Mrs. Griffin discovered in the discards. The clock, which had been in a fire, has been restored to near its original condition by one of the men participating in the program. Ancient gold watches are also donated from time to time.

Other antique and unusual items include a very old phonograph with a missing horn, an urn and base of the type used in the last century for marking graves, and a commemoration picture of William McKinley. There is an antique cup and saucer set commemorating George and Martha Washington. Hundreds of pieces of old China and Glassware from all over the world have come into the store. Mrs. Griffin attributes the large collection of china to the donations from military families who have served in foreign countries.

To Major Griffin, the assortment of exotic and rare articles are pure bonuses which help immeasurably. "But," he said, "what we need most to carry on work at the Center — and these are the major portion of the articles contributed — are usual repairable and reusable items of clothing, pieces of furniture, chests of drawers, beds, tables, dinette sets, radios, TV sets, and kitchen appliances."

"The usual household items are the foundation of the rehabilitation program of The Salvation Army Men's Service Center. Repairing and mending them for sale provides work which is therapy for the men and helps them return to a useful place in society," Griffin said.

Sale of articles provides funds to maintain the Center, where men in the program receive housing, food, recreation, and psychological and spiritual help. The men who are admitted to the program are homeless men, 90 per cent of them with a drinking problem. They come from all of Southern Colorado and are given a home at the Center located at Cascade and Cusharras in Colorado Springs.

"Last year, help received at the Center enabled 29 men to win in their fight against a serious drinking problem and return to a normal life. Our work is very gratifying. Just the other day, one of the men who had been at the Center came in to thank us and tell us that he had been working regularly for a year and had solved his drinking problem," Major Griffin stated. "In this coming year we want to be able to help many more. We can do this only if people in the community donate re-usable articles to the program. This is the only help we ask, but it is crucial to the continuance of the program."

The Salvation Army maintains trucks which make regular trips in most Southern Colorado towns for at-the-door pickup of articles to be contributed to the program. Persons wishing to donate re-usable discards can have them picked up by calling 633-4697 in Colorado Springs.

DO-IT-YOURSELF MAN

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — John Soft, 74-year-old retired painter and carpenter, has wanted his own pipe organ ever since he can remember and now he finally has one—a miniature he built himself.

The replica, complete in every detail, houses a hidden phonograph. Says the one-time organ teacher and music director at several local churches: "I always figured when I got older and richer I'd buy a pipe organ. Well, I got older but I didn't get richer. So I decided to build one."

Final Action Planned for Tax Cut Bill

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders, spurred on by President Johnson, today fixed Feb. 19 or 20 as the goal for final action on the largest tax cut in U.S. history.

The benefits, including more dollars in take-home pay, would begin about the first of March.

The Senate passed its $11.6-billion version of the legislation Friday, 77 to 21, well ahead of the original Feb. 11 deadline fixed by its leaders.

Even before the final vote, Johnson was conferring with his Capitol Hill lieutenants about speeding up plans for the Senate-House conference to reconcile the differences between the two chambers' versions.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., who heads the Senate delegation, told a reporter it was decided to begin the conference next Monday instead of Feb. 17 as planned earlier.

He said that the conferees could meet only on Monday and Tuesday next week since Republicans will be leaving town for Lincoln Day speeches.

But he said the explanation of what changes the Senate made in the $11.1-billion version passed by the House would be covered in those two days, so that voting can start when the conference reconvenes on Feb. 17.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., another conferee, said that under this schedule the Senate-House group should be able to come up with compromise bill by Feb. 18 or 19. A final vote could come one day later.

If this schedule is met, the benefits of the bill should start flowing about March 1. The Senate version provides that the reduction in wage and salary withholding to reflect the cuts in income tax rates shall begin one week after the bill is signed.

The Senate completed its consideration of the bill in seven days, four of them involving night sessions. On the final vote, 56 Democrats and 21 Republicans supported the bill. Opposed were 11 Democrats, including eight Southerners, and 10 Republicans.

The House and Senate versions are identical in their rate reductions for the nation's 80 million individual and 550,000 corporate taxpayers. Thus there is no question of their eventual adoption.

The Senate bill, however, would immediately cut the 18 per cent withholding rate to 14 per cent instead of to 15 per cent as voted by the House.

House managers have indicated that they will go along with the lower rate, which was asked by Johnson, but perhaps insist that companies be given longer than one week to put it into effect in issuing pay checks. Many firms have said it is impossible to do it in a week.

When the 14 per cent rate takes effect, it will pour an additional $800 million a month into the economy. The administration is counting on this to stimulate economic growth, create more jobs and bring in additional tax revenue.

BACK TO SCHOOL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 20,000 secondary school teachers of science and mathematics from across the nation will return to school this summer.

They will attend 439 National Science Foundation institutes designed to renew their knowledge of fundamental concepts, acquaint them with recent developments and advances, and familarize them with new approaches to the presentation of their subjects.

Church Group Urges Aid for Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Federal aid to parochial schools, opposed by Protestant leaders for decades, has received support on a limited basis from delegates representing more than 40 million church members outside Roman Catholicism.

The National Council of Churches' conference on church and state, attended by representatives of 24 Protestant and Orthodox churches in the United States, went on record Friday in favor of a limited federal aid program for church-aided schools.

The action, not binding on the parent organization, came in concluding sessions of a week-long conference.

The more than 200 churchmen attending limited their support to specific health and welfare programs in primary and secondary schools.

The Protestant clergymen and lay leaders rejected by a narrow margin a proposed amendment to limit their support of such federal aid to "existing federal programs."

In a noisy debate prior to adoption of the general findings, the churchmen approved a policy statement supporting health and welfare programs "conducted by parochial institutions to meet particular public needs."

The delegates reaffirmed their opposition to the use of government funds to support religious teaching.

TRUE FAIRY TALE

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Linda Marie Johnson, 11, may not be a princess, but she has a castle of her very own. She won it when her name was picked from more than 42,000 entries in a drawing.

It took two trucks to deliver the castle, which is 12 feet by 10 feet by 16 feet. It is made of half-inch outdoor plywood, cost $1,500 to build and took four men six hours to re-erect in the Henry E. Johnson Jr. backyard. Linda intends to keep her dolls in it but her brothers, Dick, 8, and Hank, 10, think it would make a dandy fort.

Manitou High School News

By JOY BORMANN

Ann Nichols, MHS senior, won the Manitou division of the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Contest. Her test will be entered in state competition.

The Aristonian Club met Thursday and discussed club pins and the dance which will be held March 10. The officers are president, Roxanne Hunt; vice president, Vicki Danner, secretary, Betsy Norris, treasurer, Roberta Haynes, and Student Council representative, Lynne Osburn.

Rocky Arnott and Jody Gayler were chosen outstanding seniors. The faculty chose them by judging on school participation.

Jody Gayler was also chosen DAR good citizen. First the senior class selected three girls and out of these three the top one was chosen by the faculty.

The "C" squad Mustangs had action this week with Fountain on Wednesday.

The Student Council met on Jan. 31 and Tuesday. Things discussed and decided were: Entertainment for the exchange students, a candy sale on Wednesday, with Judy Bonke heading the committee, the "I am for Manitou" ribbons were sold by the cheerleaders, the "Save the Children Federation" drive which officially started Thursday Feb. 6, and the three one-act plays.

The casts for two of the plays as announced by Mrs. Cynthia Estes on Jan. 24 is as follows:

There are 21 characters in "The Lottery" by Brainard Duffield. The setting of this play is a small village. The people have always had a lottery. It is a custom. But the customs they have had so long seem to be very evil.

Their brother returns home for his share of the land to find he has been cheated by his sister. The latter part of the play is both mysterious and funny.

Dunbar Warns Drivers to Keep Their Distance

Keep your distance!

This advice was directed to drivers this week from the office of Attorney General Duke W. Dunbar, on behalf of the Colorado Highway Safety Council.

"Maintaining a reasonable and prudent interval between moving vehicles is essential for providing an efficient flow of traffic," he declared.

"On dry roads, a commonly-accepted rule of thumb is one car-length of distance for every 10 miles per hour of speed. Under winter driving conditions, the interval between moving vehicles must be far greater than normal."

"Snow and ice increase stopping distance by three to twelve times over that required on dry pavement," Dunbar said. He also pointed out that snow and ice are far more hazardous when the temperature is near the freezing mark. At these upper temperatures, a hard-packed snow or ice becomes glazed and is really treacherous. "The best advice is to get the 'feel' of the road before starting out so that you will know just how slippery the pavement is," Attorney General Dunbar added.

MANAGER GETS CLIPPED

INDIANOLA, Iowa (UPI) — The mechanical age finally caught up with Kenneth Hatcher, manager of the local agricultural stabilization and conservation service office.

He put in an order for 5,000 paper clips but due to an overzealous electronic billing machine he received 5 million clips. They arrived by semi-trailer and weighed nearly five tons.

Amish Life Ways Explored in New Book

By LYNN POOLE
The Johns Hopkins University

Drive thru the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country in the southeastern part of that state and eventually you will come upon a horse and buggy containing quaint-looking riders dressed in funereal black — the men with beards and broad-brimmed hats, the women wearing sunbonnets and shawls.

They are Old Order Amish, a branch of the Mennonite Church whose members refuse to conform to our modern technological way of life. Some 43,000 Amish live in isolated communities thruout the United States and Canada, with sizeable groups in Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Ontario, as well as Pennsylvania. In an increasingly industrialized world, they are a prime example of an almost static group which places a premium on preserving the ways of the past. Many of their traditions are centuries old and the Amish are reluctant to adapt them to the rest of society and civilization.

Among the basic Amish beliefs are — baptism of believers only, refusal to bear arms or to take oaths, and the importance of rejecting worldly concerns. The Old Order Amish do not use churches, but gather in the homes of the community to conduct religious services.

John A. Hostetler, an ex-Amishman who is presently a sociologist at the University of Alberta, has studied his people and written a fascinating account, "Amish Society," recently published by The Johns Hopkins Press.

Amish life is pervasively religious, Dr. Hostetler points out. Not only do Amishmen worship God by the traditional means of song and prayer, but they carry religion into all aspects of everyday behavior. Religious beliefs control their agriculture, health practices and economics, as well as their conceptions of the universe and their place in it.

Their occupation, choice of friends and marriage partners, and even their means of travel are determined by religion. Religion forbids the Amish to engage in war, politics or a business with an outsider as partner. There are also restrictions against the telephone and electricity, and Amish children are allowed to receive only a limited education.

Even their much-publicized opposition to the social security tax has a religious foundation. For an Amishman to pay social security is to admit that the government has a responsibility for the welfare of the elderly, and to admit such a thing is to deny the Amish faith, which teaches that the individual Amish community is solely responsible for all its members.

Despite the effort to preserve the old and degrade the new, Dr. Hostetler points out that change does occur within Amish communities. Ball bearings have been adopted on carriage wheels, dairy barns have been remodeled to meet health standards required for selling milk, hair is cut shorter from one generation to another, and some communities have gone so far as to allow limited use of electricity. The influences of American culture, Dr. Hostetler thinks, are inevitably finding their way into Amish life.

All European Amish groups have disappeared — assimilated into the general culture and reunited with the rest of the Mennonite Church. Dr. Hostetler speculates on the future of the Amish tradition in North America and realistically concludes that "Amish society will thrive or perish to the degree that it can provide community and personal fulfillment for the children raised in Amish homes."

Cocktail Lounge to Be Put on TV Program

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (AP) — A cocktail lounge in New Albany is going to put on its own television program, using patrons or the cast.

The camera, which will be mounted in the lounge and relay pictures to a television set in the front window, will enable passersby to see what's going on — as required by Indiana law.

The bar is in an area with no windows on the ground floor of a motel. That created the problem because the law says you must be able to see inside.

St. Paul Did Not Write Epistles, Computer Says

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) — The electronic brain of a Mercury computer has touched off a fierce controversy here on the subject, who wrote the Epistles of St. Paul?

The author was not St. Paul, according to the Rev. Angus Morton, a Scottish minister and mathematician. The apostle wrote only a handful of the letters that have been credited to him, and which have become a part of Bible canon.

To prove his point, Rev. Morton recently fed the Pauline Epistles into a Mercury computer. The results show that St. Paul wrote only five of the 14 epistles attributed to him, the clergyman maintains. The remaining nine epistles were written by at least five different people, he says.

The importance of Rev. Morton's findings lies in the fact that St. Paul was the dominant figure of early Christianity, according to theologians here. If it can be proven that the epistles represent the conflicting views of different men, instead of stages in the development of St. Paul, then these same theologians may have to revise their ideas of early Church history.

"Theologicans all over the Christian world," says the Church of Scotland minister "must jettison doctrines that have now been shown to be without foundation. The authority of the church as the interpreter of the Bible must go."

Rev. Morton will tour the United States and Canada this winter explaining his computer experiments, which he began seven years ago. In Chicago he will be the guest of R. M. Grant, professor of New Testament studies.

Here in Britain his findings have upset Roman Catholic and Protestant churchmen alike, though some have rallied to his support.

The Anglican Bishop of Woolwich finds them misleading, preposterous and even unscientific. "The idea of religious authority trembling before the computer is fanciful, as Mr. Morton must know it to be," sniffs the bishop.

From the Catholic side, the Rev. Thomas Corbishley of the Society of Jesus comments: "It is a pity that he (Rev. Morton) has devoted so much space to intemperate attacks on his theological colleagues and so little to a clear exposition of his scientific method."

Rev. Morton's problem, as he explains it, was to find reliable indicators whereby the authorship of the epistles could be tested. One such indicator, he claims, is length of sentence.

A writer may use sentences varying in length from one word to as many as 200, but the distribution of sentences of different lengths tends to be characteristic of him alone.

Among the six other tests of authorship which the clergyman finally worked out were the use of the word "and" and of the verb "to be."

Rev. Morton then obtained a $2,240 grant from the Carnegie Trust to buy a machine on which to type out Greek texts so that they could be read by an electronic computer. The works of a dozen Greek authors varying from Socrates to Aristotle were punched onto paper strips, and the resultant 600,000 words were fed to the computer.

"We found that our tests apply to all these writers of Greek prose regardless of the length of time over which they wrote or the variety of their subject matter," says Rev. Morton.

The tests then were applied to the Epistles of St. Paul, with the results already noted. The five epistles which Rev. Morton found indistinguishable, and therefore presumably written by St. Paul, are: Romans, First and Second Corinthians, Galatians and Philemon.

Watching his grandfather put the blocks of salt in the back of the pickup and climb in behind the wheel, Rodney exclaimed, "You're forgetting something. You didn't put in the pepper!"

Malaysia Says Sovereignty Is Condition

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Malaysia declared Saturday Indonesia and the Philippines must recognize Malaysia's sovereignty and territorial integrity in any solution to the three-nation southeast Asian crisis.

Malaysia laid down these conditions in blunt exchanges with its two opponents at the foreign ministers' meeting convened to resolve the dispute.

"Any solution which takes no account of these two principles is totally unacceptable to Malaysia," a member of the Malaysian delegation told the other delegations, conference sources said.

Later, Philippine Foreign Secretary Salvador P. Lopez conferred privately for more than an hour with Malaysian Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak on the Filipino claim to Malaysia's North Borneo state of Sabah.

The two men said the exchange of views was cordial.

Lopez and the Malaysian foreign affairs secretary, Ghazali Shafie, will fly together Monday to Pnom Penh, Cambodia, to join in the talks between Philippine President Diosdado Mac-Apagal and Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

The claim to Sabah and Philippine recognition of Malaysia are expected to be the main topics.

Red Terrorists Continue Strife in Venezuela

By WARD CANNEL

CARACAS, Venezuela (NEA) —The thing began simply. Out of the faceless crowd going home to lunch and siesta, an old man fell into step and began to recite a monologue in toneless Spanish heavily accented with rum.

"Reporter," he said, looking straight ahead. "American. You have been asking to meet with the terrorists. Go at 3 o'clock to the museum. Wear a raincost. Smoke a pipe. Tell nobody."

Then he faded as quickly as he had come, leaving behind the confirmation that perseverance was sometimes rewarded.

As to the rest of the old man's message, there was about it all the cold information of an obituary notice. Terrorism in Venezuela is no child's play. And the wise man bars his door with several locks before he goes to sleep.

At 3 o'clock the museum is not yet open and the plaza befor it is empty. The contact arrived from nowhere.

She was a blonde with a clean, businesslike composure that might have marked her as a nurse had she been in white. As it was, she wore a raincoat.

"Buenas tardes," she said precisely. "Good afternoon. You are looking for information, I believe. Let us walk a little way together."

She directed the route casually but definitely through a grove of flamboyant trees to a small marble bench partially obscured by a heavy growth of rhododendron and began at once to explain.

"The poeple of Venezuela," she said, "are tired of United States interference and support of dictatorships. We are fed up with our own government that calls itself a constitutional democracy but mocks the words by outlawing communism and putting political opponents in jail. We have had enough of rule by businessmen who rob us, turn our workers into slaves and pirate the wealth out of the country.

It was almost no use trying to ask her to be specific.

Wasn't it true that the extreme left had been panalized only after increasing terrorism culminated in senseless massacre of helpless workers and farmers?

Wasn't it true that business profits had been sharply reduced over the past five years, with rents coming down and returns on investments dropping from 30 per cent to a more reasonable 6 to 10 per cent?

"It is only a tactic," she said, "to get them re-elected."

Well, hadn't business associations in Venequela put a great deal of money into founding primary schools, setting up a national peace corps and training young villagers to be leaders?

"And at the same time, robbing them of the chance to think for themselves," she said.

Was it true that the U.S. supported dictatorships in Latin American when the Dominican Republic had still not been recognized by Washington after its military takeover of an elected presidency?

"What about Viet Nam?" she demanded triumphantly.

What about Fidel Castro?

"The people of Venezuela," she answered, "are tired of U.S. interference and support of dictatorships. We are fed up with . . ."

Clearly, it was time to go.

"Wait a moment," she said. "I have some inside information for your newspaper. There will be two fires tomorrow and a bombing on the weekend . . ."

Suddenly the picture became sharp and clear.

"If you like, I can send you other information from time to time through the usual channels.

"Perhaps," she continued quickly, "you would like to meet some of our leaders and possibly write some stories about them . . ."

It was press agentry in its most savage and certain form, trying as usual to turn public clamor into a cry for the client's product.

All of it, from the bombings and burnings to secret meetings under the flamboyant trees was designed only to make the early editions. That people died for it was only incidental to the plan.

Three days later, a security officer in the Ministry of the Interior halted this reporter to ask:

"Did you learn anything from the lady in the museum plaza?"

Federal Funds Are Sought for Land Tillage

DENVER (AP) — Colorado Gov. John A. Love is joining in a drive to obtain federal funds for a land tillage program designed to prevent development of a dustbowl on the eastern plains.

The governor conferred with Dewey Carnahan, head of the Agricultural Stabilization Commission in the state, then announced he will send a letter supporting the program to federal officials.

State. Rep. Forrest Burns, D-Lamar, had been advocating state endorsement of the plan.

No state money is involved.

The plan calls for the federal government to furnish 80 per cent of the cost of the deep tillage — known as chiseling — with the landowner furnishing the remainder of the cash.

The governor's endorsement of the program is not in any sense a designation of any district as a disaster area.

Viet Nam's New Strong Man Becomes Premier

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's 36-year-old strong man, announced the formation of a new government Saturday with himself as premier.

Dapper in paratrooper's fatigues, Khanh read the list of Cabinet officers from the steps of his office building and vowed to "bring forth all our strength to repel Communist aggression, to bring security to our people, especially those in the countryside."

Khanh named the popular Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh as chief of state. Minh, leader of the deposed military junta, is expected to have only nominal power.

Minh will live in Saigon's Gia Long Palace, formerly occupied by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. Minh, who led the coalition of generals that ousted the Diem regime last Nov. 1, was overthrown by Khanh's swift, bloodless coup on Jan. 30. bloodless coup on Jan. 30.

While a crowd of politicians, diplomats and newsmen listened in a parking lot below, Khanh disclosed his list of three deputy premiers, five ministers and 10 secretaries of state.

Explaining what he called the new government's historic mission to save the country, Khanh said: "Every act aimed at sowing disunity and act of sabotage beneficial to the Communists and neutralists will constitute a crime against the people of the motherland."

On Friday a bomb exploded in a Saigon bar, killing five Vietnamese, including a bar girl. Six U.S. servicemen were wounded, none seriously.

The explosion at the Playboy Bar was the worst terrorist act in the capital in more than a year. The night spot is often frequented by Americans. It is near a big hotel for U.S. enlisted men.

Two Men Found Guilty in Extortion Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jury has convicted two men accused of attempting to extort $60,000 a year from millionaire Ray Ryan.

Johnny Marshall, 52, of Chicago, and Charles Del Monico, 36, of Miami, were convicted Friday of one count of conspiracy to commit extortion and one count of interstate travel in aid of racketeering.

Federal Judge Jesse W. Curtis granted a directed verdict of acquittal on a third count of interstate travel with criminal intent.

The judge denied a motion for a mistrial requested by the defendants' attorneys. He set March 2 for probation hearing and sentencing.

Marshall uses that name on the West Coast and in Las Vegas, Nev., and it is the name under which he was indicted. However, in the Midwest and mostly Chicago, he is known as Marshall Caifano, a longtime hoodlum leader of its underworld. He is awaiting trial in Chicago on charges of conspiring to defraud an insurance firm of $48,000.

Marshall and Del Monico remain free on $20,000 bond each.

The counts on which they were convicted each carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

A third defendant, Allen Smiley, 52, of Los Angeles, was acquitted earlier on a directed verdict.

During the five-week trial, the defense contended Marshall and Del Monico were collecting a debt for veteran gambler Nick (the Greek) Dandolos.

Dandolos, named in the federal complaint as an "unindicted co-conspirator," said Ryan had cheated him out of more than $500,000 in a rigged game of low-ball poker in Las Vegas, Nev.

Advertising is the voice of free choice.

Decisions. Decisions. Decisions. Big ones. Small ones. Which candidate? Which razor? We wonder. We weigh the facts. We choose.

Advertising is just one form of free speech. Selective buying is just one form of free choice. Working together, they make free enterprise work—to the eventual advantage of all.

By exercising his right of free speech through his advertising, the seller can create mass markets for mass-produced goods—bringing the luxuries of the few within the means of the millions. By exercising our right of free choice daily, we determine the success or failure of products, of business, of public policies.

Decisions. Decisions. Decisions. The free world applauds our ability to make wise decisions in world affairs. The fettered world marvels.

Good at making decisions? Small wonder. We've had plenty of practice.

It Seems There Was SOME CONFUSION

Regarding the home with the dog patio.
The dog is NOT included.

However, we do include electric stove, dishwasher, disposal, built-in refrigerator, built-in freezer, washer, dryer, drapes, floor covering, pump-filter-heater for large plastic swimming pool, basket-ball practice court, sprinkler system, big rooms, big closets, big patio, big yard, big trees, and big park across the street. The price is big, too, but it's a big home, in one of the best locations in town. And if it takes a dog to swing the deal, we'll get one somewhere and throw it in. It Seems There Was

SOME CONFUSION

REGARDING THE HOME WITH THE DOG PATIO.
THE DOG IS NOT INCLUDED.

However, we do include electric stove, dishwasher, disposal, built-in refrigerator, built-in freezer, washer, dryer, drapes, floor covering, pump-filter-heater for large plastic swimming pool, basket-ball practice court, sprinkler system, big rooms, big closets, big patio, big yard, big trees, and big park across the street.

The price is big, too, but it's a big home, in one of the best locations in town. And if it takes a dog to swing the deal, we'll get one somewhere and throw it in. For appointment call Mr. Golden, 635-5019.

T. S. Eliot Play to Be Discussed

The Wednesday evening Great Books group will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday in Mrs. Reid's office at the public library, 21 W. Kiowa St., for a discussion of T. S. Eliot's play, "The Cocktail Party."

Frances Doty will conduct the questioning in a manner meant to bring forth three levels of discussion as to what the author means to each reader, and how that meaning may be applied in present-day affairs.

This is in line with the method of the Great Books Foundation of Chicago, and this group, in its 11th year here, is continuing under the sponsorship of the public library as a project in adult education.

Anyone may participate who reads the text as assigned for any single session or for the regular program for which new assignments are given each second and fourth Wednesday evening of each month. Future readings will include Whitehead's "Essays on Philosophy," six American philosophers; Tillich's "The New Being;" Shaw's "Back to Methuselah;" and others. Each discussion is limited to the particular assigned text and material considered therefore does not depend upon previous readings.

Further information will be given to those who call Myrtle Allen, 835-8540, or Margaret Gibson, 633-3397.

Hermione Temple Will Meet at IOOF Hall

Hermione Temple 1 will meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the IOOF Hall. Most Excellent Chief Jessie Dove will preside.

Reading Makes Child A Television Critic

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Television has little influence on the amount of reading a child does, but a child's reading habits definitely affect television's impact on his mind.

This is a major conclusion of Dr. Eleanor Maccoby of Stanford University in her new book, "The Science of Human Communication" (Basic Books).

Dr Maccoby, a child psychologist and associate professor of psychology, concedes that television "does constitute an important source of influence on children and as such is a legitimate object of public concern and public action."

"But," she said, "television is not the only, and not even the major, influence on children's attitudes and values."

Th child's parents, his teachers and his own independent reading are among the major influences that shape his young mind. The stronger these factors are, the weaker television's impact will be.

"It is in the area of the unfamiliar that television will influence beliefs and attitudes and establish stereotypes," Dr. Maccoby maintains.

She also found that a child's viewing habits has little effect on the amount of reading a child will do. In fact, the presentation of a classic story or play on television will often stimulate a child to seek out a copy of the original in the library.

But this phenomenon is rare, Dr. Maccoby finds. Few children will watch programs educationaly in nature if they can watch an entertainment program instead.

Dr. Maccoby fears that television is giving today's children a single view of life rather than a cross section.

This can be potentially harmful. Studies show that children do use television as one source for preparing themselves as future students, marriage partners and members of professional or occupational groups.

Boot Pointers Add Mileage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some simple tips to help you get more mileage out of those stylish boots:

—After boots are worn and they become soiled from winter elements, shoe trees should be placed in them. High boots can be held in position with rolled newspaper as stuffing.

—Spray smooth leather boots with a silicone waterproof covering and when treating boots that have become water or salt stained, restore with an instant shoe coloring, advises the Esquire Shoe Care Products laboratory.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Casebier of 15 N. 17th St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Brooks of 512 W. Uintah St.

Karen Colnar at the organ played nuptial selections and accompanied LeRoy Hays who sang "The Wedding Prayer," and "I'll Walk Beside You."

Mr. Casebier gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a floorlength gown of white satin and lace, styled with sculptured neckline trimmed with lace and seed pearls. The sleeves were long and tapered, and her veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried white roses and stephanotis with white satin streamers, on a white Bible.

Miss Sharon Head as maid of honor wore an aqua satin dress and carried matching carnations. Miss Patricia Brooks and Miss Patricia Lytle were bridesmaids, wearing pink satin dresses with chiffon overskirts. Their carnation bouquets matched their gowns.

Historical Art: Astronauts Aim At High Drawing

HOUSTON (UPI) — If America's astronauts have their way, crayons will be among the high priority items taken along on future manned spaceflights.

The crayons will be used by the spacemen to record details and phenomena viewed in space.

Astronauts on past flights have frequently seen things in space that never showed on their photographs.

One of the backers for crayons is Walter M. Schirra, whose mother taught him to paint. The astronaut says oil paints give the most vivid representation of colors but are unwieldy in space.

The art material must be suitable for use in pure oxygen atmosphere and around exposed electrical parts.

Schirra said he wished he had crayons aboard his flight to draw a halo he saw around the moon. It did not show on photographs taken during the flight.

The astronauts also would like to draw some of the details they have seen in space which many scientists say are impossible to see from such a height.

Astronaut John Glenn reported he saw dirt roads in Mexico. Scherra saw the wake of a water skier on the Salton Sea.

Dr. W. Ross Adey, of the University of California Brain Research Institute, claims many of the astronaut sightings are hallucinations. From the orbital altitude of 100 miles, objects should be 200-300 feet long for the human eye to see, Adey said.

"Too little is known about the fundamental physiology of vision to permit flat statements of this sort," said Dr. Duane Catterson.

Some of the center's doctors say that the unknown effect of weightlessness on the nervous system may permit a person to see better than the science of optics suggests.

The upcoming Project Gemini flights will allow one astronaut to draw a crayon sketch of his view while the other astronaut photographs the scene.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

No Resistance!

"DEAR ABBY: I have just celebrated my 16th birthday, and I would like to tell that 15-year-old what HAPPINESS means to me.

"HAPPINESS is no longer having to roam the streets of Seoul, begging for food, sleeping in doorways and under bridges, or being cold, hungry or dirty. HAPPINESS is having an American believe in me enough to take me in, give me my first real meal in years, buy me my first pair of socks, and leather shoes, and underwear, and give me a bed where I could sleep between sheets, let me see my first TV, and give me the first security I have ever known. HAPPINESS means being adopted, and coming to the United States. HAPPINESS is the opportunity to attend school again for the first time after three years. HAPPINESS is becoming an American citizen and making my parents proud of me."

This is what our son has told us many times, Abby. When we brought him to this country only 32 months ago, he could not speak, read or write English. Today he is a First Class Boy Scout, a De Molay, a straight "A" student, president of his class, and a member of the Honor Society. HAPPINESS for us is having a son like this.

We doubt that this letter is worthy of publication, but we couldn't resist writing it. — Sincerely yours, MAJOR AND MRS. R. W. M., COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

DEAR MAJOR AND MRS. M: Thank you for your wonderful letter. I can't resist publishing it.

DEAR READERS: I hope I shall be forgiven by my esteemed friend, Dr. Earl A. Roadman, for quoting a portion of the letter I received from him this morning. Dr. Roadman was president of Morningside College when I was a student there 25 years ago. Both he and his lovely wife, Irma, will soon be 80 years old.

"Dear Abby,

When Irma and I occupy separate beds, we often call to each other, 'C. Y. K'—which means 'Consider yourself kissed'.

"May I say across the ether span to you, Dear Abby, 'C. Y. K.' for you re-emphasis on happiness just as you presented it today? It says more than an entire volume I formerly recommended on the subject."

DEAR ABBY: In reference to "Fifteen and Unhappy": Happiness is knowing that you are loved by God. —Jamie in Calhoun, Kentucky

DEAR ABBY:
HAPPINESS is being able to walk.
HAPPINESS is being able to talk.
HAPPINESS is being able to see.
HAPPINESS is being able to hear.
UNHAPPINESS is reading a letter from a 15-year-old girl who can do all these things and she still isn't happy.

I can talk, and I can see, and I can hear—but I can't walk. — THIRTEEN AND HAPPY

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I have a wonderful idea for sneakers and tennis shoes in pastel colors. We girls especially love to wear the pastel colors, but once you have washed them there is not much "life" left in them . . .

My little invention was:

After they have been washed, buy white shoe polish and pour the needed amount in a cup then add a few drops of food make the exact shade you want. Mix it well and then apply as usual to your sneakers and you're all set . . .

I tried this experiment with my sneakers and the results were excellent. I'm 14 years old. —Jeannette Wallace

P.S. For white sneakers which have become discolored, the color can be changed often since food coloring usually washes right out when "mixed" with white shoe polish.

Dear Heloise:

Instead of frying bacon in a skillet we fry it in a deep, five-inch, heavy aluminum sauce pan. This way the grease does not spatter over the stove and the stove stays clean. Saves cleaning the stove later. —Sarah Johnson

Dear Heloise:

This perhaps will help someone who has stood too close to a mirror with hair spray when she was in a hurry . . . and the spray mars the mirrors.

I asked a beautician friend of mine and she told me to use nail polish remover to remove the spray from my mirror.

All one has to do is pour some on a piece of facial tissue, toilet tissue or a piece of cotton and wipe the mirror. Then clean as usual. Your mirror is as good as new again. —Janie D. Ambrosio.

Dear Heloise:

Making an egg salad used to be a job for me but now . . . instead of cutting the eggs . . . I mash them with our potato masher! (The type with the square holes) I find this does a very good job and it sure makes short work of making an egg salad. —Rita Hines

Dear Heloise:

I have a stain in my bathtub from the rubber pad . . .

I keep the pad in the bathtub to avoid slipping when I'm taking a shower.

Would some of your dear readers please help me by telling me what I can do to remove the stain? —Mrs. William

Can anybody help this woman? Just pick up that old pencil, and drop us a postcard.

Nobody cares what you write on, what kind of English you use, just so long as we help one another. Write to Heloise in care of this paper. I love you all. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever break a glass on your floor? The best way I know to pick-up the bits of glass which you can't see is to wet a piece of woolen cloth and wipe up the floor.

All the tiny particles of glass will stick to the cloth. Discard the cloth afterward. "Newark".

It's ghastly in a nice way, so don't be frightened. It, in this case, is a "spook" shoe of soft silk, lace and other fragile materials. Who calls it a ghost shoe? The designers, Herbert and Beth Levine. The shoe fit for haunting occasions has a stringy back and sides. It's bared with delicacy and for sex appeal, say the designers.

Michel Kazan believes strongly in "toujours femme" — forever feminine — fashion in hairstyles. To prove it, the coif maker suggests curls for spring. If you don't want long ones, try a wisp curl, he recommends.

Adolfo's hats for spring range from those set flat on top of the head like the "flying saucer" to those that swoop down like peach baskets. In between are handkerchief hats made of silk with silk scarves to match.

The American male, intended by nature to be the resplendent peacock, is pretty much of a chicken when it comes to selecting his fine feathers, says Ron Postal, director of the National Council of Men's Fashions. She claims man becomes a dull-hued bird early in life right after he has passed through the colorful era of the cowboy and Indian of his youth.

Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

When a singleton king is picked off on a hunch there's not much to tell your neighbors but, when this coup is engineered on a basis of cold calculation, he must lend his ear to you as you get it off your chest.

South tells today's story. The contract was six hearts. North, to be sure, was not holding back and on his fire, but the final contract was sound enough.

West chose to open the nine of spades. Declarer won, ruffed a spade and took the trump finesse. When West showed out, slight complications set in. Declarer ruffed another spade, repeated the trump finesse, and cashed the ace of trumps.

Since a trump loser was inevitable the success of the contract depended on finding the club king onside or splitting the diamonds 3-3, so that a discard could be obtained for one of declarer's clubs. Declarer, thereupon played the ace and queen of diamonds, then led a third diamond to the king on which East discarded a spade.

Since diamonds had failed to break, declarer must pick up the king of clubs, but first he gave up the trump loser to East. When a spade came back, the position was this:

Declarer ruffed. West, of course, had to hold the ten of diamonds in order to take care of dummy's seven spot. His forced discard was, therefore, the nine of clubs. South led a club and, when West followed with the ten, declarer reached for the ace, with telling effect.

South bowed modestly before partner's generous plaudits. "What a card reader! How did you figure it out?" South's answer was down to earth. "I didn't do much figuring. I happened to remember that West's only remaining card was a diamond, therefore, it couldn't be the king of clubs. So what was the use of finessing?"

COLORADO SPRINGS
PHONE 633-1382

The highly responsive interest from the January announcement of the Mesa Villa residence-apartment development included many of the nicest and most prominent persons of Colorado Springs. The generous comments regarding the brochures indicate that even before construction the Mesa Villa is widely regarded as the ultimate in housing and in real living for those who can afford the best.

The owners-managers of the Mesa Villa should, perhaps, exercise due modesty toward the success that is assured from having such a selective and compatible clientele. But, we cannot contain our pride. With this class of resident, we candidly admit that the Mesa Villa is "the best place on earth in which to live."

At this stage of development we are beginning the selection of individual apartments and of neighbors. In this regard, we desire to serve your total wishes and we therefore now suggest that you let us assist you in making an early selection...

The leasing plan and the property model are on display at the Kissing Camels Club where you may also view the site. Please let us know when we may meet with you to discuss the details of your residence-apartment.

Also, please be advised that only a limited number of residence-apartments are available for occupancy September 1, 1964, and a second group not until December 14, 1964.

The Mesa Villa is a facility for members of the fabulous Garden of the Gods Club and the Kissing Camels Golf Club.

Married Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Moore will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary today.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were married near Meade, Kan. on Feb. 11, 1914. Both were residents of Kansas for more than 50 years, living on a farm. They retired from the farm and moved to Colorado Springs in December, 1951.

To join them in celebrating the event are their two sons and two daughters and their families. One son, Orval L. Moore and his family live in Pocatello, Idaho; a daughter, Mrs. Ernest Boyd and her family are from Plains, Kan.; the other son, Arlie Moore and his family are of Colorado Springs and the other daughter, Mrs. Roger Shenkel, and her family live in Denver.

They have nine grandchildren and one great grandson.

Because of Mr. Moore's health, they are not having an open house. All of the family will be here for the occasion and will have dinner at Ruth's Oven today.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore have been residents of Colorado Springs for over ten years and are members of Southgate Church of the Nazarene here in Colorado Springs.

Heed Hot Advice On Cold Subject

CHICAGO (UPI) — Frostbite, which most frequently attacks the ears, toes, fingers, cheeks or nose, is a serious injury which can result in amputations, warns the American Medical Association (AMA).)

The first sign of frostbite is a prickly "pins and needles" feeling and then numbness, says the AMA. The affected part will turn white or gray, and later red.

First degree frostbite, similar to sunburn, is likely to attack the ears, toes, fingers, cheeks or nose. Second degree frostbite produces blisters, and third degree freezing damages deep tissues. Much of the frozen part may be lost, the AMA said.

Treat the frozen part with gentleness. Don't rub or massage. Ice or snow applied to the frozen part merely delays thawing.

Maj. Gilman To Retire From ANC

"Join the Army Nurse Corps and see the world." That's the advice of Maj. M. Laura Gilman who ended 20 years of Army nursing Jan. 31 at Ft. Carson, and is retiring to 841 W. Fifth St., Appleton, Wis.

Her father, George Gilman, and other relatives are Appleton residents. The major entered the Army from St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Appleton. She is a graduate of Mercy Hospital School of Nursing at Oshkosh, Wis.

Maj. Gilman's last assignment was head nurse in medical service at the Ft. Carson U.S. Army Hospital for one year. She came to Carson after 19 months on Okinawa, her second tour on that free world outpost.

Faraway places are familiar to this Army nurse. She has served, too, in Korea, France and Germany as well as many United States locations starting at Camp McCoy, Wis.

Her assignments have taken her as far west as Ft. Lewis, Wash., south to Beaumont General Hospital, Tex., and Ft. Sill, Okla., and north to Percy Jones General Hospital, Mich.

She is a good source of information on opportunities in the Army Nurse Corps, she admitted, adding that the Fifth U.S. Army chief nurse, Lt. Col. Florence Judd, a recent Carson visitor, asked the major to recruit 10 new nurses as her replacement.

Peel apples and remove cores. Roll whole apples in melted butter or margarine and then in bread crumbs mixed with 2 tablespoons of the sugar. Mix almonds and remaining sugar to a paste, adding a little water until well blended. Spoon into the cavities of apples. Place in a baking pan and dot each with 1 teaspoon butter or margarine. Cover with foil and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven (moderate) 40 minutes. Remove cover and bake 45 minutes or until apples are tender. Baking time depends upon size and type of apple. Serve cold with Vanilla Sauce.

Vanilla Sauce
(2 pints)

¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1-16 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
1 cup milk
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract.

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in the top part of a double boiler. Blend in egg yolks and ¼ cup of the milk. Add remaining milk. Stir and cook over hot water (not boiling) until custard thickens and coats a metal spoon. Remove from hot water and cool. Fold in whipped cream and pure vanilla extract. Serve over Almond Baked Apples.

CHICAGO (UPI) — New colors, a wide range of patterns and a trend toward contemporary styling in many lines will make news in melamine dinnerware this spring.

For the first time, contemporary styles were introduced in almost equal numbers with floral designs, the long-time favorites.

New "textured" and "stoneware" finishes, more multi-color decorations, casual border-to-border designs and added entries in two-tone "color on color" bowls and cups were offered by the 12 manufacturers of melamine dinnerware.

New colors included blueberry, charcoal and Java brown. Most popular accent colors used were green and turquoise, with the muted green tones — avocado, lime, mint and absinthe—used in 27 designs and turquoise and Bristol blue appearing in an addition 17 patterns.

Shades of brown, ranging from deep hues to the sandalwood, taupe, beige and butterscotch tones, were the second most frequently seen accent colors. Light blues and lavenders, the "hot" pinks, and yellows and bright orange continued popular in several lines.

Consumption is expected to reach a record high for 1963 when the final figures are in, says the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries. The figure for the first 11 months was about 293 million pounds, including imports.

As a staple of the American diet, shrimp are relative newcomers. Only Gulf Coast residents had access to the fresh variety before the days of refrigeration and rapid transportation. The first shrimp cannery dates only from 1840 says The Peelers Co. of New Orleans, who make automatic shrimp peeling machines. It was founded by a former Massachusetts man, George W. Dunbar, after the Civil War.

Dunbar's do-it-yourself floating cannery at Grand Terre Island made its own cans by hand; cleaned, cooked and sorted the shellfish; bagged them in cotton and canned them. Cotton and later parchment were used to protect the shrimp from darkening in the days before solderless cans were developed.

The Dunbar company now is a subsidiary of a major food packer (Wesson Oil).

So great has U.S. demand become for shrimp that millions of pounds are imported annually to augment the Gulf Coast and South Atlantic catch. They come from such areas as Mexico, South America, Spain, India and Japan, where low labor costs make them competitive with North American shrimp.

A new U.S. source is opening now in the waters off Alaska and the Pacific Northwest. States kept the miniscule shrimp that really merit the name. They average about 100 to the pound, compared with 21 to 25 per pound for medium shrimp and 18 to 21 per pound for jumbos.

High labor costs in the United States kept the miniscule shrimp off the market until the development of automatic machines that can peel 1,000 pounds an hour, compared with about 10 pounds an hour manually. The machines first made feasible commercial canning and freezing of the tiny shrimp, and now, development of a new product, breaded Alaska shrimp slices. Hundreds of tiny shrimp are frozen into a log, which then is sliced, dipped into butter, breaded and packaged for sale in frozen food cases.

The continued popularity of jumbo shrimp, usually served as shrimp cocktail, leaves the general impression that all the shellfish are expensive.

Not so, says the Peeler Co. Jumbos are the Cadillacs of the shrimp world, and priced accordingly. But smaller sizes are cheaper. Shrimp have been a staple in Gulf Coast diets for years, and are used there mostly in stews, creoles, gumbos, jambalayas and vegetable stuffings, in which a single pound of fresh or frozen shrimp or the contents of a 4½-ounce can will make a main dish for four persons. That size can, incidentally, contains the equivalent of 1 pound of green shrimp, the shrimpers' term for raw, unshelled shrimp, with heads still on.

Beard on Lamb

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Our trencherman friend, James Beard—author, lecturer and teacher—is rated as America's No. 1 gourmet. He regards lamb as one of our great meats. We asked him for suggestions for getting top enjoyment from it. Here is his enthusiastic reply:

For a welcome change, serve hot lamb with tart currant jelly or beachplum jelly. It is far more interesting than commercially made dull mint jelly.

A casserole of eggplant and tomatoes goes perfectly with roast lamb. So do curried rice or a casserole of curried mixed vegetables.

I like small pan-roasted new potatoes best with roast lamb.

With the roasted leg and the new potatoes, I serve a salad of crisp greens and sliced raw mushrooms. I add a little chopped fresh mint to the dressing made of oil and wine vinegar.

Sometimes I marinate a leg or boned shoulder of lamb for 24 hours before roasting. For the marinade I use herbs liberally because lamb has an affinity for fresh herbs. The marinade consists of ½ cup olive oil, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon freshly ground pepper, juice of 2 lemons, a clove of garlic, some thyme, parsley, oregano, onion and bay leaf and a pint of wine, either red or white. Place in a large shallow bowl and immerse the leg in the marinade. Turn frequently during the 24 hours. To roast, use same method as for unmarinated lamb.

Lamb curry is a dish universally liked. It can be made with the cheaper cuts of lamb. Serve with perfectly cooked rice, crumpled crisp bacon, preserved kumquats or pickled watermelon rind.

Program Study Course Set for Palmer High

Two classes at Palmer High School will experiment this semester with a programmed course of study as a supplement to regular instruction in English grammar, according to Harold H. Threlkeld, District 11 director of secondary education.

The programmed course selected for the experiment presents the fundamentals of grammar, punctuation, and capitalization in 2600 separate steps. As a student does each step, he immediately checks his work by merely turning a page.

A series of tests that can be used for a variety of purposes accompany the course. A student, for example, may take a test when he starts a unit and another test when he completes it. A camparison of test results will tell the student and his teacher whether he sould go on to the next unit or do some reviewing first.

Trelkeld explained that the programmed approach is not intended to replace the regular type of grammer instruction but will permit greater individualization of instruction.

"Every student will progress through the program at his own rate. Although all students start at the same place, it is doubtful that after a short time any two students will be working on the same thing," he said.

Another apparent advantage of the method is that a student knows at once whether he is right or wrong instead of having to wait until the next day. This seems to provide more incentive for students to learn and it reinforces their learning, he added.

Schools in other parts of the country have reported considerable success with programs in various subjects, according to Threlkeld; who added that is necessary, however, for each school to work out its own procedures for using the material.

The two classes at Palmer will start by using the programmed course a few minutes every day. "This kind of work can become monotonous for students in a short time; and if we have a class spend too much time on it, we may lose much of the benefit," Threlkeld stated.

"Later on when teachers have gained experience with the materials and have a basis for evaluating it, we may have to modify our procedures."

Except for the few minutes the students work on the programmed course, there will be no change in their course of study. "They will still do regular required work in literature and composition which will give them ample opportunity to use the mechanics of English," Threlkeld said.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

Waving the Flag

After two weeks of fighting Chinook winds, international disputes, dangerous conditions and even a tiff with the local law, the IX Winter Olympic Games come to an end in Innsbruck, Austria, today. It's about all over except the toting home of gold, silver and bronze medals to the various lands, but it's certainly been interesting from every standpoint.

No Excuse

The climax came Saturday with the second and third place finish by two American skiers in the glamorous men's slalom and the victory by the Russian hockey team over Canada for the world's title. And all that's left for today were the few remaining hockey games to complete the standings and the closing ceremony.

The other day a voice on the phone probably reflected the thoughts of many people as to the Olympics. The question asked was what "point value" is there for placing first, second or third in the Games and how do they figure the standings.

The answer, of course, was that there are no points awarded for victories in the Olympics — for either individuals or countries.

Actually, the Olympic officials discourage even the standings kept by the press by medals won. The idea of the Games was merely for international competition by individuals but not to compare country against country by scores of these contests.

But it's only natural, especially when everybody's out waving the flag for something, that unauthorized or not there would be a value placed on the top three places. By the number won by the good ole USA in these Winter Games, however, we might have been wise to protest even the publishing of results.

Still, it's near impossible to keep any and all nations from using these Olympics as a comparison against each other. It's just that it comes a little easier for the country on top, and it's a blow to the pride and ego of a big-powerful land like ours to take it on the chin . . . even rationalizing that these events aren't down our alley.

Some would like to substitute such contests as football or baseball for a few of the games played now. But then a country like Borneo probably would like to insert the art of head hunting on the calendar, where they undoubtedly could do better than some peoples who aren't as experienced. Kinda funny how everyone's out of step but us, ain't it?

The foremat will remain that the Olympics will include only the sports which are played by the majority of nations involved. It's just unfortunate that we can't stick to the original intention of these Games and take the individual competition at face value instead of trying to prove who has the better bomb by the pounds of gold they collect.

By the way, I wonder when some people will ever give up!

Evidently they have short memories to not recall the financial flop which resulted from bringing the World Hockey Championships here to Colorado a couple years back. They don't seem to remember the slim crowds that watched the majority of games, or the trouble involved in getting certain team into this country and the threat of cancelling out all the top squads.

But they're right back asking for more.

This is in reference to the request to hold the Winter Olympics in Colorado in 1976 in conjunction with the anniversary of both the birth of the United States and the Centennial State we live in. There's no doubt as to whether the bid will ever go thru, but with a guy like Thayer Tutt of the Broadmoor

Regis Upsets Air Force Academy In Third One-Point Loss, 70-69

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Master tactician Bob Spear has been wondering just what's the matter with his basketball machine this winter. And with good cause — his Falcons would be sporting a fancy 13-3 record today had it not been for five games this season in which the Air Force Academy has blown leads in the final minutes only to lose by three points or less.

Even worse as far as giving the amiable AFA coach nightmares these evenings is the fact that no less than three of those narrow defeats have been by only one point. And this is happening to a team that over the years has built a reputation as being unbeatable in the clutch.

The other games are a different story, but as for Saturday night's 70-69 defeat to Regis College of Denver, it was pretty obvious what was wrong with the Falcons. Their strategy backfired just as tho they had pointed a loaded gun in the opposite direction. It was just as deadly.

One of the main trademarks of the Academy in past seasons has been the cool and collected manner in which Spear has schooled his Falcons in the gentle art of the stall. That is, given a fair sized lead in the final few minutes, the Cadets have always been able to protect same with the deliberate and near flawless floor play.

Among the vital ingredients of this strategy, tho, is the ability to convert free throws — especially when the bonus short or one-and-one is in effect. This was the cog that was missing on Saturday.

This time the Falcons had a seemingly safe lead of seven points with little over a minute to go in the game. That might call for some of the 2,200 who packed the Cadet Gymnasium for this annual classic to head for their cars. But it's a good thing for at least the Regis fandom that they stuck it out.

Actually, the Air Force went into their famed stall with even more time left on the clock as they paced the Rangers by five with 2:24 remaining. It worked for over a minute and then sophomore Scott Etnyre poured in a layup off the molasses type offense to apparently sack up the game. He missed the free throw that was tossed in on the play, and that was the beginning of the end.

Regis took the ball and immediately trimmed the margin by two on a corner shot by forward Jon Rapp. Air Force had another opportunity to chill the game as veteran Rich Porter had the bonus shot opportunity at the free throw line, but he missed all together.

Regis snapped at that chance and this time guard Bill Whalen drilled one from 30 feet to cut the margin to 69-66. An interception again gave the Rangers the ball and this time guard Tony Reed was the hero for the Denver team as he canned a pair of charity throws to pull the Rangers to within one.

The key play of the game then followed as the Air Force tried to take the ball from out of bounds. The press from Regis paid off and little Johnny Judd was tied up by Reed. Regis took the tip and fed to lanky Cozel Walker and the crafty 26-year-old sophomore easily dunked it in for the go-ahead bucket.

There was but seven seconds on the clock by the time the Air Force was able to call time out. The plan was for Judd to fire from straight-away, which he did, but it missed by inches. Rich Porter got the rebound and pushed it goalward for another miss, and as the buzzer sounded the Falcons were still trying to tip the ball into the hole.

* * *

(Gazette Telegraph Photo)

It was more of a frantic finish than most had bargained for, altho both teams had similar records. The AFA now stands at 8-8 for the season and Regis has an 8-7 mark. But the Falcons were definitely favored because of the home court and the tougher opposition earlier in the season.

This was the first victory by Regis' Coach Joe Hall over Spear in the yearly battles, and it was the first time in six years the Rangers have won. The last time Regis won was in Denver in 1958 in another overtime game. The series record now stands at 5-3 in favor of the Falcons and this broke a five-game streak of AFA domination.

In that it has been a wacky series all the way, this was typical. A couple of the incidents involved Hall, the victorious coach of Regis. The first was at halftime with his Rangers leading, 38-31. For some reason, one of the Regis fans bolted out of the stands and pushed referee George Janzen. Before the swarm of police around the place could get into action, however, Hall grabbed his partisan and drove him about three rows deep into the crowd. It was the last anyone saw of the over-excited Regis fan.

Another odd incident came in the middle of the second half when the scorer stopped play to tell the officials one of the Air Force players hadn't reported into the game. The contest was held up for some 10 minutes, but they finally decided he must have reported after all. Hall protested the game — that was forgotten at the final gun.

For the most part it was a case of not having a Cadet able to stick with Regis' Walker, a 6-5 center from Clinton, Ky. He ended the game with 26 points, coming from various angles around the court but mostly from finger-tip length from the rim.

The Air Force was led by Judd's 18 points, with senior Mike Pavich contributing 16 and Porter and Etnyre 10 each.

The game was tied five times in the first half with each team leading by slim margins at times. Regis kept the lead until the halfway point of the second half, but then the Falcons started hitting and finally stretched the margin of seven with 1:16 left in the game.

That's when the stall began — and the roof fell in.

Minnesota Clips CC In Second Straight, 4-2

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. —The Golden Gophers padded their lead in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association and Colorado College dropped further into the cellar of the WCHA Saturday as Minnesota swept the two game series here, 4-2. Friday night the Gophers had won, 3-0.

These same two teams will return play next weekend when this time Minnesota travels to Colorado Springs for Friday and Saturday night battles at the Broadmoor World Arena.

The double loss here all but eliminated the Tigers from Colorado in the race for one of the top four final spots in the WCHA standings. Coach Bob Johnson said he thought they would have to at least split with the Gophers here to be able to gain fourth place and a berth in the four-team post-season playoffs for the right to represent the league in the national tournament in Denver.

Next week's game, however, probably will be rated a tossup, with this time CC holding the home ice advantage.

Minnesota took a 2-up margin the first period to set the tempo of the contest as Lorbo Grosso scored both openers for the Gophers. Craig Falkman added a third in the second period before the visiting Tigers could get their first score of the series off goalie John Lothrop.

Doug Woog made it 4-1 for the Gophers late in the middle stanza and CC's defenseman Bob Otto finished up the scoring with a final period tally.

Similar to Friday night's battle, there were few penalties called on either team. Only four infractions were called Saturday, three going against Minnesota's Falkman, including a 10-minute misconduct.

The win gave Minnesota a 7-1 record in league play as they shot out of a tie with Michigan which existed before the weekend. Michigan, in non - league action this weekend, has a 5-1 mark.

In non-league action Saturday night, Denver got only a 4-4 tie with the University of Alberta in Denver to go with Friday's 7-0 shutout. Michigan State turned the tables on Duluth Branch (Minn.) with a 4-2 win after dropping the series opener on Friday.

Kansas State Registers Win Over Buffs, 60-59

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) —Kansas State knocked Colorado out of a tie for first place in the Big Eight Conference with a 60-59 overtime basketball victory Saturday.

The triumph pulled K-State into second place at 5-2 behind front-running Oklahoma State 5-1 and dropped Colorado to third at 4-2.

Okla. State Rips Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Oklahoma State blended deadly outside shooting by Gary Hassmann and Larry Hawk with Jim King's rebounding and ripped Missouri 80-61 Saturday night to stay on top in Big Eight basketball.

Hassmann led the scoring with 18 and Hawk hit 17, 14 of them in the last half as the Cowboys pulled away after a close first half.

It was the first victory in Columbia for Coach Henry Iba's Cowboys in their six years in the Big Eight. The crowd of 4,400 was the largest in Columbia in six years.

The victory was OSU's fifth in six league games while Missouri, in fourth place, dropped to 3-3. Iba's team was tied with Colorado for first place before the game.

M-Sgt. Alfred O'Neill, in his first season as Army's rifle coach, came to West Point from Fort Benning, Ga., where he was assigned to the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit.

Skiers Kidd, Heuga Cop 2-3 in Slalom

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—A couple of nerveless, 20-year-old whiz kids of the ski slopes, Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., and Jim Heuga of Tahoe City, Calif., sent American prestige skyrocketing with an unprecedented silver-bronze finish in the men's slalom Saturday in the fading Winter Olympic Games.

Kidd, a mild - mannered New Englander not long out of high school, won second place and Heuga, a slight, 145-pound University of Colorado student, captured third for the first skiing medals ever won by U.S. men in this giant snow and ice spectacle.

Both were beaten by just a fraction of a second — the flick of a flashing ski—by Pepi Stiegler of Austria in two runs down ice - slick Birgitzkoepfl Mountain.

Stiegler, a blond athlete of 25, was timed in 2 minutes, 11.13 seconds for his two shots down the gate-dotted courses, measuring 513 and 503 yards.

Kidd, rallying from sixth place after a disappointing opening run, turned in the fastest race of the day with a 60.31-second, breakneck finishing effort for 2:11.27. Heuga, disdaining cap and goggles despite light snow and sub - freezing temperatures, registered 2:11.52.

The Soviet Union's hockey team clinched the championship and another gold medal for its country by beating Canada 3-2 in a hard-skating, furiously waged battle, marked by a third period fight among the fired-up players.

The Russians, completing the round-robin tournament with a perfect 7-0 record, succeeded the United States, which never came close to matching its dramatic Cinderella performance of the 1960 Games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

The Yank puck-chasers closed on a high note, beating winless Switzerland 7-3 for their second victory in seven games and a fifth place finish, but the game was marked by unpleasantness.

A fight between Dave Brooks of St. Paul, Minn., and Swiss defenseman Max Ruegg broke out in the second period. Brooks threw Ruegg's stick into the stands and, as a result, drew a match penalty—the first of the tournament — and had to leave the rink.

The Russians' hockey medal boosted their total to 25, eleven gold, and including a bronze picked up earlier in the day in the 40-kilometer men's cross country relay skiing race.

This mighty test of speed and endurance went to Sweden, which rallied with a tremendous anchor leg by Assar Roennlund to beat out Finland, second, and Russia, third.

The Swedes were tied in 2 hours, 18 minutes, 34.6 seconds for the approximately 25 - mile trek over the hills and through the forests of Seefeld. Finland, anchored by double gold medalist Eero Maentyranta, clocked 2:18.42 and Russia 2:18:46.9. The United States team finished 13th in the 15-team field in 2:39:17.3.

Neither the United States nor Russia is expected to pick up anything in the 90-meter jumping on Bergisel Hill which brings the Games to a colorful climax Sunday just before they blow out the Olympic torch—not to be lighted for another four years.

The spectacular performances by Kidd and Heuga in the men's slalom were especially gratifying to the Americans because, although their women have won nine skiing medals, the men never before had won one.

"It is the biggest upset in skiing history," said many Olympic observers.

"This is the greatest day for Olympic skiing," said the U.S. coach, Bob Beattie of Boulder, Colo. "These boys are young. There will be lots more."

A crowd of 30,000 swarmed into the Lizum Valley for one of the Games' most exciting and most difficult events.

Francois Bonlieu of France, the giant slalom winner and heavy favorite, took a tumble on the first run and had to abandon the race. His teammate, Guy Perillat, also fell but managed to continue, placing 12th. Schranz took a fall, missed a gate and had to go back to complete it, dropping from second after the opening run to 24th.

Americans never were in the 40-kilometer relay race, which quickly developed into a battle among Sweden, Finland and Russia.

Jim Shea of Lake Placid, N.Y., held the position for the third 6.2-mile tour, but Bower, with the slowest time of the four at 40:15.2, fell back to 13th at the finish line.

Western Bounces Back; Tops CC

By DICK FOSTER

Everything was back to normal Saturday night at Cossitt Hall, as the Colorado College Tiger cagers dropped contest number 12 for the year, 76-66 to Western State, after defeating the same squad Friday night for the Bengals first victory of the season.

Western State's Lavern Blue sank a field goal after one and a half minutes of play to make the score 2-0. The visitors never lost the lead. Altho the Tigers were able to muster several strong attacks in the second half, after trailing by at least eight points thruout the first period, Western State was always able to drive down the home squads efforts with some variety of their wait-and-shoot offense, which also had some good time consuming factors.

Only the flare-up of tempers made the otherwise dull first half interesting. Western State was cruising lazily along with a ten point lead at 13:20 when Western's Tom Brunich and CC's Bill Pelz elected to take potshots at each other's face instead of the basket, using fists instead of a ball. The outcome was a double technical, and both were ejected.

A pair of guards, Dave Herrington and Steve Scheidler, gave CC their hopes — small as they were — of staying close enough for a comeback. Herrington sank 24 points, most of which came from atop the key, while freshman Scheidler dumped in 12 points, all on outside shots. Pete Susemihl was the only additional Tiger in double figures, hitting 13 points.

The visitors started off with a quick lead when Blue hit a fade shot. Western worked this lead up to five points as Blue added a free throw and another fielder and Dave Adams connected for two points. The first Bengal score came amidst Western's early bombardment and with 17 minutes left Western led 7-2.

CC managed to keep it close for a short time after that with fielders by Herrington and Susemihl. But the visitors then started to pull away and it was for good this time. The Tigers were down by no less than eight points for the remaining 13 minutes of the half. At some points the margin Western held was as high as 13 points. They coasted to a 10 point halftime lead, 41-31.

The second half saw the entire stands as well as the Tigers themselves, unite to form one big rally. And it worked too. The Bengals were able to slice Western's methodical offense to a panic-stricken, scurrying lot. The visitors' lead leaked away until the CC squad trailed by only one point with 11:45 left. It appeared at that time that the Tiger team would make a real go at it, but even tho things were nip and tuck, thru the rest of the half. Western State recovered their pose and slowed the pace down, regathering the points that had strayed.

After seven fast moving minutes, from the 11:45 mark to 4:40, the Tigers made a 'go of it, trailing by three and four points. The outsiders by Herrington and Scheidler were a vital, 14 point contribution in those seven minutes.

It was 63-60 with Western holding the edge, when Paul Weber of the same institution kicked in two buckets and a pair of free throws to rack up a 69-60 count against the hometowners. Again a lazy Mountaineer offense ate up most of the clock, scoring where they could to keep pace with still slightly hopeful CC.

Dave Adams contributed 25 points to the Mountaineers' cause, leading his squad and tying for the game's top position. Adams hit eight from the field and connected on one hundred per cent of nine free throws.

Weber hit for twenty points and Lavern Blue, ejected in the second half for slugging, hit for 12. Western State held the edge in rebounding which was an aid to their control pattern. The taller Mountaineers gathered in 39 rebounds and CC collected 26.

BETWEEN THE LINES

BY LOY HOLMAN

If the Olympics did come here it would have to be split between Colorado Springs, Denver and probably Vail, Aspen and Steamboat Springs. No one area has all the facilities needed, but a combination of all has everything. The biggest problem would be transportation between sites, but by then we may all be flying around like buck Rogers of the 25th Century.

Skiing could be at Vail or Aspen, jumping at Steamboat, and hockey split between the Broadmoor and the Denver Coliseum. Along this line, there have been some preliminary plans made to erect a complete Winter Playground at the Broadmoor's Rosemont Reservoir just to the west of the Springs, replete with a big grandstand, chalet-type lodge and better roads to the area.

It will be remembered that it was at Rosemont where the U.S. speed skating team trained for the Olympics, in December and January, before going on to Innsbruck. At that time, officials with the squad remarked that the ice conditions there probably are the best in this country. They were good enough for Terry McDermott to win this nation's only gold medal with only a few weeks of training.

If the Olympics were headed here, this might become one of the top speed skating sites in the world.

There will be those mighty disappointed over our showing in the most recent Games, soothed only slightly by the tremendous performance of the skiers in Saturday's slalom, but equally disgusted with the inexcusable behavior of our so-called athletes who had the brush with the Austrian law this past week.

There's no doubt that in the eyes of the rest of the world that any triumphs we had could hardly make up for the arrest and suspended sentences of Colorado's Bill Marolt, Washington's George Farmer and Oregon's Mike Hessel, in the alleged charge of distrubing the peace and resisting the cops. They were in another land, and thus had no excuse for other than the best behavior at all times when representing their country.

That will soon be forgotten. But how long will be remembered that the U.S. finished miserably in most events at Innsbruck — for which there is also no excuse?

This touches a point which we have been trying to make for some time, without an apparent listening ear. That is, we have been about a century behind the times as far as our attitude toward women in athletics.

If certain people in high places would only realize it, it was not our men that made such a poor showing. Russia was certainly the leading medal maker in the Olympics, but the USSR did no better than the USA in gold ones — if only the men were counted.

The Russian women won six individual goldies while their men had but one. The hockey team and pairs entry in figure skating had the others.

But why should we expect more from our gals when they aren't given even the slightest chance. They are outlawed from competition in high school, having to disguise an event as exhibition if held at all, and the situation is no better in our colleges.

Even in sports which should come naturally to the gals — like swimming, gymnastics, skiing or even track — they are discouraged from competing. And without opposition there is no chance for improvement in any type of athletics.

So let's hear no wailing over our Olympic results, no matter if it has cost us dearly in international prestige. We have no one to blame but ourselves.

Wildcats Roar From Behind To Defeat Gallant T-Birds

By TOM CUSHMAN

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Pueblo Central's flying Wildcats, displaying the poise of the champions they are soon to be, roared from 19 points behind in the second half Saturday night to upend a gritty Wasson quintet 73-65 before nearly 2,000 fans at the Palmer Gymnasium.

The victory moved Jim Ranson's slick frontrunners three-and-a-half games to the fore in a South Central League race which is suddenly turning into a runaway. Trinidad pulled into a second place tie with Centennial by upending Pueblo South 74-71 in the only other conference action Saturday.

Wasson, showing no letup following its stirring final quarter win over Palmer Friday night, was on the verge of the season's most astounding upset Saturday. The Thunderbirds, once again hustling every inch of the way, had the unbeaten 'Cats buried under a 19 point deficit with only 2:11 remaining in the third quarter but finally folded as the cool Central club applied a vise-like press and came streaking from behind in a startling rally.

The Wildcats, picking off passes and sinking shots from every conceivable angle, melted that seemingly insurmountable margin in slightly over six minutes to regain the lead at 61-60 with 3:40 left in the contest and win going away.

Once again it was the brilliant tandem of Carl Bodam and Rick Shelton that triggered the uprising and then added the punch as the 'Cats steamed down the stretch. Bodam finished with 33 points to follow up a 40 point effort against Centennial Friday and Shelton had 20. In the fourth quarter alone, the Central duo accounted for 20 of the team's 27 points with Bodam dumping 11 and Shelton 9.

Not enough can be said for the gallant Wasson club which insists on staring the most top-heavy odds straight in the eye. The Thunderbirds thrashed Central at its own running game in the first quarter; then applied the breaks and gave the 'Cats fits with ball control until the Pueblo five finally broke thru with its telling drive.

Clay Chambers, dropping an amazing variety of shots, led the Wasson scoring with 18 points, but three other Thunderbirds were in double figures. Charlie Steel and Ron Nighswonger each had 14 and in addition divided 29 rebounds. Jim Smith added 11 points.

Central had one brief lead in the first three quarters and that came shortly after the opening tip on a Bodam jump shot. Steel tied it 10 seconds later for the T-Birds and Chambers fired them in front on the next trip down the floor.

From there the hustling 'Birds slowly cracked open the gap with sizzling shooting and alert defense. Central rallied shortly before the end of the period to pull within 20-18 but four straight points by Nighswonger gave the Thunderbirds a 24-18 margin heading into the second stanza.

The Wildcats' rebounding ace, Bob Price, was summoned to the bench with three fouls early in the second quarter and Wasson quickly took advantage to scoot off to a 10 point lead in the first four minutes. Another flurry near the end of the period saw the T-Birds pound in 10 straight points to carry a stunning 43-26 advantage to the dressing room.

Central, with Price again on the sidelines after picking up his fourth infraction, could do nothing with the deficit thru most of the third quarter. With 2:11 remaining Wasson had a whopping 55-36 bulge and local fans were sensing the prize triumph of the campaign.

Then, with a sudden fury, back came the 'Cats. Shelton and Bodam divided eight quick points as Central pulled to within 57-46 at the end of the period. Wasson went into a stall game at the outset of the final quarter but even that wouldn't snap the momentum. Finally, with 3:50 to go, Shelton shot the Wildcats into the lead at 60-59.

The T-Birds refused to quit, however, and twice more forged ahead on field goals by Steel. With 2:30 left Shelton put Central on top to stay at 64-63 and the 'Cats quickly upped that margin to four points. John Wickham's bucket brought Wasson within 67-65 with 1:40 left but Bodam wiped out the comeback hopes with two quick baskets that sealed the T-Birds' doom.

Wasson is now 3-6 in the SCL and 5-8 for the season. The 'Birds return to action Thursday against South in Pueblo and then come home to meet East Friday night.

Trinidad Nips Colts In Pueblo

PUEBLO — Surging Trinidad socked Pueblo South with a 24 point third quarter here Saturday night and rolled on to a 74-71 victory that moved the defending champion Miners into a second place tie with Centennial in the South Central League.

Trailing 40-38 at halftime, Trinidad streaked in front behind the shooting of ace Jim Toupal in the third period, outscoring the Colts 24-11 in that decisive stanza. A South rally in the final minutes failed to overhaul the suddenly - potent Miners.

Toupal fired in 29 points to pace the Trinidad scoring and was aided by 19 from Mike Vecchio. Ron Schwab had 29 for the Colts.

Salida Tops Buena Vista; Panthers Lose in Overtime

Salida scored a decisive 73-53 over Buena Vista and Adams City nipped Harrison, 63-62, in overtime Saturday in non-league competition.

The Spartans' 6-7 towering center, John Lantz, spearhead the victory over Buena Vista with a 25-point performance. In addition to his scoring, Lantz pulled down 34 rebounds.

CSC Rally Overhauls Mines, 65-47

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) —Colorado State College trailed for much of the game but came back with a rush in the last 12 minutes to give Colorado School of Mines a 65-47 beating in a Rocky Mountain Conference basketball contest Saturday night.

Monument Records 12th Win

The current leader in the Black Forest League, Lewis-Palmer, recorded its 12th victory this season with an impressive 64-54 win over Strasburg Saturday night in non-league competition.

Meanwhile, Elbert toppled Colorado D&B, 38-29, and Bennett waxed Elizabeth, 84-35, to round out Saturday's non-league slate in the Black Forest League.

Monument's leading scorer, Danny Pierce, pumped in 23 points to spearhead the Lewis-Palmer victory. Despite a 21-point performance by Danny Weller, the Elizabeth five succumbed to a 38-point fourth quarter by Bennett.

Robin Kelly paced the Elbert cagers with 11 points while D&B's Jerry Jones hit for 15.

HAMMER-LOCK HOLD—Air Force Academy center Roger Head (white uniform) seems to be trying to pin Regis' Joe Miller with a wrestling hold, but actually they were merely fighting for the ball in Saturday night's wild game at the Academy. Regis' Chuck Ducar is the acting "referee" near the wrestling match. The Falcons blew a seven point lead in the final two minutes to lose, 70-69. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

There on the ice was Cagoni doing a comedy routine which would be a headliner with an professional ice show in the country. The fans actually booed when the Dartmouth squad returned for the next period — cutting Cagnii's comedy act.

Later in the 6-5 victory, the ebullient foreign language major from Colorado suffered a shoulder injury. It was questionable whether Cagnoni would be able to dress for the important match with Princeton the next night.

But by the initial faceoff, Cagnoni was out there in his familiar No. 10 jersey. And it was he who scored Dartmouth's first goal of the game and assisted on the marker which put the Green ahead for good in the third period. Swift and rugged, Phil has seven goals and five assists in 11 games this season, ranking third on the Green team in scoring.

This weekend Dartmouth was to play second place Harvard in the feature of the school's famed Winter Carnival. Both suffered only one Ivy League loss, but Darmouuth had one one more victory. Then next Wednesday, the Green is to take on Middleberry College in another top game, and as usual, Phil will be expected to be right in the middle of the action.

Cagnoni has been a featured skater in the summer ice shows at the Broadmoor World Arena in Colorado Springs for many years. Last summer a knee injury kept him out of action, so he played an organ accompaniment for the regular Broadmoor skaters. The latter, of course is a more recent achievement.

Cagnoni has been skating since he was two years old, but did not sit down to the organ until the late age of six.

Besides his hockey play with the Cheyenne Mountain High School team in the Springs, Phil also holds a Midwestern Sectional figure skating title, and he is a past champion of the state in speed skating. He is one of the few skaters who combines talents in hockey, figuress and speed.

Also an accomplished SKUBA diver and an amatuer astronomer, Cagnoni hopes to pursue both these hobbies when he goes to Salamanca, Spain, to study for the spring term. An honors student thruout high school, he has been on the dean's list at Dartmouth for exceptional marks in class.

"I couldn't go to Spain last term with the other Dartmouth foreign study students because of hockey," Phil said apologetically. "However, I will be leaving right after our final Cornell game on March 7 — just in time to join the group from Vassar going to Spain."

With a twinkle in his eye from that quip, as usual, Cagnoni keeps 'em laughing wherever he goes.

KEEPS 'EM LAUGHING—Phil Cagnoni, junior winger on Dartmouth hockey team, has been also providing the fans with a few laughs as he goes into a comedy skating act between periods. The native of Colorado Springs has been a big reason his team currently leads the Ivy League standings.

'Good Joe Award' Slated For QB Club, Monday

The annual presentation of the "Good Joe Award" by the Colorado Springs' Quarterback Club is scheduled for noon Monday at the club's weekly meeting at the Candlelight Inn, 3800 N. Nevada Ave.

This award goes yearly to the local man judged to most resemble the late Dr. Joe Lewis in friendliness, service to youth, and promotion of all forms of atheletics.

Dr. Lewis was a past president of the Quarterback Club, as well as a civic leader active in many organizations and activities. He died suddenly Dec. 14, 1959, and since that time this award has been given in his memory.

IT PAYS TO BORROW

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Pennel, the world's first 17-foot pole vaulter, ought to make it a habit to borrow poles.

When Pennel scaled 16 feet outdoors for the first time last March, he reached the height with a borrowed pole. In his second indoor meet of the season, the native of Coral Gables, Fla., reached 16 feet 4¼ inches. It was his first time over 16 feet indoors.

White Tops Roth For Golf Title

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La., won the Women's Golf Championship of Palm Beach Saturday in a 5 and 3 victory over defending titlist Nancy Roth of Hollywood.

It was the 23-year-old Miss White's third victory in four winter tournaments. She previously won tourneys at Sebring and Ormond Beach. Miss Roth won the other tournament—the Helen Lee Doherty championship at Fort Lauderdale.

Top Field Heads for AAA Tourney

By TOM CUSHMAN

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

If present trends continue, there'll be some new faces as well as a few old ones when the state AAA basketball tournament convenes in Denver early in mid-March.

If the regular season had ended following games of Friday night, only three of last winter's eight teams would make this year's bracket. Englewood, a first round loser a year ago, is currently atop the Northern League, while East Denver, the state runner-up in 1963, heads the Denver League. In addition, Wheat Ridge, the 1963 state champion, has moved into a tie for first place in the Jefferson County League and may have an opportunity to defend its title.

Altho there will undoubtedly be some shuffling of standings in the final weeks of the regular campaign, if the teams in command Saturday morning were to wind up that way, the tournament lineup would look like this: Englewood, East Denver, Pueblo Central, Littleton, and either Alameda or Wheat Ridge would represent the five AAA conferences as champions.

Since the Jefferson County automatically qualifies its second place team also (on the basis of having the current state champ), either Wheat Ridge or Alameda would still go, regardless of who finishes as league winner.

The other two entries are decided on the basis of playoffs between the second place teams of the remaining four leagues. Presently that would send Greeley of the Northern League against Centennial of the South Central and Westminster of the Adams-Arapahoe against Manual of the Denver loop.

There is still a chance for a couple of last year's other tournament teams to make the return trip. Both Trinidad and Pueblo South are still in the running for second place in the South Central. They were to meet Saturday night in Pueblo. If Trinidad won that contest, the Miners would then be tied with Centennial. A south victory would leave the two of them tied with Pueblo East, one game behind the Bulldogs.

Aurora Central, currently in fourth place in the Northern League, also could make it back with a flawless stretch run. The Trojans, 8-4, trailed Greeley by two full games going into Saturday night's action. Cherry Creek and South Denver, the other two 1963 entries, apparently have little chance. Cherry Creek trails Westminster by only one game at this point but the Bruins do not appear to be in the class with the top two teams. South Denver is hopelessly mired in the Denver League cellar ith an 0-9 mark.

By leagues, here's how it stacks up at present:

SOUTH CENTRAL — Pueblo Central was the state's only unbeaten quintet going into Saturday night's contest with Wasson. A victory there would have moved the Wildcats within three wins of clinching the crown. Thus far, they have certainly appeared as the class of the circuit. Four teams, Centennial, Trinidad, Pueblo South, and Pueblo South, and Pueblo East, are still very much in the running for the second place berth with not one league team actually eliminated. Trinidad's defending champions appear to be the best bet at this point, due to a more favorable schedule.

NORTHERN LEAGUE — Greeley fought off Longmont Friday night to take over undisputed possession of first place in this rugged conference and it appears that the championship struggle between the Wildcats and Englewood will go down to the wire. Longmont, Aurora Central, and Fort Collins are all still in the running but Northern League followers seem to feel that the present leaders will wind up as the conference's representatives.

DENVER LEAGUE — East Denver, with the entire starting five returning from last winter's AAA runnerup, was an early choice for the 1964 state championship but the Angels got away to a slow start. They have been coming on swiftly, however and just last weekend took over the lead in the Denver circuit. They had another key game with Denver Lincoln Saturday night.

Manual, unbeaten until last weekend, held second going into Saturday's action and the Thunderbolts, a veteran tournament team, are still the best bet to join East as the league's entries. North, West, and Lincoln are still in the running, however.

JEFFERSON COUNTY — Three teams, Alameda, Wheat Ridge, and Lakewood, appear to be a step ahead of the others and should decide, not only the conference champion, but also the league's two automatic berths between them. No two are clear cut favorites at this point, altho Lakewood presently trails the co-leaders by one full game.

ADAMS - ARAPAHOE — Littleton (5-0) practically walked under the crown with a 58-54 win over Westminster Friday. The Lions own a two game advantage with only three to play. Westminster remains as the top choice for the second spot altho none of the other teams have actually been eliminated.

WHAT'S GOING ON OUT THERE?—It's tough for the little guys when it comes to watching a basketball game under conditions such as the ones that prevailed at the Palmer Gym Friday night. The estimated 3,000 fans that crammed into every corner of the local gymnasium to watch another tingling battle between Palmer and Wasson made a few innovations necessary. Here's the system hit upon by a couple of the more ingenious youngsters, who discovered that looking under is sometimes easier than looking over. They got quite an eyeful, too, as Wasson came from 11 points behind to post a final minute 55-53 win in an excellent basketball contest. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Chiefs Net Shutout in YAL Action

The Chiefs scored a 3-0 shutout over the Gladiators, the Royals nipped the Beavers, 3-2, and the Barons and Hawks battled to a 2-2 deadlock to highlight Saturday's Young American Hockey slate at the Braodmoor World Arena.

The Baron -Hawks Middleweight division contest found both goalies, Tom Walkers of the Barons and Dan Buckley of the Hawks make seven saves each as Mark Robinson and Jerry Garrett tallied goals for the Barons and Bruce White and Bill Mummery posted scores for the Hawks.

Steve Miller registered two goals and Paul Robinson tallied the third score to pace the Chiefs over the Gladiators in Heavyweight division play. In the Lighweight game, Kirk Padgett, Dick Simpson, and Jeff Williams scored the necessary goals to pace that 3 - 2 triumph over the Beavers.

Art Wiggins and Al Trombridge put the losers on the scoreboard with a single tally each.

St. John's Upsets Loyola

JAMAICA, N. Y. (AP)—Billy Lawrence calmly dropped in two free throws with seven seconds left to play and brought St. John's, N. Y., a 71-69 upset of nationally ranked Chicago Loyola in a regionally televised basketball game Saturday afternoon.

Loyola, the defending national champion, was ranked ninth going into the game.

Lawrence, fouled by Jim Coleman, cashed in on a one-and-one situation to break a 69-all deadlock and give the Redmen their third straight vicotry. The Ramblers are now 14-5.

Texas Tech Slips Past SMU, 85-83

DALLAS (UPI)—Texas Tech overcame Gene Elmore's 35-point shooting exhibition Saturday to down Southern Methodist 85-83 and stay close on the heels of Southwest Conference basketball leader Texas A&M.

Tech, down 3 points at the half, went ahead 80-79 with 5:18 to play and never again relinquished the lead. The Red Raiders stalled the rest of the game.

It was Tech's fifth victory in six conference starts and kept them on the heels of the undefeated Aggies, who played Arkansas at College Station Saturday night.

Dub Malaise scored 25 points to lead Tech, including the field goal that put the Raiders ahead to stay and another field goal and free throw during the closing minutes. He had plenty of help from Harold Denney with 16 points and Glen Hallum, Tom Patty and Norman Reuther with 12 each. Jim Brockman had 13 for SMU.

SMU led off-and-on through the game, but never by more than 3 points. Tech twice in each half held 6-point advantages.

Michigan Posts Win Over Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Bill Buntin and Cazzie Russell helped Michigan strengthen its Big Ten basketball lead with a 93-82 victory over Illinois Saturday.

The triumph was the seventh in eight games for the second-ranked Wolverines while Illinois dropped back with a 3-2 record.

Several times early in the second half, Illinois pulled within one point of the lead but never could overtake the Wolverines.

Centennial To Conduct 48-Day Meet

DENVER (AP) — Centennial Turf Club will conduct a 48-day horse race meeting between July 3 and Sept. 7.

J. C. (Bud) Dozier, Centennial president, said at a news conference Saturday the meeting might be extended for five days ending Sept. 14. Last year Centennial held a 58-day meeting.

Dozier also announced that the minimum purse will be raised to $1,500 from $1,200. For a 48-day meeting the total purse will be $780,100.

General Manager Ivan Thomas said the increased minimum purse is expected to attract better horses for the meeting. The July 3 opening will enable Centennial to attract stables from Omaha's Ak-Sar-Ben meeting which ends July 4.

The track earlier announced a 61-day meeting opening in May but this plan was rejected by the Colorado Racing Commission.

Thomas said as an illustration of the growth of the thoroughbred industry in Colorado 900 horses foaled in the state in the last three years have been registered with the New York Jockey Club.

DU Gymnastic Team Topples CSC

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—Denver University took first place in every event Saturday to defeat Colorado State College 73-32 and scored its 32nd straight dual gymnastic meet victory in three years.

Cager's Tot Follows His Career

By DUREN CHEEK
United Press International

Terry was watching herd addy in action at the University of Tennessee fieldhouse for the first time. There he was, running around the basketball court clad in what, to Terry at leas, appeared to be his underwear. And in front of 7,000 people!

With the exception of those two fellows wearing the zebra stripes and tooting their little whistles occasionally, though, everybody else on the floor was dressed about the same as daddy.

That yelling is a sound to which Terry is rapidly becoming accustomed because her daddy is Danny Schultz, who Vol Coach Ray Mears calls "one of the best outside shooters I've seen in eight years of college coaching."

It may surprise many Southeastern Conference basketball fans to know that Schultz is a family man in addition to being 10th ranked scorer in the SEC, a coach's-type playmaker, and probably one of the most dazzling ballhandlers in collegiate competition.

Schultz, 20, is married to his hometown sweetheart, the former Beverly Davis of Middlesboro, Ky. In addition to Terry, they have an 18-months-old son Danny Berry.

"We feel the way to make a good marriage is to take an interest in each other's activities," says Schultz' attractive wife. "He lives basketball and so do I."

Schultz, known to his teammates as "worm," began bouncing a basketball in the dirt behind his home at the age of eight. His idol was Marques Haynes, who then played for the Harlem Globetrotters and and now plays for the Harlem Magicians.

Schultz was a star at Middlesboro High, but he received no college offers. He went to Hiwassee Junior College, Madisonville, Tenn., where he averaged 17 points a game his first year and 19 his second.

When he got out of Hiwassee, an athletic scholarship was awaiting him at Tennessee.

But Schultz was a "small town boy," and the thought of playing at a big university frightened him.

"I was so nervous the first part of last season I got sick," says Schultz. "I didn't know whether I could play or not."

Most of the jitters apparently are gone now because Schultz is averaging 17.7 points per game. He scored 30 against Louisiana State and 32 in a double-overtime loss to 7th ranked Duke.

"He would be a good ballplayer if he couldn't shoot," Mears says of his 6-foot guard. "But he is a great ballplayer because he can shoot. Danny is also an excellent ballhandler and dribbler."

Dribbling behind his back is old hat to Schultz and he uses it effectively to shake off the defense. He also is notorious for setting up a fake play, and while the opposition watches to see what is going to happen next, he suddenly cracks in a long jump shot.

Schultz is the key man in Tennessee's 1-3-1 offense and does the work of two guards. "The defensive team puts the pressure on Danny, on him alone," says Mears. "It's up to Schultz to see that the ball is moved around the patterns set up to give us the good shot."

Schultz says he's a "terrible" loser. "I can't take losing," he says. "Don't get me wrong. I don't get mad at a team for beating us. I just get mad at myself for losing."

Elston Howard of the Yankees paced American League catchers hitting in 1963 with a .287 mark, two points higher than Earl Battey of the Minnesota Twins.

Winter Olympic Games End With 90-Meter Ski Jump

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — The snowless, accident-plagued, highly policed ninth Winter Oympic Games come to a close Sunday with the spectacular 90-meter ski jump at Berg Isel Stadium.

Russia ran away with the honors with France, Finland, Norway, Germany and Austria distant runners-up.

Terry McDermott, Essexville, Mich., boosted American pride by winning the 500-meter speed skating race in the Olympic record time of 40.1 seconds and then Saturday. Billy Kidd, Stowe, Vt., and Jimmy Heuga, Tahoe City, Calif., two 20-year-olds, startled the ski world by winning second and third in the men's slalom—first medals ever for American men in skiing.

Other American medalists in one of the best showings the United States has made in the Winter Olympics were Jean Saubert, Lakeview, Ore., tied for second in the ladies' giant slalom and third in the special slalom, and Scott Ethan Allen, Smoke Rise, N. J., third in figure skating.

The police were everywhere, tangling frequently with press, spectators, and even contestants. In one of the most spectacular episodes, three American team members were arrested, accused of stealing an automobile and resisting police.

The arrests were unprecedented in Olympic history.

They were Bill Marolt, 20, Aspen, Colo., skier; and George Farmer, 25, Seattle, Wash., and Mike Hessel, 21, Eugene, Ore., members of the toboggan team.

The auto turned out to be one they had permission to use, and after spending two nights in jail they were all fined. Farmer and Marolt were given suspended prison sentences, and Hessel was acquitted of the main charges.

Individual honors in the games went to Lidia Skoblikova, a 24-year-old dimpled Russian with a smile she can turn on or off at will and who is all steel inside. She won all four medals in ladies' speed skating, a feat never before accomplished at the Winter Games.

She was closely pressed by a teammate, Claudia Boyarskikh, who won the 5- and 10-kilometer ladies' ski race and anchored Russia's winning ski relay team.

Eero Maentyranta of Finland won gold medals in the 15- and 30-kilometer ski races.

Sixten Jernberg of Sweden stamped himself as the greatest Nordic skier of Olympic history by winning the 50-kilometer race on top of numerous honors in previous Games, and then adding a second gold medal by anchoring Sweden's winning relay team.

Two athletes were killed in pre-Olympic training, and constant bickering attended the toboggan and bobsled races where thaws made the runs hazardous.

All the time, there was a scarcity of snow. Alpine slopes were bare and brown for the first time in 60 years. Austrian soldiers brought in the white stuff and packed the ski trails to make competition possible.

The closing ceremonies will be short and simple. Instead of a parade of athletes there will only be a parade of flag-bearers. The big Olympic torch that flares from a metal bowl held by slanting, modernistic tubes will be extinguished. Innsbruck will take custody of the white, five circled Olympic flag, and a call will go out to athletes of the world to assemble four years hence at the next Games in Grenoble, France.

In all, 36 nations were represented here with teams that totaled 1,311 including trainers and officials. There were actually 928 athletes taking part.

The largest crowd in Penn State football history — 49,388 — turned out last Columbus Day when Army beat the Lions, 10-7.

Fearless Fraley's Facts

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures from the busted-beak circuit:

Mouthy Cassius Clay's howling nonsense as he prepares to meet Sonny Liston for the heavyweight title apparently is thought by gaseous Cassius to be sure-pop, grade-A publicity, but it actually is getting on the Liston camp's nerves.

"All I'm afraid of is that one of these times he's going to get too close and Liston is gonna bust him in half," says Liston advisor Jack Nilon. "Call it build-up, and stupid build-up at that, but if Sonny gets hold of him it's goodbye to a six-million-dollar bundle."

Liston, who was all sunshine and light when he arrived to train for the Feb. 25 bout, has started acting like a bear with his tail in a trap. Once again he's his old surly, un-sunny self and Friday he flew all over trainer Willie Reddish for giving him a "loose head-gear" when sparmate Leotis Martin twice fetched him stiff knocks on the schnozzola . . . All I know, Cassius, is that I wouldn't want this guy mad at me . . .

Joe Louis, the "Brown Bomber" who once ruled the heavyweight roost, is around Liston's camp as an "advisor" and looks sleepier and heavier than ever. He reports that George (Babe) Nicholson, his long-time sparmate with whom Old Fearless went to high school back in Woodbury, N.J., when Abraham Lincoln was a boy, is "working on the docks in New York . . . ."

The fight mob is gathering rapidly to get in on the final training stages of this embroglio. But as a sign of tough financial times, King Levinsky, on hand with his familiar box of neckties, is selling them for one buck each . . . and predicting Liston in two . . . .

Young Jack Kearns, son of the old "Doc" who managed Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker, is making his move in Cauliflower Alley. He has patched things up with heavyweight Jeff Davis and is negotiating to meet the winner of the February Brian London-Henry Cooper match in London.

Third - ranking heavyweight Ernie Terrell is on the scene to take a peek at the two who stand in front of him. He sparred 90 rounds with Liston before Sonny's "fight" with Al Westphal and declares imperturbably that he is "unimpressed" with the champion . . . which could change if they ever go at it without headguards . . .

Nobody seems to notice him, but light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano works out in the same gym with Cassius Clay for his April 18 title defense at New Orleans against Greg Peralta. Even Pastrano's five-year-old son deserts the old man when Clay arrives on the scene.

Liston's Wrenched Knee Rises Up to Haunt Champ in Training

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

MIAMI (UPI)—The wrenched knee which incapacitated Sonny Liston 10 months ago rose up today to haunt him in preparation for his world heavyweight title defense against Cassius Clay.

Not that there is anything wrong with the knee at the moment. And advisor Jack Nilon says that all precautions are being taken to make certain that Liston is in top shape for the bout at Miami Convention Hall on Feb. 25.

But in discussing the knee injury which caused postponement of Liston's title defense against Floyd Patterson last March an eminent Miami doctor cautions that the champion could have developed a "trick football knee" which might go out under pressure.

Dr. Duke Biard, who examined Liston's knee at that time, has a quick "no comment" when asked about what might happen to Liston's knee if he twisted it again.

But it was Baird's report before the Miami Beach Boxing Commission last March 19 which resulted in postponement of the second Liston-Patterson bout subsequently fought in Las Vegas.

"An examination showed a thickness in the knee joint," Baird said at tht time. "I points to the possibility of torn cartilage."

Baird added that there was a question in his mind whether the injury was a strained ligament or torn cartilage and that the latter possibly might require an operation. Liston rested the leg and was able to defend successfully against Patterson at Las Vegas late in July.

Yet, that was a one-round fiasco in which Liston plowed straight ahead with the unchecked momentum of a truck runnng downhill.

What happens, the question asserts itself, if gaseous Cassius gets on his bicycle—as expected — and makes Liston chase him for an extended period of time? How much can that knee withstand in the matter of twisting and turning for a man who has fought only three rounds in three years?

"These's no way of telling," said a medico who asked, for professional reasons, that his name be withheld. "But if Dr. Baird detected a 'thickening in the knee joint' that means there is swelling and soft tissues, much like in a football knee."

All of which makes for interesting speculation. Liston is a steady 5 to 1 man-to-man favorite and there are many who think he could stand on one leg and flatten Clay. But young Cassius figures to run and whether Liston can match him in the legs—as well as in the fists —is one of the intriguing imponderables.

Bayer Takes Phoenix Open Lead

By HAL WOOD
UPI Sports Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Ex-football star George Bayer blasted out of a trap and then rolled in an eight-foot pressure putt for a birdie on the last hole Saturday to take the third-round lead in the Phoenix Open golf tournament with a 54 - hole score of 202.

The 240 - pound slugger, sticking his approaches tight to the pin on nearly every hole, carded a six-under-par 65 round to take a one-shot lead over South Africa's Gary Player who eagled the final hole to fire a 66 and get a 203.

Longshot Bobby Brue of Milwaukee had a 67 for 204 and Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus a 205 after a 68.

Tony Lema, leader at the halfway mark with a 136 total, continued having the putting miseries and had to settle for a 71 for a 207 score that tied him with Dave Marr, Bob Rosburg and National Open champion Julius Boros.

Bayer, admittedly playing some of the finest golf of his career, was out in 33 and back in 32 on the 6,765-yard Phoenix Country Club course.

He had six birdies and no bogeys on his round with his longest birdie putt coming from 18 feet. The big hitter, so strong that he used six, sever and eight irons for a second shot on the par five holes, was never in trouble.

"I've been playing super golf," said the former University of Washington athlete. 'Friday I could have had 18 birdies with putting luck. Today I missed four greens, but one-putted them all for pars."

Bayer has not won a tournament since 1960, although he often has been a major contender.

Player was sitting in the clubhouse with the lead in his lap and watched Bayer explode out of the trap and get his birdie to take the lead.

Gary, playing his first tournament in the United States since last fall, knocked in a 50 - foot putt for an eagle on the 18th hole to the cheers of the crowd.

He also had a 25 - foot birdie putt on the 12th and two other.

He had nines of 35 - 31. His rounds were 72-65-66.

Bradley Pulls Upset Over Wichita

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Reserve junior guard Leon Hall fired a one-handed shot from 18 feet in front of the basket as the game ended giving Bradley a 76-74 upset basketball victory over Wichita Saturday.

The loss was the fourth-ranked Shockers' first in seven Missouri Valley Conference games. Their over-all record is 17-4. Bradley is 4-4 and 13-5.

Bradley led all the way in the first half, holding a 38-32 edge at intermission as sophomore Eddie Jackson made 13 of his total 23 points.

Wichita went ahead 42-41 in the first minutes of the last half. From then on the score was tied four times and the lead changed nine times. Wichita's biggest lead was 71-64 with 5½ minutes to play. Heading the surge was Dave Stallworth with six points.

In the final seconds, Hall made his only points of the game, scoring the decisive field goal as the gun sounded.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
By Bob Foss

Here's a real sports teaser for you . . . Of all the heavyweight boxing champions in history, only one ever attended college . . . Can you guess which one? . . . Many people might say Gene Tunney, but that's not right . . . The only heavyweight champ who ever went to college was John L. Sullivan.

Do you know who has made the longest hole-in-one in golf history . . . The record is held by a man who was a major league baseball player . . . He is Lou Kretlow . . . a former American League pitcher . . . In 1961 Kretlow made a 427-yard hole-in-one at the Lake Hefner course in Oklahoma City . . . Most golf experts have called that the longest hole-in-one of all-time.

Here's a tough question for you . . . When was the last time an athlete was chosen to the first-team All-American in BOTH football and basketball? . . . The last man to achieve this was Otto Graham . . . Otto made this dual honor when he was both a gridiron and cage star at Northwestern in the 1940's.

11 Louisville Businessmen Sign Clay to Unique Contract

By GEORGE W. HACKETT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cassius Marcellus Clay, who is 22, owns three Cadillacs, a bus and an expensive house.

He has another luxury house for his use, rent free, in Florida. He is generous to his family and is considered "a soft touch for a buck" by some members of the entourage that usually surrounds such a celebrity.

It has taken the Negro boxer nearly four years to come this far. He still isn't really wealthy. But he's on the threshhold of big money, and its strictly in spite of himself.

"Cassius hasn't had the time or the inclination for a hard course in economics," said Gordon Davidson, an attorney and business manager for the syndicate of 11 businessmen who put Clay under a unique contract in 1960.

"We always try to do what's best for the boy. It's been an arm-twisting affair at times, but he's solvent," said Davidson.

Davidson pulled a folder from a file, and began reviewing Clay's balance sheet. It was started after Clay won the Olympic light - heavyweight crown.

The syndicate, all Louisville men but one, and all wealthy, put up $2,800 each. It wasn't entirely altrustic, but a main purpose was to help a promising Louisville boy avoid the financial chaos a lot of other prizefighters have gotten into.

With their original $30,800 the business group paid Clay a $10,000 bonus when he turned professional and underwrote the first costs of training and promotion.

They pick up the tab for all training expenses, provide Clay with the year-round home in Florida, and share his income on a 50-50 basis. Next October, this will be changed to 60-40 in Clay's favor.

Many of the disagreements between Clay and his backers have centered around the trust fund they set up for their protege. The trust gets 15 per cent of Clay's earnings after taxes, an arrangement Clay never has liked.

"He wants to have his money where he can see it," Davidson explained. "If he earns it today, he feels he should be paid today."

The trust can't be touched until Clay reaches 35 or permanently retires from the ring, whichever occurs first. By Davidson's calculations, the fund now contains $10,000 tax-free invested in stocks and bonds.

The attorney smiled when he mentioned taxes. "We don't owe Uncle Sam one penny."

He recalled that Joe Louis, among others, had his troubles with the Internal Revenue Service and added: "Cassius has been fortunate in having an unusual combination watch over him like a son. We may have been too lenient with him at times."

Davidson estimated that Clay has nearly $25,000 tied up "in his greatest weakness — autos. Girls never have been a problem with him. He's too interested in his career and we feel that he's rejuvenated boxing."

As for family and friends, "Cassius is extremely liberal with both. He has been most considerate, perhaps to a fault. He even pays part of the expenses of two or three people who move around with him."

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Billy Kidd flashed across the finish line with a grin flashing across his face.

"I feel great, just great," he said.

Asked if he knew what it meant, he said:

"Yes, I know, it's the first medal we've ever won."

Kidd had just zipped into second place in the slalom race at the Winter Olympics, assuring America of its first medal ever in men's skiing. Now he awaited the descent of Jim Heuga, another American with a shot to break into the first three.

Then, down came Heuga, on a daring attempt to overtake the leaders, skiing without cap or goggles. He sped across the finish line, also smiling, and asked:

"Oh, boy, what a run. Did I make it."

"Yes, you did," yelled teammate Buddy Werner, breaking through a police cordon to embrace Heuga, now a bronze medal winner.

"You see that, Bill. It's you and me."

Then Austria's Pepi Stiegler skied into the threesome, and pandemonium broke loose, American teammates surging on American winners and Austria teammates surging on the Austrian winner.

All three clasped each other around, shoulders, arms, and waits as they were lifted on a tractor to pose for pictures.

Heuga, his eyes moist—either from tears or racing without goggles—explained how the whole experience felt. He had been the 24th down the run, a difficult position from which to crack the leaders.

"Oh man," he said. "This was the longest wait of my life. After my first run I knew I had to make it or break it. I knew the second course was less difficult, but I really was nervous and all keyed up inside.

"Then, waiting for my number to come up was real tough, but once I was on the course I was all relaxed and I could concentrate on the job."

Stigler then paid his tribute to the Americans.

"The Americans have been very strong and today they showed they are excellent skiers. We all have known that before but it wasn't until the final race that they were able to overcome the bad luck."

"I wish I had skied faster on the first run," said Kidd, "I could have won the whole thing."

Then Beattie took over:

"This is our greatest day. Americans will never have to prove ourselves again. There were a thousand American supporters in the crowd, all yelling. All our boys were crying when they hit the first gate, they were so choked up over the American support.

"We even saw a sign in the crowd 'Good Luck, U. S. A.'"

Manager Reviews L.A. Angels

By BILL RIGNEY
Los Angeles Angels

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP)—I feel we will improve our standing in the 1964 pennant race. There are many reasons why our club didn't do better than it did last year and we're going to try to correct some of these mistakes right from the beginning of spring training.

We were pretty active during the off season revamping our roster. We now have 20 men who were not with us last spring. More changes will be made before we are satisfied with our club.

Two of the new players who should be especially helpful are Barry Latman and Joe Adcock, whom we acquired in the Leon Wagner trade with Cleveland. Latman is young and strong and should bolster our pitching. Adcock gives us right-handed balance.

Last year the opposition started 60 lefties against us. With the addition of Adcock and the possible development of Dickie Simpson, we should be able to combat that strategy more effectively in 1964.

Simpson and Ed Kirkpatrick, a left-handed hitter, are two of our brighter hitting prospects. We have high hopes for them as well as Tom Satriano, a young left-handed hitting third baseman who can move in back of the plate in an emergency and do a credible job.

We have been very fortunate in coming up with one or two good young players each year we've been in the league. Two years ago it was Bob Rodgers and Dean Chance who joined Ken McBride and Lee Thomas.

Last year it was Jim Fregosi who showed every indication of developing into a complete player. This boy is just 21 and he has shown us that he has the ability and desire to become a star.

Wisconsin Downs Purdue

Hearden entered the game late in the second half and with 28 seconds left, scored on a jump shot to put Wisconsin ahead, 81-80. The Boilermakers broke fast, but Hearden stole the ball and stymied Purdue's last-ditch attempts to regain possession for the victory.

The badger victory came despite 35 points of Purdue sophomore Dave Schellhase. He scored 28 in the first half alone in leading the Boildermakers to a 48-45 halftime edge.

Admiral Vic, Top Gallant In Dead Heat

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI)—Admiral Vic and the 50-1 bet Top Gallant, in a thrilling charge down Hialeah's long stretch, ran to a dead heat victory in the $61,600 Seminole Handicap Saturda.

For just a fleeting second, it looked like the black-coated Admiral Vic had all the money, but the lightly weighted Top Gallant came out of nowhere to put his nose on the wire and share the winner's purse of $40,040.

Also splitting the second-place money, each horse earned $26,180.

Only a length back, Sunrise Flight took down third money with a late rush that beat Garwol by a length and three-quarters. Mongo, 1963 grass champion and 6-5 favorite of a chilly day crowd of 23,334, finished fifth a neck behind Garwol in the nine-horse field.

Christine Haigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Haigler and a student at Cheyenne Mountain High School, was sent a telegram from the Student Body wishing her the best of luck in the Olympic Games at Innsbruck, Austria. Not many high schools in the nation can claim a member of the Olympic team as their own. Miss Haigler, a sophomore, is well known and liked around the school by students and faculty alike. We are proud to have Christine as a member of our Student Body and send her our best wishes.

The Cheyenne Mountain Band is known thruout the state as one of the finest high school bands around. Nine Cheyenne Band members were selected to attend the All-State Band which will be held soon. Cheyenne's nine students is the largest number of students selected from any one high school in the state. More than 600 students represented over 80 high schools in the tryouts. The following students will represent Cheyenne: Linda Owens, Tom Lorig, Don Patterson, Clayton Satow, Roberta Bender, Mary Bachmann, Bill Rhodes, Ken Gardener and Tom Brosh.

The results of the College Entrance Examination Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test were returned to the school last week. Cheyenne was indeed happy to see that three of this year's seniors received combined scores of 1400 or over. In these tests range from 200-800, 800 being perfect. Therefore, a combined score of 1,400 would mean an average of 700 on each test.

The Student Council will sponsor a sock hop February 22, after the basketball game with Denver Christian. This hop will be held in the Cafetorium of the high school. All students are urged to attend the game and then the dance.

CHILDREN'S CHARITY

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) —More than 100 dolls are on their way to some Brazilian orphans thanks to a Southern Baptist missionary and Texan children.

Miss Nadyne Brewer told children at the Ervay Mission Center in Dallas that Brazilian orphans have no dolls. One of the children suggested sending their dolls to the South American country. The Missions group was joined in the project by children from Buckner Orphanage in Dallas, and together contributed the toys. The dolls will be given to children who come to the Baptist Good Will Center and Baptist orphanages in Rio de Janerio.

CC Professor Thinks Americans Lonely People

A professor at Colorado College here thinks Americans may be the loneliest people on earth.

"The loneliness of the American," says Prof. Thomas O. Brandt, writing in the literary supplement of the German newspaper Stuttgarter Zeitung, "Concerns his inner life and cannot automatically be removed by a host of social activities."

Prof. Brandt, chairman of the department of German and Russian at the independent liberal arts college, came to the United States in 1938 from his native Austria after earning a PH. D. at the University of Vienna.

He made it clear he was not talking about solitude or "being alone."

"Being alone relates chiefly to the physical existence of human beings and can be eliminated in American life at any time, particularly since inferiority complexes are rare and class distinctions — not to be confused with status symbols — hardly exist," Professor Brandt said.

Speaking of loneliness, he said: "One is afraid of it for it means self-encounter, an inquiry into essence and meaning of our doing, fear of depth, the quietude of isolation." He suggested that Americans drink to lose themselves.

"We seem to be possessed by a desire to organize everything and to save time," said Brandt, an American citizen himself. "Once we have saved time, we invest it again in an effort to save time in other matters - ad infinitum, since we frequently do not know what to do with the time gained. Abounding in social endeavors and activities (all to the god for a democratic life) we often are inclined to consider the thinker asocial.

"We do not have much patience with a contemplative life," he said. "We prefer an active life which allows us to accommodate our fallacious belief that the only constant thing in life is change. If this were so a valid scale of values would be utterly fictitious. We strive for automation to make life easier for us. In fact, we make our existence easier but make our life more difficult.

"We have learned to get along with others, but we have not learned to get along with ourselves," Professor Brandt said. "Statistices on the number of people under psychiatric treatment or in hospitals for nervous disorders are appalling. A retired man of independent means desperately tries to find new work, he can not bear being with himself alone, to cope with what is to be the harvest of his life. He is lonely."

The Colorado College professor, author of three books, is listed in Who is Who in Europe, Directory of American Scholars, Who is Who in the West, and Kurschners Deutscher Gelehrtenkalender.

Nursing Home Residents to Get Free Hair Work

Members of the Colorado Springs Hairdressers Association will provide beauty work for about 80 shut-ins and residents of area nursing homes during National Beauty Salon Week, which opens today and will continue thru Saturday.

Working thru the American Red Cross, which is setting up schedules for the cooperating salons, members of the association will give treatments without charge Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The program is part of an annual observance during which beauty salons in the community try to do as much charity work as possible.

Salons will have open house all week in an effort to bring to the attention of the public the work they do for the public. Ninety per cent of the salons in Colorado Springs cooperate in the program.

Toni Steiner is president of the association.

Wednesday evening open house will be held at the Academy of Hair Design, 114 E. Cucharras St., to which the public is invited. Contests among students of the academy will be conducted with awards to be given to those three students who create the best and most original design.

Various members of the association will give lectures to students of local high schools on good hair grooming and styling.

Major Provisions Of Tax Cut Bill Are Spelled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the major provisions of the $11.6-billion tax cut bill passed by the Senate Friday:

Individual Rates — The present schedule of 20 to 91 per cent would be reduced to 14 to 70 per cent, with two-thirds of the cut effective in 1964 retroactive to Jan. 1, one-third in 1965. The Senate and House bills are identical.

Withholding from Salaries and Wages—The Senate bill would cut rates from the present 18 per cent to a 14 per cent one week after the measure is signed. The House bill would cut it to 15 per cent this year, 14 per cent starting in 1965.

Corporate Rates—The present 52 per cent tax—30 per cent normal, 22 per cent surtax—cut to 50 per cent this year retroactive to Jan. 1, 48 per cent starting in 1965. Normal and surtax rates would be reversed so they would wind up 22 per cent normal and 26 per cent surtax next year to give a greater break to small firms. The Senate and House bills are identical.

Capital Gains—The House bill would cut rates on stock or other assets held more than two years so any gain would be taxed at 40 per cent of normal levy with a 21 per cent ceiling and would retain the present rate of 50 per cent of regular tax with a 25 per cent ceiling for those held six months to two years. The Senate bill would continue present rates unchanged.

Itemized Deductions — The House bill would deny deductions, now permitted, for state gasoline taxes, auto tags, drivers' licenses, liquor taxes, tobacco taxes and certain excise taxes including those on admissions and hotel rooms. The Senate bill would continue deductions on gasoline taxes, auto tags and drivers' licenses.

Stock Dividend Credit Income —Both bills would repeal the 4 per cent credit on stock dividend income which may now be subtracted from taxes due. They also would double the present exclusion of such income from taxable income; the new allowances would be $100 for an individual, $200 for a married couple.

Minimum Standard Deduction —This feature, the same in both bills, would allow a flat deduction of $200 for each taxpayer plus $100 for each exemption after his own. It could be used as an alternative to the present deduction of 10 per cent of gross income up to a $1,000 maximum.

RIO DE JANEIRO — Argentina has a new tariff system.

Sutton Chosen As Judge of Law School

Justice Leonard V. B. Sutton of the Colorado Supreme Court was one of three jurists chosen to serve as judges of the annual Nathan Burkan Memorial Competition for American Law Schools.

Joining Justice Sutton were Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of the Manitoba, Canada Court of Appeal, and Mr. Justice L. McLennan of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Canada.

The national contest is open to senior law students who submit papers on copyright law to their law schools. Winning school papers are submitted to the national panel which selects firts, second and third prize winners.

The contest is sponsored by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) in tribute to the memory of the Society's first general counsel to promote better understanding of copyright law.

Justice Sutton was the first former winner to serve as a judge. He won the state award in 1951 while a student at the University of Denver School of Law.

A member of the Colorado Supreme Court since 1956, Justice Sutton served one year, in 1960, as Chief Justice. He formerly practiced law here.

Justice Sutton was born here Dec. 21, 1914. He attended local schools and received a bachelor of arts degree from Colorado College. He is an active member of various Bar Associations and is a member of the Institute of Judicial Administration, New York University.

Justice Sutton was an infantryman, ski trooper, mule pack executive officer and served as chief of the legal branch at the California Quartermaster Depot in the U. S. Army during World War II.

According to ASCAP, last year was the first year that other than American judges have been asked to serve.

The national winner, Mrs. Elizabeth Heazlett Kury of Sunbury, Pa., is a 1963 graduate of the University of Pittsburgh School of Law. She was awarded a $1,000 prize for her paper on "Protection for Creators in the United States and Abroad."

By BYRON AKERS

The 1964 senior seminar series, under the sponsorship of the Senior Co-ordinating Council of the Pikes Peak Region, will get under way Monday with the first of 10 meetings.

This is the third year the seminars have been held. They have attracted wide attention among senior citizens and members of boards and agnecies concerned with the welfare of older persons.

This year the seminars are divided into two sections.

Gellner Will Address AFA Parents Monday

Dr. Lise Gellner, director of the Gellner special education program in Colorado Springs, will address the Air Force Academy's Association for Parents of Handicapped Children Monday at 8 p.m. in the Community Center Library.

Oringinator and developer of a new concept in special education, Dr. Gellner designed her program to meet the training and education needs of "exceptional" children ranging from severely handicapped to highly gifted.

Dr. Gellner's pilot program was launched under the auspices of School District 11.

A native of Frankfurt, Germany, Dr. Gellner fled to England prior to the outbreak of World War II. She has worked extensively abroad and in the U. S. in development of her program.
